

DOCTOR CURED OF ECZEMA

Maryland Physician Cures Himself of Eczema with Cuticura Remedies. Prescribes Them and Has Cured Many Cases Where Other Formulas Have Failed—Dr. Fisher Says:

CUTICURA REMEDIES POSSESS TRUE MERIT

"My face was afflicted with eczema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies, and was entirely cured. I am a practicing physician and very often prescribe Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed. I am not in the habit of endorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for sixteen years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. You are at liberty to publish this letter, or any part of it. I remain, very truly yours, G. M. Fisher, M. D., Big Pool, Md., May 24, 1905."

CUTICURA—THE SET, $1. Complete Treatment for Every Humor from Pimples to Scrofula

ASKS HIS FEE FOR SERVICES

Atty. A. D. Ogborn Brings Suit
Against Indianapolis &
Eastern.

SECURED THE FRANCHISE.

WANTS COMPANY TO PAY HIM
$5,000 FOR WORK IN GETTING
RIGHT OF WAY TO CROSS THE COUNTY.

A suit has been instituted in the Henry Circuit court by A. D. Ogborn, a well known attorney of New Castle, against the Indianapolis & Eastern railway company for breach of contract, the plaintiff demanding $5,000.

He sets forth that he was instrumental in securing the franchise necessary for extending the road from Knightstown to New Castle and in consideration for his services, he was to receive a certain amount of securities and was also to be appointed local attorney for the company.

Since the road has been completed through to New Castle, all the business has gone to another lawyer, Ogborn alleges, when it should come to him. He claims losses amounting to between $2,000 and $2,000, but asks for damage twice the amount of his actual money loss.

AT THE THEATERS

While the country is burdened theatrically with tramp plays, few have attained any standing with theatre-goers. "A Millionaire Tramp" very first in the field has outlived all its imitators and nightly proves its popularity with theatre-goers by being greeted with overflowing patronage. But "A Millionaire Tramp" contains much interesting dialogue, excellent comedy and splendid climaxes. The fun is of surprising sort, and brings forth laughter and applause of lasting duration. The dramatic portion of the play is calculated to please a thinking public. It is constructed with a stream of morality dealing with temperance teachings and many of the lines evoke thunderous applause from the parquette as well as from the gallery. "A Millionaire Tramp" will be seen at the Gennett Theatre next Thursday night.

NEW YORK STAGE GOSSIP.

Yvette Guilbert, who is again touring America, for a goodly number of years was one of the "sights" of Paris, and so popular was she that every foreigner was soon filled with ardor to see and hear this wonderful cantatrice and character illustrator, and he who saw and heard her almost without exception trumpeted her merits far and wide. Later she won London, and nine years ago she was heard in New York and in other American cities, in all of which she was given unstinted praise for her gifts, accomplishments and exquisite art.

Upon her former visit to this country Mme. Guilbert sang and recited the Parisian popular songs of the day, but recently she has devoted herself to the revival of old French and English ballads.

YVETTE GUILBERT.

lads. The idea would seem to be an excellent one, for, except to students of folklore, these are unknown. Her repertoire comprises a large number from which she makes selections for each entertainment.

The songs which are in the narrative form illustrate many phases of character and emotion. Mme. Guilbert divides her programme into two sections—"Chansons Pompadour," being songs dating from the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, and "Chansons Crino-line," which is the classification of those composed about 1830. For each group she has an appropriate costume, appearing first in a beautiful Pompadour dress and a powdered wig of the period.

While Yvette Guilbert is not a great singer, she has a clear, pleasing voice suited to the wide range of expression essential for the full appreciation of her songs. She has the gift specially needful to a singer of such songs, an enunciation so distinct that any person familiar with the language readily follows her. It is, however, as an actress that Mme. Guilbert excels. From her portrayal of every emotion comes with that artless ease which is the truest art. With equal realism she expresses tragedy and comedy, the latter with wonderful humor.

Those who have seen and heard the Guilbert before will certainly wish to

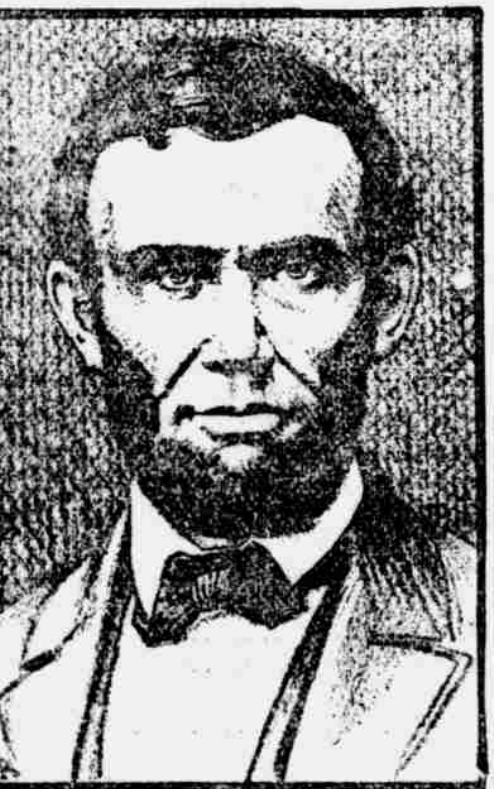

MISS VIRGINIA POPE, WHO HAS A HOSPITAL FOR BIRDS.

A sanitarium for sick parrots, canaries and other household pets of the feathered variety is the novel institution that Miss Virginia Pope has established on upper Broadway, New York city. This strange hospital has proved highly profitable, as 300 sick birds are frequently cured there at one time in addition, Miss Pope attends many of the ailing pets in their homes.

do so again, and those who have not will desire to for the first time owing to her name and fame. In her sphere she ranks as high as does Bernhardt in hers. With her are M. Armand Forest, solo violinist, and M. Richard Hageman, pianist.

Benjamin Chapin's presentation of "Lincoln" at the Liberty theatre is not a very valuable theatrical asset. Its one merit is the lifelike makeup of the actor in the role of the famous war time president. But that is not sufficient to make a successful drama.

The play is crudely put together and serves no particular purpose. It is a vaudeville sketch in an elaborated form and in no way rises above its station at the time of its birth.

Mr. Chapin wrote the play in addition to appearing in the title role. He has much to learn both as playwright and actor.

ARMSTRONG SIGNS.

Catcher Armstrong has signed with the Boston Americans.

Down on Whiskers.
A Kansas expert asks the doctors to remove their whiskers, claiming that the microbes find them a convenient place in which to build their nests and rear their young.

He doesn't want the doctor to go about dropping a word of cheer here and a microbe there and charging it all up in the bill, just as though it were X ray treatment or a prescription for 3 cents' worth of medicine that the druggist would gladly fill for 50 cents.

Whiskers have received some hard blows of late, not including those handed to them by the breezes, and probably they will have to go. But how is the young doctor to make an impression on the public if he doesn't carry around a set of whiskers on his first trip? The public may allow him to give them medicine, but they won't stand for as big charges.

Bomb Was a Bull Pup.

George Schoenich, a police detective, took to the bureau of combustibles from the New York American office a package which was supposed to contain a bomb. It was about ten inches long, one and a half inches in diameter and cylindrical in shape. It was addressed to "William Randolph Hearst, New York American and Advertiser, New York City." The outer cover was of stiff cardboard. George E. Murray, superintendent, opened it. An inner wrapper proved to be a portion of one of Thomas W. Lawson's articles, and when Mr. Murray pulled out the interior of the cylinder with a pair of pliers he found it to be the body of a small bull pup, white with black spots on it.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

When a man falls in love it really feels as though he were falling upward.

You know you were not commanded to love your neighbor as he loves himself.

When a river gets to acting up just consider the source.

If wishes were horses we would be kicking because they were not autos.

A man is apt to be judged by the roll he flashes.

Why is it that a fat man in trouble is such a funny sight?

Marrying is often a squire deal.

If your sins find you out they will settle down and cheerfully await your return.

A Fine Sight.
There are pretty bits of landscape that enrapture all who see. There's the mountain and the river and the old majestic tree.

There are many handsome babies. Where the sunlight filters through, But the dollar of our daddies Makes the most attractive view.

There are large and ancient pictures at which connoisseurs throw fits. There are others quite as pretty. There are cool and shady corners. There are photographs of ladies Who amuse us in the plays. But the dollar of the daddies Has them all skinned forty ways.

There are pretty girls in plenty. Blond, brunette and extra pale; Likewise many handsome babies. If their mothers tell the tale; There are scattered through the country Here and there some nobby gents, But the dollar of the daddies Makes them look like thirty cents.

Yes, we bow to King Mazuma As he sits upon his throne. For, while others may have merit, He is in a class alone. Others may have fair proportions, But they do not win the prize, But the dollar of the daddies Is a sight that rests the eyes.

They Can't Stay Single.

The announcement of an old maid's party in Oklahoma is evidently a mistake unless the frenzied land agents of that balmy garden spot have been doing some tall and artistic stringing. According to the true tales of travelers, an old maid couldn't last in Oklahoma as long as a snowball in Panama. As soon as an unattached lady of no matter what age gets off the train a quarter section with a huge mustache and a prospective United States senator attached begins motioning to her with such persuasive ways that she just can't resist.

It is our understanding that the only old maids in Oklahoma are the ones in short dresses, and they are all spoken for just as soon as they can bake a flapjack and boss a man. We fear that those who participate in the old maid's party will have to take their nursing bottles along.

"No."
"Nor a brick."
"That's right."
"But there is one thing she can throw."
"What's that?"
"A lie."

Headache Cured.

Mrs. Ryan, wife of Lee Ryan, livyerman on South Tenth street, says: "For years I had suffered with severe headaches almost constantly. I was told by several specialists that my eyes were the cause of it, so that I finally consented to the wearing of glasses which would help me for only a short period, when the headaches would return again. I was told that nothing more could be done for me unless I submitted to having drops put in my eyes to suspend the accommodation. I was fearful of the effect as I know of others whose eyes had been permanently weakened from the effects of a mydriatic. I consulted Mr. and Mrs. Lingerfield and Miss Switzer, as I noticed in their advertisement that they corrected all latent troubles without the use of a mydriatic. I am very much pleased with the results, as it is now nearly one year since they fitted me with glasses and my head has not ached since I have worn them. I am grateful, too, to have found some one who was able to correct my trouble without the use of drops."

Mydriatics.

We do not use Belladonna, Atropine or other mydriatics, injurious drugs all of them, and belonging to a past stage in the science of optics as applied to eyesight testing. Total dilation with a powerful mydriatic will set your eyes at rest. It will set them at rest so well that in a great many cases it will take the eyes a year or more to get back to their normal conditions, and very often rest them so well that the eyes are never comfortable again. By means of modern methods we obtain more accurate and satisfactory results without the use of drops, also avoiding much of the discomfort and often serious danger to the patient.

Mrs. Commons, wife of E. L. Commons, proprietor of the Willow Grove Dairy, says: "My eyes were more thoroughly tested by Mr. and Mrs. Lingerfield and Miss Switzer than by any other optician I had previously consulted. The glasses they furnished me are giving entire satisfaction, and I wear them with perfect comfort, which I had not been able to do before."
