

FAIRVIEW TURNED TABLES YESTERDAY

After String of Defeats West Side Team Won over Cincinnati Muldoons.

AN UNUSUALLY FAST GAME

CHANGES IN LOCAL LINEUP GAVE
NEEDED BRACE TO TEAM—
HAMILTON SHAMROCKS COME
NEXT SUNDAY.

After a string of defeats the Fairview team got together in good form yesterday and defeated the Cincinnati Muldoons by a score of 5 to 1. The game was perhaps the best exhibition of ball that Fairview has shown this season and the contest was lightening. Kelly was at short stop and Gochner on second.

The game had several sensational features. The best play was made by Weaver in the seventh inning, when, after knocking down a hard ball, he recovered and got to the base by sliding. The putout retired the side and prevented a score. Wilcox was pretty effective. He struck out eight men and had it not been for Englebert's overthrow at third there would have been no runs scored off his delivery. Englebert, evened up his error, however, by his three bager. Next Sunday the Hamilton Shamrocks play here.

Score by innings:
Mul. ... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—1 5 1
Fair. ... 0 0 0 2 0 3 0 x—5 8 2
Batteries—Retzl and Grote; Wilcox and Engelbert.

[Publishers' Press]—Chicago, Sept. 9.—Chicago made seven runs in the seventh inning this afternoon and scored another victory over the Pittsburgh Nationals. Leifield was put into place Loefer and the change seemed to demoralize the visitors, who played the inning in a most amateurish manner. Score: R. H. E. Chi. ... 0 0 0 0 0 7 0 x—7 6 2 Pitts. ... 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0—2 4 3 Batteries—Pfeister, Brown and Moran; Loefer, Leifield and Phelps. Umpires—Klem and Emslie.

REDS ABOVE THEIR GAIT.
St. Louis, Sept. 9.—The St. Louis Nationals suffered one shut out and a defeat by the score of 2 to 1 at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds this afternoon. In the first game Hall never gave the locals a show and in the second Frazer held them down to five hits. The second game was shortened to seven innings by agreement. Scores: First game—R. H. E. Collecting Fares in Montreal.
The manner of collecting the fare on street cars in Montreal is decidedly unique. Under no circumstances can the conductor touch the fare, which must be deposited by the passenger in a fare box, which is presented as the passenger enters the door of the car. The conductor will make change or sell tickets, but the passenger deposits the fare, whichever it may be, in the box. The coin or ticket does not fall into the conductor's pocket, but into a slot in the box. This gives opportunity to see if the amount is correct and the coin genuine. When once the coin drops it cannot be removed except in the company's office. After the cashiers count the day's receipts the count is checked by weighing the different coins and also the tickets.

A Viper and a Bottle.
Canon Tristram, the distinguished English ornithologist, who died recently, kept among his treasures an ordinary soda water bottle that once served him in good stead, according to the Buffalo Commercial. Once on his travels he seized upon what he thought was a lizard in the sand, but which proved to be a deadly horned viper. His Greek boatman, scared almost to death, offered no assistance. Suddenly springing an empty soda water bottle, the canon, with great presence of mind, forced the head of the reptile down the neck and slowly uncorked the remainder of its anatomy from his hand.

WRITERS AND PAINTERS.

Mortimer Menpes, the artist, is an expert shot with a revolver. It has been discovered that the late George Gissing, the English novelist, once worked in America as a gasfitter. Eden Philpotts has tried the collaboration plan. The new novel, "The Sins of War," he has written with Arnold Bennett.

Sir Joshua Reynolds needed but one sitting when intending to paint a portrait. Sometimes he would not take even that, but would casually glance at the sitter and proceed to paint the portrait.

Winston Churchill, the English author, has brought upon himself much amused criticism by a ponderous, if courteous, phrase which he used in a political argument. He referred to the untruthful statement of an opponent as a "terminological inexactitude."

After. He (five years after)—All this gush about love is extremely foolish. Wherever did this stupid book come from? I must say the person who selected it showed a very insipid taste. She (quietly)—It's the book you gave me during our honeymoon, John. We read it eleven times the first week we had it.

The way some young men are headed it looks as if they will be mighty lucky if they are ever able to live down their future.

POLO PLAYER IS MISSING

Ed. Devlin, Well Known to Local Polo Fans Deserts His Wife at Kokomo.

Elwood, Ind., Sept. 9.—Much surprise was expressed here when it was learned that Ed Devlin, the polo player, had deserted his wife at Kokomo. Friends of the wife, who was formerly Mrs. Will Hume, of this city, are not inclined to believe that Devlin has abandoned her, and believe that he had reasons for his departure and will send for his wife.

A Wonderful Canary.
A wonderful canary bird belongs to a family in Everett. The little fellow has the freedom of the house, flies whithersoever he listeth at all times. While good friends with every member of the family, he is particularly attached to the child of the house, a little girl four or five years old. When the child comes where the canary is he rushes excitedly to meet her and begins the most frantic caresses, perching on her head and shoulders and finally nestling under her ear, where he reaches round to the rosy chin and lips and kisses them in true bird fashion. But not content with this ardent demonstration he insists on making the little girl open her mouth, and then he daintily taps each tooth with his tiny beak. If she refuses to part her lips "to see what the bird will do," as she says, he scolds and flutters and even pecks at her cheek until he finally obtains his own way again. What the idea can be, unless Mr. Canary thinks the white teeth are bits of sugar or cuttlefish, it is difficult to conjecture. That he has some method in his caprice is quite evident. To no one else does he show any such marked attention.—Boston Herald.

No More Fatal Letters.
The newest thing in paper is the disappearing kind. Soured in diluted sulphuric acid and then carefully glazed it looks like the paper that abideth, but slowly the acid nibbles at the fibers under the glazing till in a week or so the substance has clean gone out of it and the place thereof knows it no more. A most convenient sort of paper—when you're the one to use it.

You can now write promissory notes without a shudder. You can flirt by mail with perfect composure. You can even sign the pledge, if you like, and after several days' abstinence rejoin your "former associates." Moreover, we're enabled henceforth to scorn the fear that some day of adversity will confront us with a "deadly parallel."

From all this it's apparent that the world's peace is at last within measurable distance of realization. The prime basis of wars is paper. It's over paper that lawsuits and battles are chiefly waged. Abolish treaties, contracts and promissory notes and you usher in an era of all around amiability.—Boston Transcript.

The Eiffel Tower.
"An immense nail disgracefully transfixing the sky" is the effective description of the Eiffel tower with which a band of aesthetes have started a crusade against the offending structure. They have consecrated themselves to preserving and increasing the beauty of Paris and cry loudly for the destruction of the ridiculous eyecore as their first effort in that direction. The Eiffel tower was originally regarded as a great wonder.

He Knew the Mule.
Seeing that the mule had kicked one of the farm hands into the air, the old man shouted to the rest of them: "Don't be standin' dar lookin' up in de elements! Go home en fix de funeral!"—Atlanta Constitution.

FOOD ON A WARSHIP.
The United States government seems to have solved the culinary problem much more satisfactorily than many private individuals, both as to cleanliness and efficiency. In the navy, on board the battleship Missouri, for instance, the cooked part of an ordinary meal for 700 men can be served in four minutes, as is demonstrated every day.

The first requisite in the preparation of food on board a man-of-war is cleanliness, and probably none of the managers of the higher class hotels or restaurants is more rigid in this regard than those in charge of the general mess on a battleship such as the Missouri. The old system, says Paymaster George P. Dyer, U. S. N., in the "Proceedings of the United States Naval Institute," the gear was not really clean. A man of the lower ratings, too often selected on account of his inability to do anything else, looked after these duties. His meager allowance of water served out from the galley was hardly more than lukewarm after carrying it to his mess and putting a few dishes through it. He had then to dry his gear with a towel which, being used for all sorts of odd jobs, cleaning tables and what not, the most strenuous efforts of the master at arms could not make him keep clean.

In February, 1904, a dishwashing machine was installed on the Missouri and human hands do not now come in contact with the dishes during the process of washing. The soiled ware in wide meshed wire baskets is passed through two waters. The first, which is kept in violent agitation, is made so strong with lye soap or other compound that the grease is cut from the ware as it is immersed. The second water is kept at boiling heat, and in rinsing dissolves any remaining dirt, besides heating the ware so that when taken from the water it quickly dries itself through evaporation. By this means the gear is rendered antiseptically clean and the use of dish towels is avoided. The knives and forks, which will not dry thoroughly by themselves, when taken from the machine are wiped with clean, boiled towels.

Among the imperative galley orders are: No stale food; time all food to be ready at time for serving out. No cold food; serve out all warm dishes hot. Take every precaution to keep food as cold as possible after coming from icebox. Inspect coiffees and mess pans and refuse to serve into any but scrupulously clean dishes.

While it is not claimed that anything like perfection has been reached, there has certainly been a striking improvement in mess conditions during recent years.—New York Tribune.

Fred Foley's Good Work With the Kibblys Is Rewarded by Mr. Frank Kibbey.

Fred Foley, right fielder and emergency infielder of the Kibbly base ball team, was presented Saturday night with a handsome gold medal by Mr. Frank Kibbey, backer of the squad. On the face of the medal is an embossed figure of a baseball player standing at the bat, while on the back Foley's name and position is engraved. Foley drew this medal by virtue of his being one of the best, hardest and most reliable workers in the City League. Foley's forte is his consistency in play, and heavy base running.

For Fifth Time Dayton Team

THIS TIME THE GIANTS

IN GOOD CONTEST COLORED
BOYS ARE DEFEATED BY SCORE
OF 6 TO 4—IMMENSE CROWD SAW CONTEST.

For the fifth time the Dayton Shilohs carried a local team's scalp home with them yesterday. The Giants fell down to the Buckeyes Sunday afternoon by a score of 6 to 4. The team which has defeated the Fairviews three times and which had already registered a shutout defeat to the colored lads, again proved their superiority. The Giants outthrew the visitors but lacked sufficient generalship and team work to carry them to victory.

The contest was an interesting one, with runs coming in small quantities. An immense crowd saw the game and was pleased with it. Manager Huckins has demonstrated to local fans that he knows how to get together a team that can play ball and it is to be hoped that he carries out his intention of putting a fast team in Richmond next year. It is certain that if he does he will get the support of the Richmond baseball public.

DOCTOR'S ALL AGREE THIS TIME.

The most eminent writers on Materia Medica, whose works are consulted as authorities and guides in prescribing by physicians of all the different schools of practice, extol, in the most positive terms, the curative virtues of each and every ingredient entering into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In fact it is the only medicine, put up for sale through druggists for the cure of all diseases of the mucous surfaces, as nasal catarrh, throat, laryngeal, and bronchial affections attended by lingering, or hang-on-coughs that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any amount of lay or non-professional testimonials.

Do not expect too much from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will not work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. Nor is the "Discovery" so good for a sudden attack of acute cough, but for the lingering, obstinate, hang-on-coughs, accompanying catarrh of throat, laryngeal and bronchial affections, it is a most efficacious remedy. In cases accompanied with wasting of flesh, night-sweats, weak stomach and poor digestion with faulty assimilation, and which, if neglected or badly treated are apt to lead to consumption, the "Discovery" has proven wonderfully successful in effecting cures.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels
