

SENATOR HOPKINS TALKS POLITICS

He Thinks that Bryan's Talks
Have Helped Republicans Wonderfully.

THE EFFECT IN ILLINOIS

DECLARES THAT GREAT RE-PUBLICAN IS THE STRONGEST
ADVOCATE FOR REPUBLICAN CAUSE ON PLATFORM.

[Publishers' Press] Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 12.—After the conference at Sagamore Hill, on the method of the enforcement of the meat inspection act, Senator Hopkins and Mr. Wilson this afternoon returned to the railroad station and the senator to "kiss off" any embarrassing questions about his visit to the president, talked freely and hopefully about the political outlook.

"Bryan's talks have helped the republican cause wonderfully," said he. "His speech advocating government ownership of railroads simply clinched the whole state of Illinois, if there had been any doubt about it in the first place. Then he attacked Roger Sullivan in Cook county, and that swung sentiment in Sullivan's favor to such an extent that now there is not the ghost of a doubt that he county is safely republican."

Mr. Bryan is the strongest advocate for the republican cause that has mounted the platform this year, and I hope he will continue to make speeches. If he does we will continue to make gains. We may lose two or three of the normally Democratic congressional districts that we gained in Illinois two years ago, but that is to be expected.

Mr. Gompers, I see, is now preparing to kill off "Uncle Joe" Cannon in the down-Danville way. I have not any idea that his attacks will hurt the Speaker at all. They didn't seem to do Mr. Littlefield very much harm in Maine. The speaker has always been a very good friend of labor and all fair minded representatives of labor organizations know that."

New Cable Company.

[Publishers' Press] Albany, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The commercial Cable Company today through its president, Clarence H. Mackay, filed papers of incorporation for a new cable company, the line to run from New York over the Postal wires to Florida and thence under the Gulf of Mexico to Havana, Cuba.

Langdon Anderson Dead.

[Publishers' Press] Cincinnati, Sept. 12.—Langdon T. Anderson, 61 years old, died today of heart trouble. He was one of the owners of the local open air resort, "Coney Island," and the line of river steamboats plying between this city and the resort. He was also one of the promoters and owners of several important interurban traction lines.

COMMON CARRIERS BUSY

State Fair Makes Plenty of Business for the Railroads and Traction Lines.

Yesterday morning was a busy one for the ticket agents at the Pennsylvania station owing to the number of people who went to Indianapolis to attend the State Fair. Over one hundred and fifty round trip tickets were sold and it is expected that twice the number will be sold today. In Indianapolis and Eastern also carried an enormous number of people all along the line. Today is recognized as the big day at the State Fair and the interurban lines will give their best services to accommodate the large crowds.

HAD PLEASANT PICNIC

Ladies Union Aid Society of Chester
Gathered at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fulghum.

Chester, Ind., Sept. 12. (Spl.)—The Ladies Union Aid Society picnicked today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fulghum. The occasion was a pleasant one, sixty taking part in it. A fine supper was served in picnic style. There was a program of songs, Edgar Menk acting as toast master. Responses were made by the Rev. Mr. Brown, J. C. Wesler and Mr. Martin.

A Pesky Little Rat.

Chester, Ind., Sept. 12. (Spl.)—Mrs. Frank Vore while trying to kill a rat fell, breaking her leg. The fracture is quite a serious one.

A Night Bloomer.

Chester, Ind., Sept. 12. (Spl.)—Mrs. Maggie Boerner has a very fine night blooming cereus, that bloomed Sunday night. The flower began to unfold at six o'clock and by 8:30 it was in full bloom and was very beautiful.

Stensland Starts Home.

[Publishers' Press] Washington, Sept. 12.—United States Minister Gummere, at Tangier, cabled the State Department this afternoon that Banker Stensland was conveyed aboard the Prinz Adelbert without any interference on the part of the Moroccan government, and that the vessel sailed direct for New York.

His Wife's Hat.

One of the stock jokes with which man—the mean, horrid thing—amuses himself is in sighing because he cannot buy a farm and an automobile on account of the expense he is put to by his wife's new hats.

To hear him delivering his favorite free lecture on this subject one might think that he made a practice of buying a flower garden lid for his better half once a week and maybe once a day during the rush season. That, dear unmarried feminine readers, is about as far from the truth as John L. Sullivan is from the presidency.

The average man is doing mighty well if he buys his spouse a bit of millinery every two years. The rest of the time she fixes the old one over, and he raves over it and pronounces it better than new. That is because he is a foxy gentleman, but he doesn't fool the neighbors or his wife's relations.

He Shrinks.

"Why are the hours after 12 called the small hours of the night?" "Because a man feels so small when he comes home and tries to explain to his wife why he stayed out."

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Greek remains a compulsory study at Cambridge university by a vote of 747 to 241.

Dr. Thomas Hunter, who has been president of the Normal college, New York city, ever since its foundation in 1869, has resigned. In 1890 he organized the first evening high school in the United States.

Final arrangements have been made between Columbia and Harvard universities for the inauguration of courses at both institutions to prepare students for work in foreign countries, either under the government or as private citizens.

Every teacher in Iowa must qualify this year in elementary civics, economics, algebra and physics, and this because a clerk made a mistake and left out that part of the bill which went to the senate in which it was stipulated that teachers having second and third grade certificates need not so qualify.

GOWN GOSSIP.

On the fall suits there will be an increased use of cords for trimming.

The ideal shore costume is both smart and practical, and this year it is fashioned of firm, smooth linen, is tailor made and handsomely embroidered.

Smart French belts of white, black or colored suede are fitted out with hinged hooks at the back and front, so that they may be made to actually fit the figure.

It is evident that the trailing skirt is going to have its innings again, in spite of all our protestations and lamentations, and we may as well submit with a good grace.

Baby ribbon run through the meshes of coarse Brussels net, row upon row, forms a pretty trimming, and pompadour or Dresden ribbons are exceedingly dainty accessories to gauzy white frocks.—New York Post.

Our Eastern Fleet.

We are sending a fleet of torpedo boats to the Philippines to ply in and out among the islands, to fire off salutes when congressional committees call and to be on hand if Uncle Sam in the guise of opportunity knocks at the door of China and is obliged to break in and tell the sleeping inhabitants that he has arrived.

These torpedo boats, while not much bigger than a cup and saucer, are veritable ferocious. They can blow up a big ship if it will stand still while they are doing it, and in the hundred days of peace they are master hands at running into mud banks.

It is a pity, though, that the officers are so dignified that we cannot make the fullest use of them, for the boats could make a noble fight on the mosquitoes of the island province if they would just dodge up the rivers and, catching these monsters unawares, throw dynamite shells into their midst.

A Diplomat.

"I didn't see the point of that joke." "Neither did I." "But you laughed at it." "Sure. I am calling on his daughter."

Religions in China.

There are three existing religions in China—Confucianism, Buddhism and Taoism. No ecclesiastical hierarchy is maintained at the public expense, nor is there any priesthood attached to the Confucian religion, although that is the state religion. The bulk of the people are Buddhists, but many, to be on the safe side, practice all three.

Roser Paid His Bet.

Some time ago Wheaton Tallent and Charles Roser made a bet that the former would not be married by the fifteenth of this month. A dinner at the Westcott to the six young men employed in the division freight office was the wager. Roser acknowledged Tuesday night that he would lose the bet and paid it in advance.

A MIDNIGHT ALARM.

How a Brave Man Lost His Nerve in a Lonely House.

As he is six feet two and is fully up to the American standard of physical courage, it is surprising to hear him tell about it.

"The folks went away on a three weeks' visit," he relates. "That's an awful big house of ours, you know, and I remained there as the sole custodian. It had been burglarized twice within my memory, but I own up right now that I used to feel a little squeamish when I turned in anywhere from 12 to 2.

"One night it was just after 1 when I clicked off the electric light. The wind was blowing half a gale, and even when there is a dead calm late at night you can hear all kinds of sounds and imagine as many more. I had a miniature howitzer under my pillow, and I recall that I grabbed the gun three different times, sat up in bed, heard my heart bounding and was ready to turn loose as soon as I made up my mind where I ought to shoot.

"By 3 I was in a doze and had ceased to strain my ears for noises when there came a 'bing' that raised both me and my hair. Honest, it was the most startling thing I ever went against. I forgot I had a gun. I rolled from the off side of the bed and dropped to the floor like a ton of pig iron. I made as good as a mile in 4 minutes, 30 seconds on my hands and knees, reached the hall, went downstairs in three jumps and a fall, went to the corner with all sails set, met a policeman, and together we hurried back.

"He carried his revolver in his hand, and I seized a $400 vase as a weapon as we passed through the hall. Just as we reached the top of the stairs there was that blood curdling 'bing' again. I dropped the vase into the hall below, and he dashed into my room, turned on the light and investigated. What do you think he found?"

"A burglar."

"No. I had left my banjo keyed up taut, and two of the strings had snapped."—Detroit Free Press.

Fun in the Parlor.

When you see a young man sitting in a parlor with the ugliest four-year-old boy that ever frightened himself in a mirror clambering over his knees, jacking his necktie out of place, ruffling his shirt front, pulling his hair, kicking his shins, feeling in all his pockets for coppers, while the unresisting victim smiles all the time like the cover of a comic paper, you may safely say that the howling boy has a sister who is in a room not twenty feet away and that the young man doesn't come there just for the fun of playing with her brother.

What He Said.

"And what did he say to my singing?" she asked. "There was pathos in it, don't you think?" "Yes, indeed," was the reply. "He seemed to feel it, too, for he said it made him think of the plaintive appeal of a sulda beneath the bars."

"How lovely of him!" exclaimed the singer, for how could she know that the reference was to a pig under a gate?—Chicago Post.

Better Still.

Little Girl—Please, Mrs. Neighbors, ma sent me over to borrow a little flour, two eggs, a cup of sugar and a pint of milk.

Mrs. Neighbors—Well, you go back home and tell your ma to come over in about an hour and take the cake.—Detroit Tribune.

RECEIVES EASTERN CALL

Rev. Enos Harvey Probably Will go to Cape Cod, Mass.—Prominent in Indiana Yearly Meeting.

Rev. Enos Harvey, former pastor of the Friends' church at Fairmount, has received a call from the church at Cape Cod, Mass. Since resigning the pastorate of the Fairmount church Mr. Harvey has received a number of calls from other places, but has accepted none of them. He thinks very well of the call from Massachusetts, however, and will probably accept it after the Yearly Meeting to be held in Richmond this month.
