

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens energy, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Do not make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. OCTOGENARIANS KILLED

STRUCK BY INTERURBAN

Aged Couple While Driving Over Tracks of the Winona Company, Near Goshen, Fall to Hear Car and Meet Horrible Death.

Goshen, Ind., Sept. 19.—While crossing the track of the Winona interurban line, 15 miles south of this place, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Jones, 84 and 85, were struck by an interurban car and instantly killed. The aged couple were seated in a spring wagon and did not see the approaching car. They resided near Leesburg, Ind.

Woman Fatally Hurt. Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 19.—Mrs. Charles Smith was struck by a freight train west of town and fatally hurt.

TRACTION MAGNATE DEAD

John R. Pearson, Well Known Business Man of Indianapolis, Stricken with Apoplexy.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 19.—John R. Pearson, for many years assistant to the president of the Indianapolis Gas company and well known in business circles, was found dead at his home. Death was the result of a stroke of apoplexy. Mr. Pearson had been engaged recently in the construction of interurban electric lines in northern Indiana.

HURLED FROM A BIG AUTO

New York Autoist Practicing for Vanderbilt Cup Race, Meets with Bad Accident.

New York, Sept. 19.—George Robertson and his machinist, Arthur Warren, were seriously injured in an automobile accident, near Mineola, L. I., while on a practice spin in preparation for the Vanderbilt cup race. Robertson was steering his 90-horsepower car over the Vanderbilt course, when at Hairpin turn, the sharpest turn on the course, the car swerved wide, struck a telegraph pole and hurled its occupants out with terrific force. Mr. Robertson sustained a broken collar bone and his machinist two broken ribs. Both were rendered unconscious. Robertson's racing car is believed to be too badly damaged to take part in the race.

Test For Ready Billed Lobsters. Should ready billed lobsters be purchased, test them by gently drawing back the tail, which should rebound with a spring. If the tail is not curled up and will not spring back when straightened the lobster was dead when boiled and should not be eaten. Choose the smaller lobsters that are heavy for their size, as the larger ones are apt to be coarse and tough. Lobsters weighing from one and a half to three pounds are the best in size. All parts of the lobster are wholesome and may be used, except the stomach, which is a small hard sack and contains poisonous matter and lies directly under the head, and a little vein which runs the entire length of the tail.

An Ancient Problem.

My gran'ma, she says, "Who are you?"
And then I ast her, "Why?"
And then I turn and ast my ma,
My ma says, "Doesn't know his name,
And five years old next fall!"
But gran'ma she said, "Who are you?"
And not my name at all.

Sometimes I'm sitting on the steps
A-playing with my blocks,
And that big boy across the street,
I see him throwing rocks.
My kiddy's sleeping in the sun;
I see her twich her ear,
And then I think that they is them
And I am me—it's queer!

Sometimes I think my name is ma.
Just like the sky is blue.
But when I say it lots of times
At once it gets a new.
It gives me something down inside—
I guess it's just a pain—
But when I go and fly my kite
It gets all right again.

There's sparkles in my gran'ma's eyes
When she says, "Who are you?"
And sometimes I jumps back at her
And sasses at her, "Boo!"
And 'nother times it makes me scared—
My winkers want to cry—
But I just snuggle close and ast,
"Say, gran'ma, who are I?"

LITTLE OTA BENGGA.

The African Pygmy in New York and the Centenary Over Him.
Ota Benga, the African pygmy brought to this country recently by Dr. Samuel P. Verner, has been the subject of a curious controversy. It was Dr. Verner who was in charge of the party of pygmies which was a feature of the world's fair at St. Louis. He returned these pygmies safely to their home in Africa, and little Ota, another member of the lilliputian community, wished to come to America, so the ethnologist brought him along. He is twenty-three years old, but about the size of the average American boy of twelve. At first Ota Benga stayed at the American Museum of Natural History in New York, as he was an object of much interest to the ethnologists there. Then he was given quarters in the New York zoological park. It was then that trouble arose. One day Ota appeared in a big cage with a monkey. Immediately a protest was made against the exhibition of a man in a cage with a monkey or other animal on the ground that it was brutalizing. Director Hornaday of the zoological gardens explained that Ota's appearing in a cage was merely a matter of convenience, as most of the time he had his freedom to run about the park and slept in a good room and took a bath every morning. He said that Ota was learning English readily, was bright and was rapidly becoming Americanized.

No Broken Heart.

Two Buffalo girls were having a heart to heart talk after the usual manner.
"Ned proposed to me last night," Violet said.
"Oh, do tell me all about it!" the other exclaimed, with an excited little flutter.

"Well, he didn't act romantically a bit," Violet said. "He just blurted out, 'Er, Violet, dear, will you marry me?' We were in the library, and he was about to light a cigarette. I gently but firmly said, 'No,' and he sighed and lighted his cigarette. He did look rather romantic then, with the smoke drifting about his blond head, and I went up and put my hand on his shoulder."
"Promise me, Ned, that you won't let this ruin your life? I asked in the most gentle, sad way I knew how."
"How thrilling!" her chum said.
"What did he say then?"
Violet's pretty mouth assumed a decided pout.
"He said," she said, with disdain, "Now, Vi, what did I ever do to make you think I was an idiot?"—Harper's Weekly.

If Hard Work and Enthusiasm Count High School Will Have Football Team.

ATHLETIC ASS'N. MEETING

PRESIDENT TORRENCE DESIRES TO SECURE USE OF GARFIELD GYMNASIUM FOR BASKET BALL AND POLO.

The football candidates are practicing earnestly every day, as though it were just before a big game, instead of the first week of school. There were fourteen candidates out to practice Tuesday evening which was an excellent showing.

The teachers who have been abroad, report a very nice time, and the students will no doubt have many a lesson cut short, to hear an experience, brought to mind by some event at school.

Prof. Torrence, president of the Athletic Association, will call a meeting today or tomorrow for reorganization, and will endeavor to arouse enough interest to make it possible to secure the Garfield gymnasium several nights a week for basket ball and polo.

The high school orchestra has already held its first meeting and a few new musicians will probably be added to that organization. They will probably have their first rehearsal the latter part of this week, so as to be ready, if possible, to play in chapel next Monday morning.

As yet no arrangements have been made for the organization of a basket ball team, but from all indications high school will present a strong line up this winter, as most of last year's players are still in school. At the present time, however, the attention of most high school athletes is turned toward football.

Not much work will be accomplished at high school this week, for the regular program has been changed a number of times, and will be changed again today, on account of the arrival of Miss Curtis, the new Commercial teacher.

DANGEROUS MAN IN TOILS

Author of Many Crimes and Most Dangerous Terrorist Arrested at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—Vazet, characterized as the most dangerous of the terrorist leaders and the author of many crimes, was arrested at Mitau. He gave a false name, but it is said that there is not the slightest doubt as to his identity. Vazet has been handed over to the military authorities for trial by drumhead court-martial. The greatest importance is attached to this arrest.

Kisses.

It is a somewhat singular fact that the rarest of all noses is that found where one would naturally expect to find it, in the middle of the face. Taking 100 heads at random, one will not find on an average more than three in which the bridge of the nose descends perpendicularly from a straight line drawn exactly between the eyes.
