

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

RUSSIAN PEASANTS ATTACK OFFICIALS

Dissatisfied With Distribution of Lands and Threatens Governor's Life.

HE WAS SAVED BY STAFF

SOLDIERS RUSH HIM INTO BUILDING UNTIL FURY OF MOB HAD PASSED—COSSACKS TAKE HAND AND MANY ARE KILLED.

[Publishers' Press] Petersburg, Oct. 24.—Fierce fighting has occurred at Ekaterinograd, capital of the department of that name, 250 miles north of Odessa. The government of the department narrowly escaped capture at the hands of the infuriated peasantry, and many were killed by the Cossacks summoned to discipline the peasants.

The revolt of the peasants attended the public land allotments. In the course of the distribution, the peasants became enraged at the officials, and attacked them. The governor was present and attempted to restore order but the peasants, wildly angered, turned on him. The governor was surrounded by his staff, who repelled the first onslaught and succeeded in placing the governor in a building where for the time being he was safe from the assaults of the mob.

The peasants defied the governor and made repeated attacks upon the building in which the governor was sequestered. His attendants fired many shots at the enraged mob, and a number of peasants were wounded. They made repeated attempts to capture the governor.

Word was sent to the Cossack barracks, and several companies were despatched posthaste to the scene. When the arrived the Cossacks charged the peasants and in the conflict which ensued many were killed and wounded on both sides. The peasants used farm implements with deadly effect for a time but the soldiers eventually completely dispersed them.

MAYOR DROWNED; DAYTON MOURNS

Hon. Chas. Snyder Drowned in White Fish Lake, Near Port Arthur, Canada.

WAS BELOVED EXECUTIVE

FIRE BELLS AND WHISTLES TELL SLEEPING CITIZENS OF THEIR LOSS—HE WAS SERVING HIS SECOND TERM.

Dayton, O., Oct. 25. (2 a. m.) Spl.—In a telegram received from her husband, at 11:40, Mrs. T. A. McCann was notified that the Hon. Charles A. Snyder, mayor of this city, was drowned yesterday, in White Fish Lake, 58 miles from Port Arthur, Canada, where he and a party of Dayton men were on a hunting and fishing excursion.

The details of the drowning are meager. Up until a late hour Mrs. Snyder had not as yet received any word from Port Arthur. Mayor Snyder has been aroused by the ringing of bells and the blowing of factory whistles, which began as soon as it was learned that Mayor Snyder was dead. Great crowds of sleepy men and women surrounded the news paper offices, in order to gain some word of the terrible accident which befell their beloved executive. The telegraph wires are being kept busy rushing messages of inquiry to the scene of the accident, but none of the details of the affair have yet arrived. Mayor Snyder in company with Wm. H. Outh, Dr. T. A. McCann, and Wm. Kuntz, left the city two weeks ago last Monday for a pleasure trip, and they did not intend to return to the city until the latter part of next week, or just in time for election day.

Mayor Snyder was thirty eight years old, and was born in Greene County, Ohio, ten miles from Dayton. He came to Dayton in 1889 and started in the men's furnishing business. Three years ago he sold his business interests. He was first elected mayor of Dayton April 7, 1902, and at the time of his death was serving his second term in that capacity.

Although Mayor he has never taken an active part in politics. He was a member of the Gem City Democratic Club and of the Harmon Club, two political organizations, but he never participated in their workings. He was a thirty second degree Mason and a member of the Scottish Rites.

Clucks and Cackles. Are your fowls yarded these days? Have they plenty of green food and water? See to this.

When you write to a man for prices state what you want and what you want it for and what you have to pay for it.

For young chicks it is always recommended that the floor of the brooders be littered with cut clover and the chick food be scattered over that.

It is the instinct of fowls and chicks to scratch and search for their food. If we but give them half a chance to scratch for seeds and grain they will do their part.

The standard weights of all Wyandottes are: Cock, 8½; hen, 6½; cockerel, 7½; pullet, 5½ pounds respectively.

As a rule it is unprofitable to preserve eggs for higher prices, except in cold storage, and when they are sold they should be sold for exactly what they are—namely, "preserved eggs" or "stored eggs." Some people are willing to buy and eat such preserved eggs, but it is the usual experience that most people would rather pay twice the price for a reliably fresh egg than they will pay for "preserved" eggs.

Walking on the Crust. English scientists who have measured it in their minds estimate that the earth's crust is forty-five miles thick. While that does not seem like a very long distance on the earth's surface, if a man is on the cars riding on a pass, it is quite a distance down if one had to dig it with a spade.

To the ordinary lazy man the post hole two feet deep seems far enough if not too far to go down into the bowels of the earth. If told to dig down forty-five miles he would throw up his hands, his spade and his job and look for employment that was a great deal more like fishing.

It would be nice to get down under the crust to see what is there. Maybe we are living on top of a big pile. Who knows? However, that is not what the scientists think. They say that down below is a raging fire, so perhaps heavy men should be careful as to how they jump on the crust.

Gossip About a Few Celebrities

H. C. CORBIN.

ON Sept. 15 General Henry C. Corbin went on the retired list of the army. He served less than six months at the head of Uncle Sam's military force and did not assume the detail of chief of staff to which he was entitled, but instead took command of the northern division of the army with headquarters at St. Louis. It is understood he will now make his home in Washington. General Corbin has been best known as adjutant general of the army, but he has seen exciting service in the field in the course of his career. He was born in Ohio in 1842 and entered the volunteer service of the United States as a second lieutenant in the Eighty-third Ohio volunteer infantry in 1862. He saw four years of active service at this time and was honorably discharged with the brevet of brigadier general. A few weeks later he was commissioned second lieutenant in the regular army and assigned to the Seventeenth infantry. Shortly afterward he was appointed to a captaincy and assigned to the Thirty-eighth infantry and for twelve years thereafter he was continuously in command of his company at stations in the west, engaged in Indian campaigning and frontier duty. His most important services were rendered during the Spanish war, when he served as adjutant general. He retained that post after he became a major general and until he was advanced to be lieutenant general last April, but after the organization of the general staff in 1903 he was in command of the department of the east with headquarters at New York and was also in command in the Philippines previous to taking his most recent command, that of the northern division of the army. His last important official act was a report in favor of restoration of the canteen system.

Roger C. Sullivan of Chicago, who has become conspicuous through his controversy with William J. Bryan, is connected with several prominent Chicago corporations, including the Ogden Gas company and Cosmopolitan Electric company. It is on account of his corporation connections that Mr. Bryan objects to his prominence in the Democratic organization. Mr. Sullivan was born in Belvidere, Ill., in 1861 and made his entry into politics as custodian of the Cook County hospital. In 1886 he was appointed deputy collector of internal revenue and in 1890 was chosen clerk of the Chicago probate court.

Mr. Sullivan is at present the Democratic national committeeman from Illinois. Mr. Bryan has maintained that his election to this post was not legal and while in Europe sent a request that Mr. Sullivan tender his resignation of the office in the interest of the party. This Mr. Sullivan declined to do, and he secured reelection from the Democratic state convention which was interpreted as an endorsement of his attitude. The same convention endorsed Mr. Bryan's candidacy for the presidential nomination in 1908. In his recent Chicago speech Mr. Bryan said he did not want an endorsement given under such circumstances, and he made some quite pointed remarks about the course pursued by Committeeman Sullivan.

GUARANTEE FUND MORE THAN RAISED

May Festival Secures $5,000 Backing When but $4,000 Was Needed.

ASSURES BEST OF TALENT

THEODORE THOMAS ORCHESTRA WHICH WAS DECIDED ON WILL NOW BE ENGAGED—CHORUS TO BE LARGER.

The May Musical Festival executive committee, held a very enthusiastic meeting in the parlors of the Starr Piano Company, corner of 10th and Main streets last night at which it was announced that the necessary guarantee funds had been raised, and that the committee on music could go ahead and make all arrangements for talent. Nearly one hundred supporters of the May Musical Festival signed the list, which amounts to near five thousand dollars. It was the first intention of the committee to raise four thousand dollars but as they met no objections in their canvass the amount was increased.

The musical committee of which Prof. Earhart is chairman will start its work immediately, and the Theodore Thomas Orchestra will be engaged for next year's concert. It is thought by the committee that the Richmond chorus can be assembled by the first of November, to begin their regular rehearsals.

Owing to the fact that several of the best singers of Richmond took only a slight interest in the festival this year, but are now anxious to sing with the chorus next year, the chorus will be much larger and probably more efficient. In fact the demand to get into the chorus is so great, that many people who would like to sing for the training they will get out of it, will be unable to gain admittance. All the old members of the chorus will be asked to return.

The list of guarantors is as follows: Starr Piano Co., Lee B. Nussbaum, Geo. H. Knollenberg Co., H. C. Hase-meier Co., Romey Furniture Co., J. M. Coe Printing Co., The Big Store, Joan M. Eggemeier, Benjamin Johnson, Clayton B. Hunt, Will Earhart, S. W. Gaar, First National Bank, Light, Heat & Power Co., John Y. Crawford, Cash Beall, Geo. H. Reform Spelling. Maybe the president thinks he has discovered something new in reform spelling, but the self made man may come to the front one of these days modestly claiming that he saw it first. There may be some good reason why we should spell a word one way and pronounce it another way, but it requires a college education to discover the reason, and not all of us have time for that.

For example, is there any one who thinks we are doing something bright when we go way around the bush and turn a few handspins on the lawn to spell yacht when we could come at it in such a simple and direct manner by just spelling it "yot" and telling those who didn't like our way of spelling to go and fall off a barn? This is one of the reforms that has been overdue for several centuries and there is not the slightest danger that the common people will get sore about it.

THESE ARE HOG DAYS

Swine breeders and feeders have enjoyed in recent years a degree of prosperity probably never before equaled in this branch of live stock husbandry. Prices for breeding stock have remained on an attractive basis, and pork has sold close to record figures. Whenever the hog grower can secure a nickel a pound for pork there is substantial profit in producing it. Present prices, therefore, mean that porkmakers are securing very profitable returns. Good prices for hogs and relatively low prices for beef serve to emphasize the importance of breeding several classes of live stock so as to be ready for market appreciations when they occur. A stock farm is not complete without its proper quota of hogs. Experience indicates that it is wise to stick to hogs and to cattle, sheep and horses, keeping the farm suitably stocked and balanced. Hogs multiply rapidly, are soon fed out, and their management is simple and inexpensive. Commercially it is all right to go in for the whole hog, but not wholly for hogs. Next year it may take the steer or the sheep to pull the hog through at a profit, concludes the Breeder's Gazette, Chicago.

Pigs for the General Farmer. The cut from Rural New Yorker shows a group of Jersey Red pigs on a New Jersey farm, a breed of which it is said that it has many merits, being well adapted to the needs of the general purpose farmer. They are of good form, strong constitution, hearty feeders, do well on pasture and they make carcasses which cut up profitably. The sows are prolific breeders and good mothers.

Cash in Hogs. That the American hog grower is receiving more than his just dues when he cashes in prime hogs at $7 per hundredweight is improbable, says the Breeder's Gazette, Chicago. Over in Canada $8.20 is being paid for bacon grades, a figure that makes it practically impossible for Canadian curers to compete successfully in the British market. Packers may protest at current prices and claim that they are putting up the product at a loss, but the present hog market is on a legitimate basis. Stockyard sentiment is not immediately bullish, but prediction is made that before a new crop of hogs is available killers will pay 7 cents for straight loads without looking over the fence at the goods. There is no better property on the American farm today than a reliable, mature, rangy breeding sow.

Hog Farming for the South. The south uses more pork in proportion to the number of its inhabitants than any other section of the country, and yet the bulk of this meat comes from the great corn belt of the middle west. Hog raising is a type of farming to which a large portion of the south is very well adapted, and there is no reason why the southern farmer cannot produce at least enough pork for home consumption.

The chief requisites for successful hog raising are pure water, a good pasture with plenty of shade and a soil sufficiently fertile to grow feed crops at a small expense. There are few sections in the south where such conditions are not found. While it is true that the southern farmer cannot produce corn as cheaply as his brother farmer in Illinois, Iowa or Missouri, he has the advantage of having at his command a much greater variety of most producing plants and a season of almost continuous pasture. Alfalfa, Bermuda grass, lespedeza and white clover furnish the best summer pasture, and vetch, bur clover, rape and the winter cereals will produce an abundance of winter grazing. One acre well set in alfalfa will furnish grazing for fifteen to twenty head of hogs from April to September. A seven acre alfalfa pasture in central Alabama furnished grazing from March 28 to Sept. 25 for 115 to 125 hogs and also produced during this period nearly six tons of fine hay.—M. A. Crosby.

WILL YOU HELP THEM?
Most of the contributions which the paper received yesterday were in small amounts and but few people in Richmond most able to give have responded. The spirit of the contributors in most cases is however Christian in the highest sense. One gentleman, not even known to the office force at the Palladium walked into the office yesterday morning and gave $5, requesting that it be credited to A. B. C. The gift of ten cents from Little Miss Moorehead is especially noteworthy.
