

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Female Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispute the well-known fact that American women are nervous? How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly," or, "Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you, and you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in woman is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability; spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps; pain in the abdominal region and between the shoulders; a tendency to cry at the least provocation—all these point to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell, of 103 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, headache, loss of appetite. I could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night."

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has worked wonders for me."

"I am a well woman, my nervousness is all gone and my friends say I look ten years younger."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick, weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

"CAPT. CARELESS" COMING

Whitney's Greatest Achievement in Opera to Be Seen in Richmond Next Saturday Afternoon and Evening—Star Cast.

It so seldom chances that any of the all star cast opera companies get into the smaller cities of the country, that the announcement that the Genet next Saturday will have Whitney's greatest of comic operas, "Capt. Careless," has created great interest. John E. Hinshaw, with a company of eighty will present the tuneful opera which is exquisitely staged, and there will be a matinee performance as well as evening. The production has not been west of New York until the present season, and the company is on its way to Chicago for an extended run. Richmond and four other cities in the middle west are the only points where one night stands are made. The fact that two performances will be given here will make it possible for all local theater goers to witness the superb production.

ALL EYES NOW ON SATURDAY'S GAME

Earlham Will Bend Every Effort to Get in Condition to Meet Wabash.

HOPE TO HOLD OPPONENTS

LITTLE CHANCE FOR A VICTORY BUT QUAKERS HAVE SHOWN THAT THEY WILL FIGHT TO THE LAST DITCH.

Will Earlham score on Wabash next Saturday when the two teams meet at Crawfordsville?

That is the question uppermost in the minds of all the students at the Quaker institution just now and in the minds of the many football enthusiasts in the city. It is thought that Earlham will score and it is also thought with a fair degree of luck, the Quakers will hold the Presbyterians to a low score. The local school had hoped that Wabash would be suffering from the ill effects of a contest with Vanderbilt, but a change in schedule has knocked out this game and the two teams will be on equal footing as far as condition is concerned.

Earlham is in splendid physical trim, perhaps no athletes in the country take better care of themselves than do these at the Quaker college. The men may not be as heavy or as skillful as the Wabash players but they will be able to stand as much exertion. Not a man was seriously hurt in the game with Franklin Saturday, and the game proved a splendid practice contest for the biggest game of the season next Saturday.

Earlham now knows what she can do. She knows that her ends, Guyer and Hancock are as good as ever played on an Earlham team. Unless Wabash has far better interference than any team the Quakers have met this season, the "Little Giants" will not gain to an advantage on end runs. Earlham is strong on the offensive, especially is she good on making the double and triple pass work. Wabash may with here experienced players, break up the plays which Earlham has been making gains on all season, but Coach Wilson feels confident that all of them will not be stopped. Some of the plays which Earlham has used this year are far more spectacular than ever seen on a local gridiron. Many times the Quakers' plays have apparently been stopped only to have the man carrying the ball, pass it to another player and perhaps this man even to a third player, who would dash down the field for a long gain. It is on such work as this and marvelous speed that Earlham pins her faith.

If the Quakers fall down badly in any department it will surely be in the line. The center trio is not heavy and Wabash may be able to pound through it for consecutive gains.

Saturday Franklin made her only gains by straight plays through the line. However when Franklin became dangerous Saturday, the Quaker line stood like a rock for three downs on the five yard line and visitors did not go forward a yard. At tackle Earlham is strong. Capt. Wann, who would die fighting for his school is on the left side of the line while Thistlethwaite, big, husky and determined, has done phenomenal service this year, on the right side.

There has always been the greatest of rivalry between Earlham and Wabash. It most reaches hatred. The battle next Saturday whether or not it may be between uneven foes, it will be hard fought and the outcome will be watched with interest.

Improvement in Breeding.

The first thing for the breeder to recognize is that all of the animals which we know today have been developed by a process of evolution from previous animals of an inferior quality. The next thing is a recognition of the forces which have kept that process in operation until they have brought about the results which we now see. And the third step is to keep those forces acting continuously in a desired direction so that each step may be a forward step. With such knowledge properly applied the practice of breeding animals will be as certain in its results as are the results of ordinary manufacturing processes, and the rate at which improvement will be secured will exceed anything the world has yet seen.—Professor C. L. Redfield.

Claim Signatures Forgeries.

New York Nov. 3.—Four men were arrested as the aftermath of the contest in the Thirtieth assembly district between Percy Nagle and John F. Cowan, rival Democratic leaders. The men were all charged with forgery in the second degree. Many men made affidavits that they had voted for Nagle. Cowan disputed his election. Assistant District Attorney Hart said: "We investigated 107 of those affidavits and found that only 38 were genuine. Many men whose names were signed to affidavits said they had not signed the papers at all. They claimed that their signatures were forgeries."
