The Latest Market News

THE PALLADIUM MARKET REPORTS ARE THE LATEST AND ARE ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE. NO NEWSPAPERS IN INDIANA, THOSE OF INDIANAPOLIS NOT EXCEPTED, GIVE MORE COMPLETE MARKET REPORTS THAN THE PALLADIUM.

RICHMOND MARKETS

Market on lemons, both California and Verdinis, is slow. Californias are bringing a premium of 50¢ a box over Verdinis, because of superior size and general quality. Florida oranges are lower, as is grape-fruit. This is owing to an advance of the Florida season, with consequent larger supplies. Grapes are down from $1 to $3 a hundred baskets. Demand is getting constantly lighter.

THE LOCAL MARKETS.
(The prices quoted below are those paid by J. M. Eggemeyer, Main & Fourth streets, for produce, vegetables and fruits. This gives the farmers and gardeners the accurate quotations for their products; also gives the merchants of the smaller towns the wholesale prices paid in Richmond on all fruits, etc., bought from Commission men.)

A Popular Fallacy.

L. B. Gardner of Atlantic, Ia., has this chunk of wisdom in Western Poultry Journal:

The will tell you that fowls that lay during the winter will go to sitting early and won't give you any eggs in the spring. Don't you believe it. We have fowls that laid steadily all winter and kept right at it, not even showing a sign of becoming broody. We have neighbors whose fowls laid scarcely an egg during the winter and last spring managed to shell out a few now and then and thought they had done their duty and got broody. It doesn't take much figuring with eggs at 14 to 25 cents a dozen to see which are the paying hens.

Breed For Eggs.

There is no poultry breeder that can successfully breed for show birds alone and make a success of the poultry business. He must breed for something else besides the showroom. His poultry must give him a daily profit or his poultry fowl will soon cool down. Begin by breeding for market and eggs and there will be a profit and a love for the work, and you will make a success, concludes the editor of American Poultry Journal.

VEGETABLES FOR POULTRY.

Green Staff Is a Necessity For the Preservation of Health.

All poultry keepers who have a garden and grow vegetables should utilize the surplus for their fowls, as they help to keep the birds in health and also economize the expense of feeding, says A. V. Meersch in Western Poultry Journal. In the summer months fowls do not require as good feeding as in the winter, on account of their being able to find such a large amount of natural food for themselves in the shape of slugs, worms, grubs, seeds and insects. In many cases where the winter rations are continued through the summer disease and death follow, owing to the birds becoming overheated and too fat internally. Green food of all kinds is invaluable for keeping poultry in health; therefore all cooked leaves of cabbage, lettuce, cauliflower, etc., should be mashed for the morning feed. Uncooked cabbage leaves should also occasionally be thrown in the run, as they are fond of them, and they are to be recommended on account of their cooling and health giving properties. The poultry keeper with a garden should therefore let nothing in the way of garden food go to loss, with the twofold object of keeping the fowls in health and of reducing the food bill.

The "Too Much Moisture" Bugaboo.

Our confidence in the too much moisture question has had a rather severe setback within the past few months, writes Rev. C. E. Petersen to American Poultry Journal. Two of our incubators were as usual placed in the cellar, but on the second week of the hatch heavy floods and much rain little by little filled the cellar bottom with water, and as I had no means of either removing the water or the incubators they were left in rather an unfavorable situation and my hopes of a good hatch did not run very high. One night the water rose till it stood high around the incubator, but the eggs were beginning to show signs of hatching, and the next day I had the largest and best hatch that I have taken off for years. We certainly had no lack of moisture for two weeks in this case. No, we don't know it all yet about successful incubation, but we will some day, and then perhaps we will find that we have troubled about questions that have no bearing on the subject of successful incubation.

Fortunate Missourians.

"When I was a druggist, at Livonia, Mo.," writes T. J. Dwyer, now of Graysville, Mo., "three of my customers were permanently cured of consumption by Dr. King's New Discovery. One was trying to sell his property and move to Arizona, but after using New Discovery a short time he found it unnecessary to do so. I regard Dr. King's New Discovery as the most wonderful medicine in existence."
