

DECoyED TO WOODS AND THEN ROBBED

Andy Lutz Victim of Fiendish Assault by Three Well Known Characters.

HIS ASSAILANTS ARRESTED

Lutz enticed on fake hunting expedition and when he tries to stop fake fight is "BEAT UP."

Probably the most cunningly devised and most vicious assault and robbery that ever occurred in Richmond was yesterday perpetrated by Henry Kroma, Leroy alias "Red" King, and Vern Sparks who discovered Andy Lutz an employee of the Hoosier Drill into the woods north of the city and there assaulted and robbed him in broad day light, leaving him in a semiconscious condition while they returned to the city to spend the money, which amounted to but $5.

Kroma, King and Sparks, were in the saloon owned by John H. Schell at 600 North Twelfth street, when Lutz came in to get some change, he wishing to break a five dollar bill in order to pay his board. The three men watched Lutz's movements, and as soon as they found out that he had money on his person, they asked him to play a game of pool which he did. In fact several games were played but it is said owing to the crooked methods employed by the other men Lutz paid for the whole. While playing Sparks stated that he knew where the party could get four guns and asked why they should not go hunting.

Go on "Fake" Hunt.

All consented and they started north on Twelfth street, and after crossing the Twelfth street bridge, the party turned East, along the old mill race and ravine. They progressed to a point about opposite Sixteenth street, and two of the men started a fake fight, Lutz interfered and he was knocked down in an unconscious condition, and his pockets rifled and about $5 in' money was secured.

Lutz soon gained semi-consciousness and saw hat he had been robbed. He staggered to his feet and waded across the river and went to the home of Frank Halston, on North Sixteenth street where he received aid and was taken to police headquarters, where he told his tale. As Kroma, King and Sparks had been seen together yesterday morning, suspicion turned to them and Sergeant McManus and Patrolman McNally went to the Red Light saloon on North E street, a favorite loafing place of the men, and captured them. They were taken to headquarters where Lutz identified them as the assailants. Lutz's money was found on Kroma while the other men carried a small artillery of guns and knives.

Think They Robbed Store.

The police have a clue that points toward the men, as those who robbed Hall's Hardware store on Main street Sunday night of $9.27, and several revolvers. The guns taken from the men at headquarters were all new, while a quantity of small change in the form of nickels and dimes was found on Kroma. All the money taken from the Hall store was small change. In addition to this the mother of "Red King" came to police headquarters early yesterday morning and stated that she wished the police to look after the boy as he had been out all night Sunday. As the matter is more thoroughly sifted everything points towards the three men as the culprits figuring in the robbery. Supt. of Police Bailey also last evening that he was almost confident that the three men figured in several recent robberies about the city.

TEACHER HAS DIPHTHERIA

Miss Nellie Lowe Taken Sick But It Is Thought Her Pupils Will Not Suffer Ill Effects.

Miss Nellie B. Lowe, a teacher at the Starr school has been taken ill with diphtheria and much consternation was caused among school authorities over the fact. It was thought that many of the pupils were subjected to the disease, but as Miss Lowe did not take sick until Friday, her physician says that the pupils would not suffer any contagion, there was no school the day previous, it being Thanksgiving.

PRESENTED BAD CHECKS

Frank W. Davis, a former prominent insurance agent of this city, has been arrested in Indianapolis on the charge of passing two fraudulent personal checks at the Stubbs Hotel at which place he was boarding. The checks only cashed for $5 each, but the proprietors complained to the police and Davis' arrest soon followed.

MATTERS BEFORE COUNCIL LAST NIGHT TOLD IN BRIEF MANNER

Councilman Deuker pointed out that North A street between 2nd and 3rd streets, was in bad condition and that the property owners in that district were complaining of the existing conditions. The matter was referred to the Board of Public Works.

Councilman Leftwick stated that owing to the present congested condition of North 7th street between Main and A streets, it would be dangerous for the fire department to try to make a run in that district. The hitch rack, when filled, occupies half of the street and when the express wagons take their places along the other side there is little driving room. The matter was referred to the Board of Public Works.

The petition of Oscar Paddock, city live stock inspector for a larger salary, was rejected. Paddock's present salary is forty dollars per month.

The Board of Public Works reported that the interurban officials stated that "dimmers" were being placed on the interurban cars operating in the city.

In its report in regard to the opening of West Second street, and the result of the consultation between the Board and the Pennsylvania representatives, the Board of Public Works stated that a neutral ground had been found and the two had drawn up an agreement satisfactory to both. This agreement was presented to the council for reading, but the board said it had not been signed by either party nor would not be signed until the matter of the cost of the two bridges, one on the Richmond division of the Pennsylvania, and the other on the Indianapolis division, had been determined.

Councilman Charles Wettig, chairman of the committee on schools, made a report, in which he highly complimented Supt. Mott, Principal Heironemus and the teachers of the Garfield school, on the excellent manner in which they conducted the open session at the school Nov. 21st. Mr. Wettig recommended that the board of public instruction carry the scheme into all the schools of the city.

The Board of Public Works asked for an appropriation of $250 for the purchase of the land lying between the Municipal Light plant and the river. The matter was laid over until the next meeting of council.

Dr. Charles S. Bond, secretary of the City Board of Health, submitted the report dealing with the investigation of reported cases of cow pox among the dairy cows of the neighborhood. Dr. Bond's letter was as follows:

Dear Sirs:—The Board of Health has to report that after careful investigation by the dairy inspector, as well as the secretary of the Board of Health, that no cow pox has been discovered, and we believe none exists among the cattle regularly furnishing milk to the citizens of Richmond. Yours respectfully,

CHARLES S. BOND,
Secretary of Board of Health.

Councilman Bartel said that the city ordinance in regard to prohibiting the throwing of waste paper upon the streets, was not being enforced, and recommended that the ordinance be strictly enforced in the future. Councilman Englebert was of the opinion that all persons caught throwing materials into the streets should be arrested and the practice would therefore soon stop. The matter was referred to the police department.

Councilman Brown stated that the city ordinances covering the removal of gates opening onto the sidewalks, was not being enforced and neither was the ordinance governing the hitching of horses to weights of standard size. He moved that the matter be referred to the police department for enforcement. Some question arose as to the standard size of weights that should be used for hitching purposes, but this was also left to the jurisdiction of the police department.

The greatest feature of the discussion of the pole ordinance, which requires all the wooden poles to be moved off Main street, was the assertion of Councilman Deuker that several other members of the body, had not shown him even the commonest of courtesy in the consideration of his ordinance.

Three ordinances covering the pole question were submitted by various members of the council. One of these was prepared during the past week by City Attorney Study and covered the removal of all the light, and telephone companies properties on Main street, as well as the clause requiring the street and interurban companies to place their wires on regulation size iron poles, as set down by the Board of Public Works and the City Civil Engineer. This ordinance was laid over for another reading.

Councilman Leftwick also submitted an ordinance but after the reading of the City Attorney's ordinance he withdrew his. This Councilman Deuker would not do, but wanted the council to either pass or kill his ordinance last night. No action was taken.

The whole matter will come before the next council for another rehashing, as nothing tangible was accomplished last night.

ANOTHER CHARGE MADE BY YOUNG

Declares that Shea Demanded $5,000 for Calling Teamsters' Strike.

ON CROSS EXAMINATION

DEFENSE TRIES TO SHOW THAT STAR WITNESS WAS INTOXICATED, BUT HE DECLARES HE WAS "ON WATER WAGON."

[Publishers' Press.]

Chicago, Dec. 3.—In the midst of a cross examination which tested every point of his testimony, Albert Young, former organizer of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, testified in Judge Ball's Court today that $5,000 was demanded by Cornelius P. Shea, president of the organization, for calling the teamsters' strike of 1905, which made the streets of Chicago scenes of riot and union warfare for 100 days.

The sensation came unexpectedly at a time when Young had become restive under examination, and staggered the defense.

Young declared that Shea told him of his efforts to get $5,000 to call the strike. Failing to get the larger amount, Shea accepted $300 of a fund of $1,500, provided by Robert Noren, president of the Garment Workers' Union, said Young.

The fact that the evidence appeared during cross examination rendered it the most damaging evidence revealed thus far in the trial.

Efforts to show that Young had drunk much intoxicating liquor when bribes of $300 each were said to have been given to Cornelius P. Shea, Jerry McCarthy, Hugh McGee, James Barry and Young, for calling the strike, were not successful.

"I was on the waterwagon," declared Young. "We went to many saloons all right, but I drank no intoxicating."

The witness leaned forward dramatically.

"We sat about a table in a saloon in the stock exchange building," he went on, "and as Robert Noren, president of the Garment Workers' Union, counted out the rolls of $300, Shea pushed them across the table to each of us." Afterward Shea told me about trying to get $5,000. This amount he said would have been satisfactory."

Banquo and His Son.

Sir Walter Scott says "early authorities show us no such persons as Banquo and his son Fleance." Even the very names seem to be fictitious, as they were not Gaelic and are not to be found in any of the ancient chronicles or Irish annals. Neither is there of the name of Lochebar known in Scotch history, though Sir Bernard Burke makes Banquo a descendant of Kenneth II. and Lochebar of Lochebar.

Malone says that after Banquo's assassination Fleance fled to Wales, where he married a Welsh princess, by whom he had a son, Walter, who became lord high steward of Scotland. He assumed the name Walter Stewart and was, it is said, the direct ancestor of the house of Stewart.

Shakespeare, we know, based "Macbeth" on Holinshed's "History"—a good deal of which was borrowed from a circumstantial romance composed by Boece.

Mr. Boswell-Stone, in his "Shakespeare's 'Hamlet,'" after balancing the pros and cons, says, "In my opinion, Banquo and Fleance are probably creatures of Boece's imagination."

Work of the Heart.

Few stop to consider the amount of labor performed daily by the human heart. The inexhaustible supply of energy displayed by this overworked organ is marvelous. Calculation has shown that the work of the heart of an average person is equal to the feet of lifting over five tons at the rate of a foot an hour or 125 tons in twenty-four hours. A certain Dr. Richardson once made a curious calculation in regard to the work performed by the heart in mileage. He presumed that the blood was forced out of the heart at each palpitation in the proportion of sixty-nine strokes a minute and at the assumed distance of nine feet. At this rate the flow of the blood through the body would be 207 yards a minute, or seven miles an hour. This would make 170 miles a day, or 61,000 miles a year. Thus in a lifetime of eighty-four years the blood in the human body would travel over 5,000,000 miles. The number of beats of the heart required to send the blood that far would be over 8,000,000,000.

Have you decided upon your Christmas gifts?

Before you come to a definite conclusion regarding them, we beg to inform you that there is nothing you can select for your dear ones which will prove so satisfying during the long evenings this winter as a talking machine.

You will admit, we hope, that an instrument which will bring Sousa's band, the voice of our great Opera and Concert singers, the funny sayings of Minstrels and Vaudeville artists; in fact, all the mirth melody and oratory of the theatre into your home, is worth careful consideration to say the least.

And you marvel! And well you may. But this statement is true, notwithstanding, and we will deem it a very great pleasure to demonstrate its truthfulness to your entire satisfaction if you will kindly afford us the opportunity.

If you would make your home a place of entertainment, better than Club or Theatre, and at a small fraction of the expense of either, you will buy a talking machine.

It is the only solution to the home enjoyment problem. We carry the largest stock and have the only exclusive talking machine plan.
