

GANS SAYS O'BRIEN MATCH IS DREAM

Colored Champion Would Not Take on Heavy Weight at Present Time.

WANTS TO MEET NELSON

DECLARES THAT HE IS WILLING TO AGREE TO ANY TERMS THAT ARE REASONABLE — AFTER BRITT FIRST, HOWEVER.

Salt Lake, Utah, Jan. 5. —Joe Gans, the champion lightweight pugilist, declares that all talk of a match with "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien, a dream. Gans, who is en route East, says that it would be foolish for him to go out of his class to meet O'Brien, when promoters are bidding high for another fight with Battling Nelson.

"You can say for me," he said "that I am anxious to meet Nelson. I don't care whether Nolan manages him or whether some one else takes care of his part of the match, all I want is something that is pretty near as square a deal as I gave him when we fought at Goldfield. I understand the promoters will hang a $10,000 purse for us. Let them agree that I get $10,000 and I will fight Nelson, winner to take all of the remaining $30,000. If he wants to be a game sport let him accept this proposition. "I would not think of matching with Nelson until I have disposed of Britt. If I am successful in that match, then Nelson will be my preference."

DEATH AS RESULT OF A RACE RIOT

Patrolman Harver Dying in Hospital from Injuries Received in Fight.

FEELING RUNNING HIGH

WHITES ATTEMPTED TO AVENGE THE DEATH OF FIREMAN JUDGE WHO WAS KILLED BY TWO DRUNKEN NEGROES.

(Publishers' Press.) Chicago, Jan. 5.—One policeman was fatally hurt, another seriously injured and several negroes badly beaten in a race riot in the stock yards "black belt" tonight.

The riot was the result of an effort by a small party of stock yards workmen to avenge the death of fireman Judge, of the stock yards station, who was killed a few days ago by two drunken negroes. Finding themselves outnumbered, the white men fled and policemen James Harver and Lee Harver tried to stop the pursuit.

The negroes continued to fight even after the arrival of a wagon load of blue coats and only a furious clubbing beat them back. Harver is dying at the Emergency hospital. A dozen arrests were made. Race feeling has been high ever since Judge's murder, fresh raids on the "black belt" are threatened by the stock yards men and heavy details of police are patrolling the district to prevent more rioting.

LOST STEAMER SIGHTED IS PERHAPS ON A REEF

"City of Panama" Can be Sighted From the Flagstaff at Pigeon Point Lighthouse—News Is Spread Quickly Along the Beach.

Santa Cruz, Cal., Jan. 5. —A report reached here shortly before noon today that the steamer City of Panama could be seen from the top of the flagstaff at Pigeon Point lighthouse. It is supposed she is ashore on a reef.

A courier dispatched from the cement works at San Vicente early this morning for Waddell beach, where a life raft and several wine casks have been washed ashore, continued on to Pigeon Point, six miles up the coast and brought the news back to San Vicente.

The steamer is barely visible from the tops of the flagstaff and can not be seen from the beach.

MARY J. TURNER DEAD

Former Richmond Woman Passed Away in Pittsburgh, After a Prolonged Illness.

Mrs. Mary J. Turner, mother of Jas. J. Turner, of the Pennsylvania system, and a former Richmond resident, died at her home in Pittsburgh Thursday. The remains were taken to Baltimore last night for burial. Mrs. Turner was a teacher in the Friends' Academy, now Earlham College, during the days of William N. Jackson's superintendency.

Celebration of the Ter Centennial of Jamestown Settlement Already Begun

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 5.—(SPL.)—Although the Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition, in commemoration of the three-hundredth anniversary of the settlement of America at Jamestown, is not to open to the public until the anniversary date, April 25, 1907, yet the celebration of the events leading up to that occurrence have already been commenced, both in this country and the motherland.

In London the celebration was held in the Savoy hotel on December 19, and the American charged affairs. Mr. Carter, president. The invited guests included Foreign Secretary Grey and other cabinet ministers, Karl Roberts, Lord Curzon, Sir Hiram Maxim, Lord High Chancellor Loreburn, many members of Parliament, American Consul General Wynne and other representative Americans and Englishmen. James Bryce, chief Secretary for Ireland, sent a letter saying the sailing of the British colony was "the acron from which the great American Commonwealth has grown." An interesting feature of the celebration was the presence of Major-General Baden Powell, a lineal descendant of John Smith, and of Admiral Poife, a descendant of Pocahontas, by her marriage with the English colonist, John Rolfe. Both the General and the Admiral spoke in glowing terms of their illustrious Virginia ancestors. Admiral Rolfe said his family had recently discovered a stolen portrait of Pocahontas which would be loaned to the State of Virginia for exhibition during the Jamestown Exposition.

In New York the event was observed by a dinner at Delmonico's, the Virginia society of the city having the matter in charge. An interesting toast program was given. In Norfolk and Williamsburg, Virginia, religious services were held in various churches in commemoration of the gallant band of colonists of three hundred years ago.

On December 19, 1906, there set sail from Blackwall, England a tiny little fleet of three vessels, the "Discovery," the "Constance," and the "Susan Constant," on the long and eventful voyage which culminated in the planting of the English race upon the soil of the new world. The voyage was begun under unfavorable circumstances, a number of the proposed colonists being unfitted and unsuited to the toils and privations of founding a settlement in a comparatively unknown wilderness, but one of the number, Captain John Smith, by name, was a mighty host in himself and his pluck and daring is due the success of the enterprise.

After being tossed on the seas for six weeks with the English coast yet in sight, they at last encountered more favorable weather and in due course of time made the West Indies where they landed and rested for three weeks. Then they proceeded on their journey northward in search of the Island of Roanoke. A violent storm arose and drove them hither and thither and thus it was that they passed by the scene of Sir Walter Raleigh's failure, and hove in sight of the country of Virginia and landed at a point which they gave the name "Cape Henry." Savages drove them from this point and they made another landing on the opposite side of Hampton Roads at a point they called Old Point Comfort.

They were delighted with the country which they saw, beautiful as it was in the verdure of Springtime, and they tarried several days ere proceeding up the mighty river which

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Feeding Brood Sows. For a short time before farrowing it is best not to feed the sow very much grain. Thin sows are much better than any other kind of ration. This is due to the fact that it is very necessary to keep the digestive system cool and to feed foods which are very easily digested. A couple of days previous to farrowing from four to eight ounces of opson suits should be fed to the sow. This will prove beneficial in cooling the system and thus prevent milk fever or inflammation of the udder. After farrowing the pigs should be left with the mother. The mother should be fed on feeds conducive to the production of milk. After farrowing the sow should have a light ration in the form of a mash, composed of wheat bran and shorts or their equivalent, gradually increasing up to the tenth day, when the sow can be put on full ration, and ground corn and oats in equal parts can be added to the ration already mentioned.—Professor Kennedy, Iowa Experiment Station.

Kerosene Emulsion For Hog Lice. Hard soap, one-half common bar; kerosene, two gallons; water, one gallon. Boil the water and soap till the latter is dissolved, then remove from the fire and add the kerosene by vigorously churning till an emulsion is formed. Then dilute to twenty gallons with warm water. As soon as it is cool enough to apply without scalding the hog the application may be made. Some advise leaving the mixture stand till it cools and then heating it again, but there is considerable danger in this way, as the kerosene is quite inflammable. The same results are generally obtained by applying the mixture as soon as it is made, and all danger from a second heating is avoided. If the hogs are tame the application of the emulsion may be made with a broom. The scrubbing should be thorough, so that every louse is reached. If a spray pump can be had it is preferable. If a large number of hogs are to be treated they should be dipped.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Horse Wisdom. Oats are a natural and nutritious horse feed. In training young colts drive them with a fast walker. The stall ought to be nine feet long and five wide. Do not whip a frightened horse. It only adds to his fright. A horse naturally feeds from the they called "James." On the 13th day of May, 1607, they laid the foundation for the great American republic and to this little village they gave the name "Jamestown," in honor of their king. The history of the struggles of this infant colony, to survive the perils of hunger and of internal and external strife, is familiar to every school boy and girl. Having overcome much and accomplished the purpose of establishing a settlement, a precedent which was soon taken advantage of, the colony dwindled into obscurity and for the past two hundred years its site has been one of ruin and desolation. The waters of the mighty James, with their sabb and flow, made deep inroads into the soil of the island and carried away much of where was once the village of Jamestown. Only in recent years has the government, very tardily it must be confessed, taken the matter somewhat in hand and erected a stone bulwark or casement as a protection against the further encroachment of the waters.

Of such vast importance to the history of the world was this event, the celebration of the three-hundredth anniversary of the sailing of these vessels from England, on the momentous voyage, was certainly as appropriate as it was timely. From now until the 25th day of April, 1907, these three vessels may be imagined as wandering upon the face of the deep, searching for an indefinite land wherein to better their fortune but with no thought of the mighty future, whose curtain they were about to roll away.

The crowning event of the celebrations already begun in commemoration of this achievement, will be the grand celebration which opens on the shores and waters of Hampton Roads, April 25, near Cape Henry, where the colonists first landed, and opposite Old Point Comfort, where they dropped anchor. Jamestown, the logical spot for such celebration, is about forty miles up the river but its deserted condition and isolation precluded all possibility of holding the celebration there and, besides, the spot selected there which possesses far more of beauty and accessibility than any other which could be imagined. Here in view of the spot where the Monitor and the Merrimac had the famous battle which changed the naval architecture of the world, in a few weeks will gather the greatest fleet of war vessels ever seen on earth. Almost every civilized nation will be represented by its choicest ships, its most efficient officers, its best drilled men and, together with the best of our own navy, will enter into a series of practice drills, parades, manoeuvres and sham battles which will be the admiration of the world.

The naval review and pageant, grand, imposing and wonderful as it will be, is but one feature of this most magnificent celebration which it is estimated will be witnessed by twenty millions of people. The military display will be participated in by the soldiers of all countries, the troops from each country being accompanied by their own bands and music. The United States will have nearly five thousand soldiers there. In addition to these spectacular events, the industrial and educational part of the exposition will be one of the finest ever seen. The great and beautiful buildings now nearing completion, represent the outlay of millions of dollars and what is still better, they are permanent fixtures, for when the exposition closes on November 30, the "City by the Sea" will not vanish as a beautiful and pleasant dream, but will remain to serve other useful and glorious purposes for other years.

Grouse. Avoid high mangers. Give the colts room to exercise. They cannot develop good muscles without it.

Give the horse his heaviest feed at night. He has more time to digest it then.

Economy in the use of machine oil and axle grease means prodigality in horseflesh.

Swine Raising. The secret of success in growing hogs for the market is to keep them thrifty and growing all the time. To this end give them all the feed they will clean up. We have found that if they have the run of all the feed they will eat it do better than if fed only at intervals. Our practice is to keep good clean feed always within their reach. Pigs so treated and well housed from storms will grow and do well at any season of the year and if farrowed in late fall or winter will be ready to go on to grass as soon as spring opens and will be ready for market the following fall in time to bring the best prices.—Cor. Farmers Advocate.

Dairy Pointers. Never mix milk of different temperatures. Too much churning will injure the grain of the butter. Twice as much water is needed by cows which give milk as those not giving milk. Cleanliness, proper feeding and careful attention are the chief requisites of the dairy business.

This is the time of year to weed out the unprofitable cows and give your best stock the care they deserve.

It will pay to keep a record of every cow you own, the amount of milk she gives, the date of her birth, calves, etc. In an experiment made to determine the absorptive powers of milk there was included in jars a portion of milk and in different jars, but not in connection, different substances, giving off flavors. At the end of eight hours a portion of the milk was drawn from near the bottom on each jar by means of a pipette, so as not to disturb any part of the milk. In every one of fifteen trials the milk had absorbed the flavor to such an extent that it had penetrated the very lowest stratum.

They Follow Up. "He was given up by the doctor." "So bad as that?" "Yes, and turned over to the bill collector."

TO AIR RECORD OF SENATOR WARREN

Secretary Hitchcock is Said to Have Damaging Evidence Against Him

THE PUBLIC LAND FRAUDS

WYOMING SENATOR DECLARES THAT HE DOES NOT OWN ANY ILLEGAL LAND—BITTER FEUD SAID TO EXIST.

(Publishers' Press.) Washington, Jan. 5.—The discovery that the interior department was conducting an investigation into the conduct of U. S. Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, in connection with alleged illegal fencing of public lands, has revealed the existence of a bitter feud between the senator and Secretary Hitchcock.

It is charged by the senator's friends that the secretary has been relentlessly pursuing Mr. Warren for several years. They hint that the publicity attending this latest phase of their differences is but a part of a matured plan to discredit the senator before the secretary retires from office on March 4.

Officials of the interior department decline to discuss the case, but it is known that they have in their possession formal charges against the senator and a large number of other leading cattlemen. The amount of land which it is charged the Senator has illegally fenced—approximately 40,000 acres. Among the documents are several maps, which purport to give the land held by these cattlemen and the public lands which have been appointed to their uses.

In an interview tonight Senator Warren declared that he does not have individually, or as an owner in any company, any government land illegally enclosed or any unlawful fences.

ARE HARD AFTER BAILEY IN TEXAS

Looks as If He Lost Out in Travis County—Special Primary Yesterday.

MEANS BATTLE TO FINISH

OPPONENTS OF THE "STANDARD OIL" SENATOR WILL BE GOVERNED ENTIRELY BY RESULT OF YESTERDAY'S VOTE.

(Publishers' Press.) Dallas, Tex., Jan. 5.—With nearly complete returns from all but a few small boxes in remote country precincts, the anti-Bailey men are head 88 votes in the Travis county special primary today.

It looks as if Senator Bailey has lost the county, but his managers will wait for the official count before conceding the county to his enemies. Should Bailey finally have a majority in the county, the bottom will be out of the opposition movement. But if he has lost the county, the fight on him will continue until senatorial election by the legislature January 22nd.

Travis county has been more bitter against Senator Bailey than any other in the state. The party managers would not permit this name to go on the ballot in the state primary last July. His friends still declare he will be overwhelmingly re-elected.

INAUGURATION IN CHURCH

CAPITOL IS TOO SMALL

Governor-Elect Buchtel, Formerly of This City, Will Take Oath of Office in the Edifice Which Was Practically Built by Him.

(Publishers' Press.) Denver, Jan. 5.—Colorado's new governor will be inaugurated in Trinity M. E. church instead of in the State House. The assembly hall of the Capitol is small and will not accommodate one-tenth of the people who desire to witness the ceremony.

Trinity church, which was practically built by Chancellor Buchtel, has been decided on for the inauguration by the committee and Governor-elect Buchtel. It will hold 2,500 people and will be appropriately decorated.

KIBBEYS WIN CLOSE GAME

Local Basket Ball Quintet Defeated Greensfork Last Night by a Score of 11 to 9.

In a close and hair-raising game at Greensfork last night the Kibbey basket ball team, of this city, won out by a nose, the score being 11 to 9. The score stood 9 to 9 at the end of the second half, and after five seconds of fast and furious playing Everett Ray, for the Kibbeys, made a beautiful throw and goal, winning the game for the Richmond lads, in overtime.

ATTACK BEVERIDGE BILL

HIS PROPHECY WAS TRUE

Trust Bound Senators Are Trying to Make Out That Child Labor Bill is Unconstitutional—It Suits Roosevelt, However.

When Senator Beveridge made his notable speech for the Y. M. C. A. in this city, in which he outlined his child labor bill, he said that the first attack that would be made on it by the trust-bound Senators would be its unconstitutionality. This statement has been verified as is shown by the following dispatch from Washington:

"President Roosevelt today had a conference with Senators Spooner and Beveridge about the proposed child labor legislation. There is grave doubt on the part of many of the lawyers of the Senate as to the constitutionality of the Beveridge child labor bill, which prohibits goods made by child labor in one State going into another State. Senator Beveridge is confident that this bill is constitutional, but Senator Spooner and others will not support the measure in its present shape. No conclusion was reached at today's conference as to any modification of the Beveridge measure. The bill meets with the approval of President Roosevelt."
