GOOD CORN GETS GOOD PRICES.

Decline Predicted Some Time Ago has not Developed.

(March 30.) Good corn is bringing tip top prices, notwithstanding the prediction made by local grain dealers recently that the price of corn would drop. Today the quotations rose three cents on the bushel, while Friday some local dealers were paying as high as fifty-one cents per bushel for the finest grade. There is much bad grain, however, and local dealers will not buy it even at the lowest figure. Markets generally remain normal, following the usual Saturday standard.

large was conspicuously lacking in big pool buying power. This is explained by the fact that very heavy losses have been sustained by such previous holders; confidence in pool operation has been badly shaken, besides the floating supply of capital has been practically exhausted by the immense offerings of new securities, and large sums of the latter are still hanging over the market. During January and February nearly $200,000,000 of short-term railroad notes were offered. Then over $300,000,000 of new stock of various railroads issued to stockholders of record at par have also had to be financed. These include about $100,000,000 by St. Paul, over $90,000,000 by the Northern Pacific, $25,000,000 by Northwest, $60,000,000 by Great Northern, $70,000,000 by New York Central and nearly $30,000,000 by the New York & New Haven. Besides these heavy amounts it is well known that many blocks of new bonds held by various syndicates have been held at first hands for months seeking a resting place in investors' strong boxes. With such a load as this, roughly estimated at $1,000,000,000, and the buying powers so badly crippled, it is hardly reasonable to anticipate any extravagant upturn in the market, although there is justification for a reasonable advance in prices after such an immense recession which has taken place.

The situation has been certainly improved by the recent upturn for the financial atmosphere has been partially clarified and we are now in no danger of a severe panic, as threatened a few weeks ago. We can henceforward safely look for at least partial relief in the money market.
