BONAPARTE WON'T LET UP ON TRUSTS

Attorney General Indicates There Will be no Recession in the Campaign.

HANDS OF JUSTICE BOUND.

DRASTIC REFORMS IN DEPARTMENT PREDICTED IN INTERVIEW—GETS SARCASTIC REGARDING REPUTED REFORMS.

New York, Sept. 2.—In an interview by Charles J. Bonaparte, attorney general of the United States, at Lenox, Mass., he made these striking statements:

"Fines may be a deterrent toward continued lawlessness of great corporations, but the imprisonment of a proven malefactor would become a beacon light of warning and have a better moral effect than much litigation, however successful against corporate entities.

"The department of justice, as equipped today, is sadly deficient in many essentials to carry on successful prosecutions of many cases that by new legislation or adduced evidence demand vigorous action.

"In my next report I shall urge a recognition of the demand, yes, a drastic readjustment, that will place the department of justice in a better tactical position for its work. The details of what I propose I cannot discuss at this time, as they must be formulated in an orderly method and then worked out to insure a high degree of efficiency."

No Recession in Campaign.

Mr. Bonaparte's utterances and his attitude indicated plainly that, instead of recession in the campaign against law-breaking corporations, there is to be an even more vigorous warfare.

"There is a rumor that you are soon to resign?" was suggested.

"Yes," I saw that," said the attorney general, and the laughing eyes reflected mirth. "but I confess that I must say that my only information on the subject has come from the papers. Personally, I have no intention of resigning or deviating one hair-breadth from the program that has been laid out. I suppose certain interests—people—would like to see me resign, but I can not oblige them. I have just taken my apartments in Washington for another year dating from Oct. 1, and I don't expect to quit."

"General," it was suggested, "do you think the prosecutions that have been waged so far to a successful conclusion, such as the Standard Oil cases, the Sugar Trust cases, the Paper trust and so on, has aroused the citizens to a realization of the menace of continued practices of the kind and caused a reformation?"

Sarcastic Concerning Reform.

"I think," said the attorney general with a smile in which the irony of the remark was dreadfully illuminating, "that in the matter of rebates a great reform has been worked. The practice used to be the rule rather than the exception. Now I think it is the exception rather than the rule. The undertaking is arduous and few are willing to take the chances, and although some corporations indulge in illegal practices, the men in control of the corporations are the same high-minded, able, philanthropic captains of industry that they have always been."

PIPE OF PEACE IS NOW IN EVIDENCE

It Has Been Smoked by Warning Elements in Baseball League.

TWO FINES WERE ASSESSED

GARDNER AND LARUE WERE TAXED $1 AND COSTS WHICH WAS PROMPTLY PAID BY THE MANAGERMENTS.

Ex-umpire Frank Gardner, now right fielder on the Richmond baseball team, and Pearl LaRue, captain and third baseman of the Bluffton team, were each fined $1 and costs this morning in the city court for engaging in fist encounters at Athletic park Saturday afternoon. Gardner pleaded guilty to striking Second Baseman Pat Donovan of the Bluffton team, after the latter had been called out at home plate. LaRue pleaded guilty to striking Gardner at third base. Attorney W. H. Kelley appeared for both men. He asked the court to assess a nominal fine and suspend it in each case. Judge Converse stated that he realized it was only natural for participants in a baseball game to become intensely interested in the sport and that both defendants had in the heat of battle allowed themselves to be overcome by their emotions. He said that he felt only a nominal fine should be assessed in each case, but that inasmuch as the affair had come before the court, he thought it best not to suspend these fines. The management of the Richmond team paid Gardner's fine while the Bluffton management met LaRue's fine.

Smoke Pipe of Peace.

Both LaRue and Gardner have smoked the peace pipe, and are very sorry that the fight occurred. LaRue and his team mates admit that he was wrong in hitting Gardner at third base. On the other hand Gardner admits that his attack on Donovan was not justified. Donovan, after being called out at the plate, jumped up and said "what for?" whereupon Gardner struck him. Saturday evening Gardner apologized to Donovan for assaulting him and the apology was accepted. The Bluffton players are a lot of manly, well behaved fellows, and do not deserve all the abuse for the affair Saturday. In the Palladium Sunday morning it was stated that First Baseman Wills of the Bluffton team, was assaulted by Gardner after he had struck Donovan. This appears to be a mistake. Wills attempted to quiet the disturbance and was neither assaulted nor an aggressor in the fight.

THE SUNDAY BELL.

It is Sounded at Half Hour Intervals Day and Night.

The ship's bell is the mariner's clock. The nautical day begins and ends at noon, when eight bells is struck. The bell is struck half hourly and night, one stroke being added for each half hour until eight is reached, when the count begins at one bell.

In the United States navy the ship's bell hangs usually under the fore-castle, or just forward of the fore-mast. The captain's orderly keeps the time and reports to the officer of the dock the hour in terms of "bells." The officer of the deck then bids the messenger of the watch strike the bell. There is somewhat more formality at eight bells than at other times, for then the hour is reported to the captain and the bell not struck until he has said, "Make it so." Here is the routine on board a man-of-war at 8 o'clock in the morning: The orderly first says to the officer of the deck, "Eight bells, sir." The officer of the deck replies, "Report to the captain eight bells and chronometers wound." The orderly then goes to the captain and says, "Eight bells and the chronometers wound, sir." The captain replies, "Very well; make it so." The orderly goes to the officer of the deck and says, "Make it so, sir." The officer of the deck says to the messenger of the watch, "Strike eight bells," and if everybody has been prompt the messenger strikes eight bells at exactly 8 a. m.

Among those from Richmond who attended the Smith-Barr reunion at the Hagerstown fairgrounds Saturday, were Misses Emma Conway and Pearl Pitman and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bessleman.
