SECOND SHUT OUT BY BLUFFTON TEAM

Richmond Failed to Score in The Swamp Game of Monday Afternoon.

WAS NOT HORN'S FAULT.

ALTHOUGH THE VISITORS SECURED TEN HITS OFF HIS DELIVERY, THE DEFEAT WAS DUE TO AN ERROR.

(BY TORT.)

Bluffton, 2; Richmond, 0.

Bluffton used artificial Webb feet Monday afternoon and defeated the locals in a swamp game of baseball, score 2 to 0. The going was so fierce at 3 o'clock, the time the game was billed to be called, that Manager Jessup postponed action until an hour later. The heavy deluge of moisture put the diamond in a very mushy condition, but despite this, the small band of faithful, who would brave an earthquake to see a ball game, were supplied with a very creditable exhibition of the national pastime.

Mr. Guhl, whom our hitless wonders spanked at the Friday game, was repeated, and to say that he had "r-r-revenge," is drawing it mild. The ball throughout the game was so damp that Mr. Guhl had no difficulty in throwing the cupid curve, sometimes called the spit curve. The spray that splashed from Mr. Guhl's offerings got into the eyes of our batsmen and as a result only three hits are credited to us. Question—Why should not a C. Guhl have an effective dam delivery?

Was Not Horn's Fault.

Horn, with only one day's rest, was sent in against the tail enders. Casey, as a result, was tapped for ten hits, but at that the two Bluffton runs would not have been made had not Governor Minzler dropped a perfect assist of Jessup's to catch Fogle stealing second. Had the reliable Minzler made the opportunity of bringing in Fogle, to whom Horn gave transportation and LaRue, who made a clean single. These two runs came in the sixth.

The only time Richmond had a look in on the game was in the third. With one down, Ritter and Jessup each singled. The fans implored Weaver to pound out another one of his long distance bingles, but the best he could do was to sky to center. Carlin was also entreated by the fans to come to the rescue, but Tommy dashed our hopes by grounding to third. In conclusion it can be stated that if the Quakers have to go up against another bunch of pitchers like that Bluffton outfit carries, the various members of the Quaker outfit at the close of the season will have to inspect their batting averages with a microscope. Kokomo, 6-8; Decatur, 5-3.

Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 3.—Kokomo won a double header here Monday, defeating the Decatur ball team by scores of 6 to 5 and 8 to 3 in the morning and afternoon games. In the morning game the locals were forced to fight eleven innings before the game was decided, the visitors tying the score in the eighth inning. The winning run was scored when Shinn, the first man up for Kokomo, made a hit, pliffed second and third, scoring on a safety by Zellar, the second man up. Scores:

Kokomo won the afternoon game in easy fashion, batting way almost at will for a total of fifteen hits. Kokomo went after the visitors right from the start, scoring four runs in the first inning and practically cinched the game, while the visitors could do nothing with Grimes, the local slaban. Kik, the diminutive shortstop on the local team, who was just recently acquired by the club, has proved himself by his spectacular work, to be about the largest man on the team, stealing a second base after being issued a pass, and while the visitors looked on and wondered, and no one was expecting any one but a fool would hazard it, kept on and succeeded in reaching the plate before the ball could be shot to the catcher, amid the whoops and cheers of the spectators. Score:

SPORTS AND THE SPHERE.

The Basic Pursuit in Most Games is to Drive a Ball.

Some day there will arise a patient investigator who will work out this problem. Why are most sports but the variants of one object, the propulsion of a sphere?

Billiards, baseball, polo, golf, sling, marbles, squash, handball, football, basketball, cricket, bagatelle, tennis, shooting, pelota—the basic pursuit in each is to drive a ball, the propulsion of a sphere.

Tipcat, shuttlecock and top spinning are the employment of modifications of the sphere, and archery is but another method of propulsion.

It is a strange limitation of form and there must be a reason. Those who delve into origins may ascribe the whole motive of sports to some long armed, hirsute ancestor who first threw a pebble at a fellow cave dweller and found it great fun.

Or it may be poor mortal's attempt to get in a small fashion into the tremendous scheme of the universe, which is the everlasting movement of the spheres. Or it may be that sports are framed in inevitable obedience to some irresistible law of nature.

At any rate the fact is sports are based on the propulsion of the sphere, and some one ought to find a reason therefor.—New York American.

Reported Ball Player's Skull Is Fractured.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., Sept. 3.—Shortstop Stewart of the Van Wert, O. team, which played with the Shamrocks here Monday, is unconscious at St. Joseph's hospital with a fractured skull. A pitched ball in the first inning hit him back of the right ear, breaking the bones.

Highland Club Wins at Golf by One-Sided Score.

Indianapolis, Sept. 3.—The crack Highland Club again proved its supremacy in state golfing circles yesterday when it overwhelmed the strong Ft. Wayne Country Club team beneath a score of 27 to 3 on the local links. The surprise of the match was the defeat of Edgar Zimmer, one of the shining lights of the Indianapolis team, by W. F. Peters.

Result at Marion.

OIL TRUST NOW HAS FIGHT ON FOR LIFE

Government Has Inaugurated Campaign to Put It Out Of Business.

WITNESSES SUBPOENAED.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD THAT ROCKEFELLER AND OTHER MILLIONAIRES WILL NOT BE CALLED TO TESTIFY.

New York, Sept. 3.—The Standard Oil company of New Jersey, the parent company of the oil trust, will begin in New York Thursday, a fight for the life of itself and about seventy subsidiary companies when the preliminary hearing in the Missouri suit to dissolve the trust begins.

Government attorneys were in consultation until late last night in the federal building and the Waldorf-Astoria, where the federal attorneys are staying, as to the most promising methods of starting the fight for the dissolution of the great Oil Trust.

Rockefeller Will Escape Service.

However, it is admitted that no subpoena had been issued for the seven millionaire Standard Oil officeholders who are made defendants in the proceedings which were started in St. Louis. It is the desire of the government not to give them the benefit of an immunity bath. They are John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller, H. H. Rogers, Henry M. Flagler, Oliver H. Payne, Charles M. Pratt and John D. Archbold.

Half a dozen attorneys for the Standard Oil company have arrived in New York.

It was rumored that they would ask a postponement of the proceedings on the ground that they have not had sufficient time to prepare a defense. The attitude of the government on this point is displayed by a statement by Special Government Attorney C. B. Morrison of Chicago.

"They have had six weeks; it should be sufficient," he remarked.

The testimony to be taken in New York will be heard by ex-Judge Franklin Ferris of St. Louis, who was appointed a special federal examiner in the case. The government brought the case, which may mean the dissolution of the entire Standard Oil company and its offsprings companies, in St. Louis. The seven millionaire directors of the company were named as defendants, as well as the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and about seventy subsidiary companies. The entire dissolution of the Standard of New Jersey and the subsidiary companies is asked.

Charge is Conspiracy.

The special charge is that the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, its subsidiary companies named and the officers named "entered into a conspiracy to monopolize and restrain a commerce in petroleum and its products in violation of the Sherman act."

RIVER OF SALT WATER.

Flows Inland in a Greek Island and Then Disappears.

One of the most curious phenomena of geography is found on the southern coast of the island of Cephalonia, near Greece. It is a stream of salt water which for an unknown period has left the almost tideless sea and flowed inland with considerable volume.

The sea enters the land at four points where the coast is practically on a level with the salt water surface. The four initial streams unite to form the little river that flows inland in a broken rocky channel until it finally disappears in the limestone rock and sinks into the earth.

This inland flow has continued almost certainly for several centuries. It is far too great for removal by evaporation, chemical combination or even physical absorption by pores or caverns in the rocks. What becomes of the water that is constantly flowing inland and disappears finally in the fissures that have opened in the limestone?

The question has been the subject of much study, but no conclusive answer has been given. It is probable that there is an underground channel which carries the water back into the sea at no great depth below the surface. The constant influx of salt water at Cephalonia is duplicated as far as is known at no other point of the world.—New York Sun.

Among the students taking the art course at a certain Boston educational institution are two inexperienced youths. To reduce their expenses the young men share an apartment, to which is attached a sort of kitchen where they prepare most of their own meals. One morning the elder of the students appeared at the kitchen door, palette on thumb and frown on brow. "What's the matter with the coffee, Dick?" he asked. "Isn't it ready?" "A little patience, old man," replied Dick, "and I'll soon fix you. It's already sketched in."—Harper's Weekly.
