(By Tort.) KOKOMO 10; RICHMOND 3.

For the fourth time in three days the Quakers have had a crimp put in their winning streak by virtue of very punk and disgusting playing. Wednesday afternoon at Athletic park after the Kokomo Wildcats had left the yard, remnants of our former fast and aggressive ball team were found strewn in all directions. Kokomo took the game by the score of 10 to 3.

Nat Fleming, with a sore fin, essayed to twirl the game. He was greeted by the Kokomolites with an up roaring welcome. In the fifth, after the first man up had singled, making Kokomo's ninth hit, the derrier was used on Mr. Fleming and he was chased to the club house. Fisher was switched from third to the pitcher's box. Carlin went from short to third. Gardner was brought in from right field to shortstop and Wiltmood was chased out to right field. This combination worked well. The four innings Tacks the Southpaw worked not a hit was made off his delivery and he mowed down five batsmen, three of them breezing in one inning.

Three hits and a base on balls netted two runs for Kokomo in the second. The Wildcats had another merry go round in the third when a single a three bagger, a pass and a couple of errors netted three more runs. The fourth was a delicious, heart-breaking affair for the bugs. The Wildcats lit on Mr. Fleming for three singles, which combined with errors by Weaver in center and Gardner in right, netted four runs. The first Kokomo batsman up in the fifth singled off Fleming, who was then retired. Only infield outs could be made after Fisher went in this inning but the men Fleming allowed to get on the bases counted.

Richmond's first run came in the first. Ritter got a life on an error by Pitcher Biltz. He was advanced to third on outs and counted on Carlin's hard single. Richmond started a rally in the seventh and hits by Minzier, Gardner, Wiltmood and Jessup netted two runs. Kokomo then tightened and there was nothing more doing in the Quaker run line the remainder of the game. Score:

DECATUR 11; PORTLAND 2.
Portland, Ind., Sept. 5.—Portland lost Wednesday to Decatur by a score of 11 to 2. Hunt was in the box for the locals and was no puzzle to the visitors, who found his delivery easy, making eight hits and seven runs off him in the first six innings. At this stage of the game he retired and Gied pitched the remainder of the game. Five hits and four runs were made off his delivery. Portland had but six hits, which were badly scattered. Durham was responsible for one of Portland's runs, when, in the third inning he added another home run to his list for the season.

VAN WERT 4; BLUFFTON 3.
Van Wert, O., Sept. 5.—The home club won Wednesday's struggle by jumping on Hall in the opening inning three runs. From that time on it was a hot contest, although the lead secured by the locals was too large for Bluffton to overcome. The final score was 4 to 3. Score:

CAMPBELL-HARRINGTON CHAMPIONS IN DOUBLES

Defeated All Comers at Public Playgrounds.

ARE GIVEN SILVER MEDALS.

Tom Campbell and James Harrington are champions in tennis doubles for the season of 1907, having won the distinction by defeating all comers at the public playgrounds, their last victory being in the August tournament finals Wednesday night when they defeated Steinkamp and Thornburg. The scores were 8-6 and 6-4. In a previous match, Campbell and Harrington won by a score of 7-5 this giving them three straight matches.

The play in Wednesday's contest was not of the best. Steinkamp did the best work for his team and Harrington upheld the championship end, Campbell being erratic.
For their efforts, Campbell and Harrington get silver medals now on exhibition in the window of Haisley's shoe store.

WEBSTER DEFEATS ROYALS

Is Anxious to Schedule Several Other Games.

Webster, Ind., Sept. 5.—The fast Webster ball team took the Royals into camp Monday afternoon by the very one-sided score of 17 to 7. The Webster lads took the lead at the jump and were never headed. The diamond was wet and heavy and this accounts for many errors on each side. Webster has one of the fastest amateur teams in the state and would like to book games with any other amateur team. The adoption of postal savings banks in England was due to inadequate facilities and incompetent management of savings institutions. In 1890 more than half of the 163 savings banks were open only one day in the week, and then only for a very few hours. In twenty towns and fourteen counties, each with a population of over 10,000, there were no public facilities whatever for the deposit of savings.—Boston Transcript.
There are 11,000,000 buildings in the country. Scarce 4,000 of them lay any claim toward being fireproof, and that fireproofing consists solely of their skeletons, their frames being so protected that certain of the structural parts can not be destroyed by fire. In that sense alone were the big buildings of San Francisco and Baltimore fireproof, buildings on which there was a salvage of from 35 to 90 per cent.—Moody's Magazine.

MEETING A CROCODILE.

The Animal and the Hunters Were All Taken by Surprise.

While looking for a hippopotamus it was the fortune of the author of "Tegunda to Kiarum" to encounter a crocodile under somewhat unusual circumstances. He was following a fresh track leading through the dense undergrowth from the lake inland. Two men accompanied him, one carrying his camera and the other his second gun, while he shouldered his rifle.
Suddenly I heard a rustling noise in front of me and realized that some creature was approaching, but what? It could not be the hippo, because there was no thunderous tread, but I had no time to think, for the creature, whatever it might be, was upon me in a second.

At two yards I discovered what it was—an immense crocodile more than twelve feet long.
I was right in its path, and there was no possible escape on either side, so I stood still with my rifle at shoulder and waited. The "crocodile" did not wait, however, and in some remarkable way it hustled me to one side, almost knocking me over, and endeavored to make his way to the water.

To dispute his right of way would have been folly. I realized only a horrible, soft, wriggling mass pressing against my legs in a most sickening way. Why he did not bite me I do not know. At first I thought he had done so as he brushed against my leg, but I found it was only his horny scales that scraped my shin. And he was more taken by surprise than I was and forgot all about his huge jaw and the lasting impression he might have made upon my legs.

After he had passed I turned to see how the men would fare. One had got back to the shore and so was no longer in view. The other man with the camera was the funniest sight. His head was stuck fast in the thick brambles, and his legs were in the air, the camera of course in the mud beside him.

I do not think the "crocodile" could have seen him, for he had literally taken a header into the bush, and his legs were far above the crocodile's jaws.

THE SNEEZE

In Past Ages It Played a Very Important Part in Life.

Many odd notions still exist as to sneezing, and some persons may be heard to exclaim "Bless, my soul, once!" "Bless my soul, twice!" and so on after each sneeze. But in past ages the sneeze really played a very important part.

In ancient Greece the people saluted each other whenever any one present chanced to sneeze. As Xenophon was addressing the Greek army in a moment of defeat on a historical occasion a soldier sneezed. The lines of battle were formed at once, for the sneeze was deemed a good omen, and the Greeks were successful.

Among the Hebrews when a person sneezed the bystanders would say, "Tobinz chaim!"—"A long life to you." In India criminals on the rack of torture have saved their own lives by sneezing accidentally.

A humorous story about sneezing is told in that wonderful collection of oddities, "The Arabian Nights." A schoolmaster was particular in teaching his pupils the value of politeness. He also told them that whenever he sneezed they should clap their hands and say, "Long live our noble master!"

One day master and pupils went out for a stroll. The air was hot, and all soon grew very thirsty. Great was their joy at last to find a well. But the bucket was at the bottom of the well, and so the schoolmaster went down to bring it up. The boys seized the rope and tugged for dear life. Just as the schoolmaster reached the top of the well he sneezed. The boys let go of the rope and clapped their hands, shouting, "Long live our noble master!"
As for the poor schoolmaster, he fell to the bottom of the well, where he may be to this day, for all one knows.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Swords Bent Double to Test Them.

If you have an opportunity at any time of examining a sword such as is used in naval and military services you may notice that just below the hilt, an inch or two down the blade, there is a small disk of brass welded into the blade. The meaning of this brass might well escape any one not possessed of a well developed sense of curiosity. Swords are subjected to very severe tests before being issued, and this brass piece indicates that one of the tests to which the sword was subjected was to have its point bent right back until it touched the hilt at the brass spot. Swords that have successfully withstood this severe test are trustworthy.—London Chronicle.

Tested It.

"Willie," said the boy's mother, who was preparing to go out, "you mustn't eat that cake in the pantry while I'm gone. It will make you sick."
Three hours later when she returned Willie said: "You didn't know what you were talking about, mamma. That cake didn't make me sick a bit."—Chicago News.

Too Willing.

Old Lady (in tears, to chemist)—Will you poison my dear little child? He's in such—such agony. Chemist (politely)—With pleasure, madam. Old Lady (indignantly)—With pleasure, you nasty, unfeeling man! Then you shan't do it!—London Answers.

The Gerry...

The Gerry... called from its author, Elbridge Gerry, is a division of political boundaries by one party as to insure the defeat of political opponents by placing them in districts containing a majority of hostile voters. It has been worked successfully in hundreds of cases since Gerry first tried it although it is playing out as a political expedient. The gerrymander often defeats its purpose, as in the case of the late President McKinley, who was gerrymandered out of congress in the Sixteenth Ohio district only to be elected governor of the state for two terms by the Republicans and thence to go to Washington twice as president of the United States. Gerry first saw the light on July 17, 1744. He was vice president under Madison and had a long and distinguished career as a statesman.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.
