

FOUND EXPOSITION A DISAPPOINTMENT

Will Reller, Formerly of the Palladium, Writes of His Eastern Trip.

PLEASED AT WASHINGTON.

VIRGINIANS WOULD LIKE FOR ROOSEVELT TO RUN AGAIN AND THINK HE WILL—BRYAN IS NOT IN FAVOR.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 17.—Quite a number of Richmond people have made the trip to the Jamestown exposition this year and have returned to Indiana quietly, and told of their journey only to a few friends. Now there is no good reason why I should tell about my visit, when the others kept out of print, other than that I am a newspaper man. Long imposition on the public has created in me a desire to write about most everything I see, especially things which I never saw before.

I need say little about the Jamestown exposition. I spent but two hours on the grounds and about one fourth of that time was with Prof. Collins, formerly of Earlham college, who is in the government building, busy at analyzing water. The exhibits at the Jamestown exposition are not even fair when compared to the exhibitions held at St. Louis, Chicago and Buffalo, while laborers are still at work setting out shrubbery and making other improvements. Various refreshment stands built in anticipation of a heavy business have been abandoned, while the shows on the War Path and restaurants inside the grounds have done but a small percent of the business they had hoped for. In Norfolk, however, the hotels have been well filled. People spend little time at the exposition and hence the Norfolk people profit all the more, by their remaining in the town.

Notwithstanding the shortcomings of the Jamestown exposition few regret their visit to it and there are many reasons for believing that the Jamestown exposition has accomplished as much as its predecessors. Bringing people, living inland, to the coast and showing them historic ground is the chief mission of the fair. Those who go by the way of Pennsylvania state, stopping at Harrisburg, Baltimore and Washington and then continuing to Norfolk by boat on the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay and returning through Richmond, Virginia, over the C. & O. railroad get a most delightful journey—one not only marked throughout by scenery of great beauty and variety but by points which one has read about since childhood.

At least three days should be given to Washington and much more time could be profitably spent in the nation's capital. I am not giving out an original piece of information here, as is attested by the statement of the Washington hotel proprietors, who say the season's business has been the heaviest in their history. The trip down the river and bay from Washington occupies an entire day. It is restful, invigorating and above all something new to most Hoosiers.

The cost of the trip is about what one makes it. Hotel charges all along the line are about as they are in a western city, while cafe prices are nearly normal. When one finally reaches Hampton Roads, with all its ships, from every point on the globe, the thought of what it has cost vanishes, and realizing yourself in another world you almost shout with delight.

I want to interpose a bit of politics at this point, rather what I picked up in regard to the coming national campaign. Virginians would like for Roosevelt to run again and think he will. Next to Roosevelt they like Taft in the republican party, while Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana is not given serious consideration. His candidacy is looked on by the Virginians as a boom of minor importance. A hotel clerk in one of Richmond's leading hotels, who is in good position to feel the political pulse observed that there were one hundred men in the republican party better fitted for president than Fairbanks. This hotel clerk thought if Indiana sought a son for the presidency she should put forth Senator Beveridge.

Virginians are awaiting developments in regard to a democratic candidate. Bryan is not at all in favor, but the thought of another Parker is even more distasteful to them. They still swear by Grover Cleveland down here and most of the Virginians, it is said.

In a subsequent letter I will try to give the Palladium readers some impressions life in a Virginia school makes upon a Hoosier lad.

Peroxide of Hydrogen.

For a cut the prompt use of peroxide of hydrogen is advisable. It is antiseptic and cleansing and should always be on hand for an emergency. It is valuable also to destroy germs in drinking water. If you are in doubt as to the water supply and do not care to boil what you drink, add a table spoonful of peroxide of hydrogen to every gallon of water and you may drink it.

England has 144 churches for every 100,000 people. Russia has only 25 churches for a similar number.

Amusements

Vaudeville at the Phillips.

Although it might appear that eventually the supply of vaudeville stunts might be exhausted, the bills announced from week to week at the New Phillips, show no indication of it. For this week the management of this house has a program with all the features new to the patrons and of such a nature that it is believed they cannot fail to please. A German dialect act is included, something that has not been on the program of late. This will be put on by Harry Foster, who is also an eccentric dancer. Perhaps the chief interest will center in the Bennington company, which will present a sketch entitled, "Daffy Land," a spectacular, electrical and musical travesty. The full program for next week is as follows:

Overture—Miss Grace Miller.

The Famous Manlove family—European acrobats, equilibrists, hand to hand balancers, tumbling and heavy weight lifting.

Illustrated song—Cal Lankert, "Ar-ra Wannah."

Stith and Stith—Marvelous spinners and manipulators.

Harry Foster—German dialect comedian and eccentric dancer.

The Bennington Company—Presenting their up-to-date sketch entitled, "Daffy Land," a marvelous spectacular, electrical and musical travesty.

The cameragraph showing the latest motion pictures.

"The Show Girl."

There are seventeen of the newest popular song hits in "The Show Girl," the big musical comedy success which comes to the Gennett on Monday, Sept. 30. A charming chorus of twenty fine voices assists in the rendition of these pretty, new musical numbers.

"Psyche," "My Ivy Vine," "The Sailor Song" and "That's Gratitude" are among the leading numbers on the program and they are sung with a style and vim that make them popular.

Other plays that will be put on by the company during the week are "The Belle of Richmond," "Knobs O'Tennessee," "A Millionaire Tramp," "For Fair Virginia," "Sappho" and an elaborate and scenic production of Alexander Dumas "Monte Cristo." Randolph County Will Have a Good Yield.

Losantville, Ind., Sept. 21.—The corn crop in the western part of Randolph county which was considered a failure early in the summer is rapidly improving and will reach normal before the close of the season. Some of the fields are extra fine, the stalks bearing as many as three ears each.

Every one knows what an explosion is; but its opposite, an implosion, is less familiar. At great depths in the sea the conditions are favorable for its production. At 2,500 fathoms the pressure is roughly speaking, two and a half tons to the square inch; that is to say, several times greater than that exerted by the steam on the piston of a powerful engine.
