LAND VICTORY FROM AN APPARENT DEFEAT

Quakers Got Together When The Score Was Against Them and Won.

HORN CHASED TO WOODS.

COLORED LADS LIKED HIS DELIVERY AND IT WAS NECESSARY TO SEND YINGLING AS RELIEF EXPEDITION.

(By Tort.)

Richmond, 8; A. B. C.'s, 7.

Amid the settings of a high, clear sky and an extremely dark background, Richmond Wednesday rasped the Indianapolis A. B. C.'s, colored champs, 8 to 7. The game fairly reeked with base hits. In the middle of the third inning after the Alphabets had fallen upon Mr. Horn for their seventh base hit, a three bagger, which drove in their sixth run, Mr. Horn was crated and shipped on the skidoo limited to the stable. Yells by their rooters, fairly frazzling the atmosphere, greeted this feat of the colored champs, Mr. Yingling, the popular and effective Dayton twirler, was organized into a relief expedition and hustled into the box, with the score 6 to 2 against him, the man who had rapped Horn for the three bagger, stood gnawing the bit at the third corner. Allen, the first man to face Yingling, tapped him for a single and the decided brunette on third romped home. About two hundred colored bugs rose on their hind legs and again did things to the atmosphere. It was their last chance to holier, and they made the best of it.

In the second the Quakers had pushed two men over the pan on a single and a brace of errors. In the local third the gallant Quakers unpacked their sweat clubs and proceeded to maul Mr. Griffin, rated as the best pitcher last season in the African league. Plummer led off with a single. Parker and Burns then singled, connecting the cushions. Johnson scored Plummer on an out to left, then Parker counted by pulling off a clever double steal with Burns. Jessup hit to short and Burns was retired at third. Fisher and Fleming singled and Yingling brought Jessup and Fisher home on a hard driven single. Bush made the third out. When the smoke settled, Mr. Griffin was found to be considerably dismantled, but still game.

Won in the Fourth.

In the fourth Richmond won the game by shoving over the pan two runners. Plummer led off with his third single and Parker scored him by cracking out his customary three bagger. Mr. Parker is quite foolish about his three baggers. Burns skied to center, bringing Parker home. The side was then retired. By this time Yingling was sending over the pan with such speed that the ball smoked. There was nothing doing with his delivery and in only one inning did the colored champs threaten to count. This was the eighth, when Allen led off with a three bagger. Yingling retired the next man by getting in front of a hot one. The next batter was walked. Merida was breezed and Herron flew out to Plummer. After the fourth Griffin settled and to the close of the game was quite effective. The colored lads are ball players, splendid batters, clean fielders and run the bases like scared deers. The locals batted hard, but fumbled in a loose manner. Score:

CAMBRIDGE VS. EAST END

Football Season Will Open in Richmond Saturday.

Cambridge City, Ind., Oct. 3.—The high school football team of this place will meet the East End of Richmond at that place Saturday afternoon. The home team has been practicing diligently this week and expects to win the game. The line up is as follows: Carl Mosbaugh, right end; Will Shipmen, right tackle; Herman Barnett, right guard; Wayne Williams, center; Don Wright, left guard; Harry Dufferder, left end; Claude Heath, quarterback; Charles Young, right half; Gresh Drischoel, left half; Herbert Taylor, full back.

The Gallfly.

By the laws of England and of France legal documents are required to be written in ink made from galls such ink having proved to be practically indestructible. The mixture is of galls with sulphate of iron and gum arabic. This legal ink, at once the best and oldest in existence, entirely depends on a disease to which the oak tree is subject and which is caused by a fly known as the gallfly. The gallfly belongs to the same order as the bees and wasps, and when it is ready to lay its egg it cuts away the outer bark of an oak tree twig and deposits its eggs in the hole. From some unknown cause the tree immediately begins to enlarge about the egg, and a gall, or oak apple, as it is usually called, is formed. It is this gall which contains the tannic acid from which the ink is made.

Protoplasm.

Protoplasm is a living, transparent, viscid substance of proteid character, containing 70 per cent of water. It coagulates with heat at 130 degrees and dies when the body is raised to this temperature. As only dead protoplasm can be subjected to chemical analysis it is difficult to determine its chemical nature. Its nearest allies are to be found in the albuminoids, of which the white of an egg is a good example. Of the real nature of protoplasm there is, of course, absolutely nothing known.—New York American.

AN EFFORT ON TO GET HALF HOLIDAY

Petition Asking the Business Men to Close When the Reds Play Here.

WEAVER IS A DESERTER.

WENT TO HIS HOME AT NEW CASTLE AND HAS NOT RETURNED—FINK HAS BEEN SIGNED IN HIS PLACE.

An effort is being made to have the business men of the city declare a half holiday on the afternoon of Tuesday, October 8, so that their employes can have an opportunity of seeing the Cincinnati Reds play the Richmond team. Richmond is a hot bet of Cincinnati rooters and all the fans would appreciate an opportunity of seeing the famous Reds in Action at Athletic park. Manager Jessup will circulate a paper among the business men of this city which reads as follows:

"The undersigned business men of Richmond, believing that the interest in the national game is such that a few hours during one afternoon of the season may be given to our employes to witness a contest, hereby agree to make Tuesday afternoon, October 8, a holiday between the hours of 3 and 5:30 o'clock, in order that our employes may witness the contest between the Cincinnati National league team and the Richmond team."

It is expected that a large number of business men will sign this agreement. Manager Jessup has gathered together a splendid aggregation of ball players and the team deserves the support of the business men of this city, nearly all of whom are staunch supporters of the national game. The cost of bringing the Reds here is considerable, and unless the fans support the team they will lose money on the game.

Weaver a Deserter.

The locals are playing the second game with the famous Indianapolis A. B. C. team, now colored champions of the state. This team is one of the best that has been here this season.

Stokes Weaver has deserted the Quakers. Last Saturday he left here on the excuse that his father had been injured at his home near New Castle. Weaver played Sunday with the New Castle team at Connersville, and the members of the Richmond team believe that he "faked" up the excuse about his father so he could play with New Castle. Members of the Richmond team are sore over the manner in which Weaver double-crossed them. Outfielder Fink, of the Canton Central league team, arrived here this afternoon to take his place in the outfield. Fink probably will play center field in place of Weaver. Fink is a hard hitter and a clever base runner and fielder.

An amusing incident took place at the game Wednesday. In the eighth the colored team had a man on third and no outs. One of the colored fans, who had evidently placed his money on the visitors, yelled out, "I want all you shins to rally 'round the blood stained banner of Africa." The pleading of the fan was all in vain—the runner never got any further than third base.

HONORS GOING TO DETROIT

Tigers Will Meet the Cubs for World's Championship.

By winning two games from Washington Wednesday while the Athletics were losing to Cleveland, the Tigers practically clinched the American League pennant and the right to meet the Cubs for the world's series. Philadelphia still has five games to play and Detroit four. The Athletics will have to win all of their remaining games, while Detroit is losing two, to get the flag.

THE LOST ATLANTIS.

An Ideal Land Where Man Had Reached of Social Perfection.

According to Plato, who was the first to put the story on record, having heard it from the Egyptian priests, Atlantis was an island in the Atlantic ocean "over against the pillars of Heracles." It was larger than Asia and Africa taken together and 9,000 years before his time was densely peopled by a race rich, great and powerful. The dominion extended over the greater part of Africa and Europe, and their conquering progress was finally checked only by the united resistance of the Athenians and other Greeks.

In the course of time this great people, this powerful nation, forgot its greatness and its power and turned to wickedness and sin. Then there came an earthquake, which lasted a day and a night and was followed by an inundation of the sea. After that nothing but slime and shoals remained to mark the spot where Atlantis had flourished.

This is the romantic story as told by Plato. As we have said, he got it from the priests of Egypt. Where did the priests get it? Was it purely imaginary, or was it founded, as some of the stories of mythology are, upon a thin foundation of fact?

On this point both the ancient and the modern writers have different views. Some suppose that the existence of the island was really believed in because the Phoenicians may have visited the Canary Islands or the Azores; that the story of Atlantis grew out of their possible discovery. Others think that it is the expression of a vague belief by the ancients in the existence of the western hemisphere.

So far as the origin of the story goes, we shall never perhaps know more than we do now, but we have for all time the beauty of the story itself as showing what the poets of antiquity conceived to be the ideal condition of the human race.

According to these ancient writers, Atlantis was one of the most productive countries in the world. Its natural resources were unbounded. Everything that could add to the pleasure and comfort of men was there in profusion—grain, wine, delicious fruit, metals of various kinds, great forests, fertile plains, pleasure grounds, springs and rivers.

The island was divided into ten kingdoms, each wholly independent of the other, but bound by the common ties of noble purposes and mutual good will. Commerce flourished as it did nowhere else in the world, its harbors receiving the products of every other known country. There were large and populous cities rich in architectural effect and embellished with the most beautiful works of art. Its villages were also rich and thriving, and its fields were under the most skillful and profitable cultivation.

This was Atlantis as the old poets pictured it, the ideal land where men had reached the ultimate development of social and general government.—Chicago News.

Visitors From Space.

Whatever be their origin, it would seem that these solid bodies (meteors) are hurling through space at velocities which may be anything between ten and forty miles a second. If they come near enough to this earth to be attracted by it, their course is changed and presently they enter our atmosphere. The result is a sudden check to their speed, owing to the intense resistance and friction engendered by contact with the air particles. What happens may be likened to the sudden application of the wooden brake block to the rapidly moving

A Wise Answer.

It takes but an ordinary man to return an angry answer to an insult. The extraordinary man is he who, under such circumstances, holds himself so well under control that he controls his adversary also. Persia once possessed such a man and was clear sighted enough to make him a judge. He was the chief judge of Bagdad in the reign of Caliph Hadeed, and his name was Aboos Yussuf. He was a very wise man, for he knew his own deficiencies and was actually sometimes in doubt as to whether he possessed sufficient wisdom to give a just decision in cases peculiarly shrouded in mystery.

It is related of him that on one occasion, after patient investigation of facts, he decided that he had not sufficient knowledge to pronounce on the case before him. There was in his presence a pert courtier, one of those men who take long to learn that wisdom and impudence are not closely related.

"Pray, do you expect that the calliph is to pay you for ignorance?" he asked, hoping to place the judge at a disadvantage.

"I do not," was the mild reply. "The calliph pays me, and pays me well, for what I do know. Were he to attempt to pay me for what I do not know the treasures of his empire would not suffice."

TUESDAY CLUB'S MEETING.

Club Season Was Inaugurated at New Paris, Tuesday.

New Paris, O., Oct. 3.—The Tuesday club met with Mrs. Garwood Redell, one mile west of town, Tuesday evening. There were fourteen members present and one guest, Mrs. Ollie Newbern. The program, which consisted of an inaugural address by Miss McNeill and the "Map Study" of Mexico by Miss Carrie Reid was very interesting and entertaining. Afterwards the club and guest were treated to an elegant two-course luncheon. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. McKee.

Old time geographers had a simple way of describing countries they knew nothing about. They just wrote the word "desert" across them on the map. For a long time the interior of Australia bore this uncomplimentary epithet, but explorers have demonstrated its unfairness.

PROVED A GOOD RUNNER

Ball Player Shows Hold Up Men His Heels.

Hagerstown, Ind., Oct. 3.—A bold attempt was made to hold up Charles Swoveland, a well known young farmer and baseball player. Mr. Swoveland lives half a mile west of town, and when he reached the race bridge on his way home was stopped by two men, who demanded his money or his life. The young man dashed his fist in the face of one of the men and started for home as fast as he could run. His assailants pursued, but failed to catch him, all the way cursing and imprecating and threatening to kill. Mr. Swoveland confesses to being badly frightened, but he escaped injury.

Considers Bridegroom.

A girl and a young man, both of whom had steady jobs, were married the other day. The day after they were married the girl said to her husband, "Oh, George, now that we are married there is only one thing I regret, and that is that I have to give up my fine position." The fond young husband stroked the silken tresses of the young wife's hair and soothingly replied: "Now, darling, don't worry. You needn't give up your position. I'll give up mine."—Kansas City Star.

Lost Time.

"Time is precious," remarked the minister.

"It is indeed," replied the man of business, "and I've wasted lots of it." "By indulging in foolish pleasures, I suppose," said the good man.

"No," replied the other. "I lost it by being punctual in keeping my appointments with others."

Sounded Ominous.

"Your father said something about my staying so late last night, didn't he?" asked the young man.

"Yes," replied the dear girl, "he did say something, but I don't know just what he meant. He said if you didn't go home earlier hereafter there'd be a kick coming from him."—Philadelphia Press.

It Was Soaked.

"Yes, I was out in all that storm. My raincoat was soaked, and—" "But you can't soak a raincoat, you know." "I can't, hey? Here's the check for it."—Kansas City Independent.
