WILLIAM WAKING IS BADLY INJURED IN SUNDAY FIGHT

As Result of an Argument With Joseph Goodbar Over a Motorcycle, Waking Received
Many Severe Cuts.

THIRTY STITCHES ARE TAKEN TO CLOSE THEM.

Goodbar, Who Has Been in Employ of Pennsylvania Railroad, Left the City and Has Not Been Found.

William Waking, Main street plumber, is now suffering with several deep and ugly cuts across the face and back of the head as the result of a Sunday morning fight which occurred in front of his plumbing shop, all caused by a dispute arising over a motorcycle. Joseph Goodbar, who for the past three months was a brakeman on the south end of the Pennsylvania, Richmond division, was the wielder of the knife, which worsted Waking. Goodbar escaped and up to the present time has eluded the efforts of the police department to capture him. Waking is confined to his home with the injuries sustained. Thirty stitches were required to repair the damage done.

Story of the Trouble.

Goodbar, it appears, while sauntering along the street, was attracted to the motorcycle standing at the curb. He approached it and got astride. Wm. Krueger, who has acted as custodian for the motorcycle for some time, demanded in strong terms that Goodbar climb off the wheel. Goodbar answered in equally strong language, not becoming to the Sabbath morning. At that time, according to the story of an eye witness to the scene, Waking stepped up and said, "Get away from that wheel, I tell you." "I guess I have a right to stand on the sidewalk," replied Goodbar, and Waking opened hostilities by striking Goodbar in the face, a blow which spoiled his facial arrangement and sent blood spurting. Enraged, Goodbar struck at Waking and in the scuffle which followed, grabbed the plumber by the hair and pulled him over toward him. In the meantime he began plying his right hand to Waking's face and the back of his head. No one knew till Waking straightened up with his face sliced in several places, that Goodbar had been using a knife. Immediately after he released his grip on Waking, Goodbar ran to Ft. Wayne avenue and from thence to his boarding place at 20 Ft. Wayne avenue and through the house. The last seen of him was near the Louck shop. It is supposed that he climbed aboard a C. C. & L. freight train and went to Cincinnati.

Could Not Be Found.

Sergeant McManus and Patrolmen Winters, Vogelsong and McNally scoured the country surrounding Richmond all day Sunday, but could find no traces of the men. McManus and Vogelsong rode southward on a Pennsylvania freight train thinking that the man would haunt his old stopping places along the road, but no sign could be found of his whereabouts. The affidavit filed against Goodbar charges him with assault and battery with intent to kill.

Waking received two long gashes on either side of the face through which his teeth and cheek bones were visible. A long gash was also cut in the back of his head.

As the knife used by Goodbar was a rusty one, there are fears expressed that the wounds may result more seriously than at first thought. The knife is now in the possession of Sergeant McManus and although a pocket knife, it is a most vicious appearing one.

BUT THREE REPLIES HAVE BEEN RECEIVED

Farmers Take Little Interest In Project.

FIVE HUNDRED SENT OUT.

Only three replies have been received to the five hundred invitations that were sent out to the farmers and gardeners in this vicinity, asking them if they would be willing to grow tomatoes, cabbage and pickles for a factory that desires to locate here. It is surprising to the Commercial club officers that no more interest is taken in the matter. It is possible that other replies will be received within a short time.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCA- TION OF THE NEGRO

It Was Discussed in a Profitable Way at the First Presbyterian Church.

G. F. RICHINGS IS HEARD.

HE IS ENDEAVORING TO CREATE AN INTEREST IN THE CURRY NORMAL AND INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL OF URBANA, O.

G. F. Richings delivered a splendid lecture on "The Industrial Education of the Negro," at the First Presbyterian church Sunday night. A large congregation was present. The lecturer followed out the finer lines laid down in the Booker T. Washington institute at Tuskegee.

The real intent of Mr. Richings' lecture is to create an interest in the Curry Normal and Industrial school, located at Urbana, Ohio. The school fulfills the purpose of educating the young negro along the same lines as laid down by the University of Tuskegee and is incorporated under the laws of Ohio. Some of the leading white men of the state are behind this movement for the benefit of the colored race.

Mr. Richings' clear and comprehensive review of the negro question aptly illustrated by pictures which brought out convincingly the fundamental points of his argument presented the race question in an altogether different light than that possessed by many of his hearers.

Two questions that are the most prominent in the consideration of the colored race—why educate and train the negro and how shall it be done? Mr. Richings answered in detail and not too radical, and all were pleased with his instructive method of handling the subject.

One point made by Mr. Richings was the fact that the negroes are leaving the south by the thousands and coming to towns and cities of the north, and "we dare not let them grow up in ignorance, as we would in that way allow them to become a menace to our civilization." He said we should lose sight of our prejudice against the colored race and try to make them cultured and useful citizens.

Mr. Richings will present his lecture and pictures tonight at East Main Street Friends' church and Thursday night of this week at the United Presbyterian church. Tuesday evening he will give a lecture at G. A. R. hall that will be illustrative of the progress of the colored people and will also represent famous Tuskegee institute, founded by Booker T. Washington. Appropriate music will be rendered by a quartet. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Crispus Attucks loyal league. The public is invited to these lectures.

OCTOBER TERM OF COURT IS OPENED

Much Time Was Devoted by Judge Fox to Calling the Probate Docket.

ITALIAN WAS MADE HAPPY.

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE TO THE UNITED STATES ADMINISTERED
—PROBABLE THAT GRAND JURY
WILL NOT BE NEEDED.

The October term of the circuit court opened this morning. Judge Fox spent nearly all the morning calling the probate docket. The work of calling the docket will take up the greater part of the court's time this week and the majority of the cases will not be set for trial until next week. Judge Fox this morning announced to the lawyers that there was an unusually heavy civil docket this term and that he intended to hear as many cases as possible.

The only business transacted in the court, except the calling of the docket, was the administering to Aniello Corsi, a native of Lacedonia, Italy, the oath of allegiance to the United States. Corsi was a happy man when he left the court room an American citizen. Two years ago Corsi filed papers notifying all concerned of his intention to become an American citizen. After following all the requirements of the new naturalization law, Corsi was today qualified to receive the oath of allegiance. He came to this country in 1898.

Prosecutor Jessup stated that in all probability the grand jury would not be called this term of court. There are no cases now pending that the prosecutor deems important enough to bring before a grand jury. In the event that something happens which will require grand jury investigation, the jury will, of course, be summoned. It is not probable that the petit jury will be summoned for at least two weeks.

KELLY IS STILL MISSING

Man Who Figured in Golden
Case Keeps Away.

At the time ex-patrolman Wm. Kelly was assaulted by Earl Huntington and "Jim" Kelly, Earl was captured, but Kelly has never been apprehended. It was thought at the time that Kelly would make his appearance in Richmond shortly but he has given this city the cold shoulder, according to police officers, and they have no idea where he is located. Huntington is serving a long time sentence in the county jail for his share of the mixup.

UNITED BRETHREN EDGAGE IN REVIVAL

Pastor M. Hobson Is Being Assisted by an Evangelist and Singer.

SERMON BY REV. SHANNON.

HE TALKS ON THE UNITED CHURCH—THERE WILL BE SER-VICES HELD EACH AFTERNOON AND NIGHT INDEFINITELY.

The revival meetings being conducted by pastor, Rev. M. Hobson, and evangelists J. E. Shannon and Clarence Eward, in the U. B. church, corner of Eleventh and North B streets had a very auspicious beginning Sunday. The attendance was very good. Five musical instruments beside the organ added greatly to the music. Mr. Eward's singing was especially helpful. Mr. Shannon's morning theme was "Some Elements of a Winning Church." He spoke in part as follows:

By a winning church I mean one that gets people in, teaches, trains and sends them out for active service.

I. A church should be officiated with holy men—men clean in heart, and careful, and consistent in conduct—men of good report. The world has a right to expect of us all that the Bible demands.

2. It should be composed of members whose lives are set to high and holy purposes and who are being transformed daily by the spirit through the truth.

3. It should be presided over by men divinely called to the ministry—men who have a passion for the souls of men.

4. Its members are faithful, faithful and regular in attendance at the meetings appointed. Nothing except business or domestic demands should be allowed to interfere with church attendance. It is of no use for a man to say that his heart is present in the meetings if he is wilfully keeping his body away.

5. Another characteristic of a winning church is Christian fellowship. In connection with our homes our churches should be both the social and religious centers of the community.

6. It cares for its members in the hour of their need. Every man helps to bear every other man's burden. This is pure Christian socialism.

Meetings are being held daily at 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. No matter who you are or what you believe, come, it is the invitation extended by the pastor and his helpers.

MEETING OF CHARITIES.

It Will Be Held at the Knollenberg Annex.

The monthly meeting of the Council of Associated Charities will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Knollenberg Annex. All the members are urged to be present.

HARTRIDGE'S WIFE CANNOT BE FOUND

Wife of Thaw's Former Coun-

HAS A NERVOUS TROUBLE.

New York, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Clifford W. Hartridge, wife of Harry Thaw, of the stock room of the Richmond Manufacturing company, has disappeared and is thought by her husband to be in a private sanitarium. The police have searched for her in vain. She is suffering from a nervous trouble.

BARTLETT COX IN A SPENDTHRIFT STUNT

Wife Fell Heir to $700 and He Started Out to See How Soon He Could Lose It.

HIS WIFE IS BUT FIFTEEN.

COX WAS ARRESTED AND WAS FINED BY COURT ON CHARGES OF DRUNKENNESS AND CARRY-ING OBSCENE LITERATURE.

Mrs. Bartlett Cox of this city fell to about $700 and in this fact there lies a story, as the money was the direct downfall of Mrs. Cox's husband, his subsequent arrest and hearing in police court this morning. The old story of the profligate husband was repeated. Count De Castellane could never have been happier when he saw the Gould millions within the reach of his eager fingers than was Cox, when his fifteen-year-old wife received the few hundred dollars from her guardian, Saturday.

Mrs. Cox up to last August was staying with an aunt residing near Richmond. Cox, who is a man approaching thirty years, went a-wooing and as the result he captured the young girl and marriage shortly followed. By the act of marriage the money which the girl's guardian was holding for her until she came of age, had to be paid on demand, and after a few days had elapsed following the ceremony, Cox consulted with an attorney, it appears, to ask the proper mode of procedure to secure it. His efforts were successful and Saturday the much-wished-for currency arrived in Richmond.

Apparently Cox's joy knew no bounds for he immediately proceeded to imbibe freely. He made a visit to the cleaning shop operated by R. Graham and there manifested his joy over securing the money. He exhibited it freely. Cox soon left, however, and dropped behind him a $100 bill which was taken to police headquarters by Graham and there turned over to the authorities.

An Officer Sent Out

Sergeant McManus, hearing of Cox's actions before Graham made his appearance at headquarters, had decided that Cox was cutting too large a swath, having purchased a dog for $10 and then given a boy $1 to get the dog, besides casting his wife's money to the winds in other directions, detailed an officer to search for him.

Saturday afternoon the bartender at Steele's saloon almost dropped three mugs of cold beer when Cox called to him, "Hit there, give me change for this money!" At the same time he waved $560 in one hand, so as to impress the crowd near him that he was John D. in disguise. Hardly had the request of Cox fallen from his lips when the cold hand of the law in the person of Patrolman Vogelsong fell forcefully upon his shoulder. He walked to the police station, all the while waiving his "wad" of money before the very noses of pedestrians on Main street. A search at headquarters revealed a piece of obscene literature on his person and instead of one charge being filed against him, he faced Judge Converse with another outstanding. He plead guilty to both but witnesses were examined to show the characteristics of the man. He drew $1 and costs on the charge of public intoxication and $10 and costs on the charge of carrying obscene literature. Prosecutor Jessup asked that the court bestow a jail sentence upon Cox but this was not done.

The case evoked much sympathy and pity for Mrs. Cox, a mere girl. She is a nice appearing little woman and when she made the statement that the money which Cox had on his possession at the time of the arrest was hers, a wave of indignation was evident.
