NEW ZEALAND MAGIC.

A Native Story of the Power of the Tuhunga.

From New Zealand comes the following weird yarn:

"The tuhunga (native magician) was even credited with the power of influencing the dead. The present writer was a witness of the following incident: A branch of the Ararua, the tribe of the district of Rotorua, being at war, had suffered defeat, and one of their braves had been brought home. The vanquished sought at once to find out by some omen connected with the dead chief whether they would be successful in their next encounter. The tuhunga was requested to procure the desired omen, the people squatting in a ring about the bier. Advancing a few paces from the dead body, the priest began to recite a powerful incantation, intent on making the deceased give some sign, the eyes of all present being fixed on the slain warrior. Presently the corpse was observed to move slightly to one side, on which a great cry of joy rose from the people. The movement was interpreted as a sign of future victory. This feat was often performed by the tuhunga of olden times."—Chicago News.

helped him, got the same rate. They were both docked for lateness and off days, but there was no overtime allowance. Correggio got for his 'Christ In the Garden' $725. Carracci's 'Resurrection' only brought the painter $650. Albert Durer for his pen and ink portraits was not paid in cash. A bag of flour, a hundred oysters, a pair of boots—Durer would gladly do your portrait on such a system of remuneration.

"Rembrandt's top notch price was $475. He got that for his 'Night Watch'."

"Velasquez worked chiefly for the Spanish government. He was paid at the average rate of $25 a picture. Think of it! Thirty-five dollars for the 'Rokeby Venus'!"—Minneapolis Journal.

A MARRIAGE FICTION.

The Old Time Nation That Matches Are Made in Heaven.

The polite fiction obtains that marriages are made in heaven. This romantic viewpoint is particularly popular in America, where it is held to be highly improper for parents to make any move toward securing good husbands for their daughters and immediate for girls to manifest any interest in the subject themselves.

The conventional theory is that the matter is on the knees of the gods and that in due season husbands will be provided like manna in the wilderness for sustenance of the faithful. Unfortunately this miracle does not always come off for every woman. The supply of manna gives out. There are not enough husbands to go around, and these are unevenly divided. Some women get three or four, while others get none. But neither the old maids nor their parents realize that the reason that they did not share in the dispensation was their own fault, because they did not put themselves, as old fashioned Methodists used to say, in an attitude to receive the blessing—Dorothy Dix in Ainslee's.
