Edwin C. Taylor Charges His Wife, Mattie, with Desertion.

WIFE ALSO MAKES CHARGES

SAYS THERE IS "THE WOMAN IN THE CASE"—PENALTY FOR HUSBAND DESERTION AFFORDS SPECULATION.

Attorney John F. Robbins, Friday filed suit for divorce for Edwin C. Taylor, against Mattie Taylor in the Marion Circuit court, Indianapolis. Just a few months ago Mrs. Taylor tried to secure a divorce in the Wayne circuit court. Her husband fought the action and as a result Judge Fox refused to grant the divorce. Mrs. Taylor charged hubby with failure to provide and that an Indianapolis woman had supplanted her in her husband's affections. "The woman in the case" appeared in court, but was not called upon to testify.

Taylor in his suit charges his wife with desertion. He says that when he moved to Indianapolis he tried to induce his wife to move there with him. She refused, so one winter he returned to this county and spent the entire winter here with her. In the spring he returned to Indianapolis and again tried to induce Mrs. Taylor to go with him. Once more she refused and since then they have been living apart. Because of her refusal to make her home with him in the capital city Taylor avers that Mrs. Taylor is guilty of desertion. Attorneys are wondering the penalty for husband desertion.

HERRMANN IS SWAMPED

Applications for Management Of Reds Still Coming In.

Cincinnati, Dec. 7.—Two more applications for the position of manager of the Reds were received by President Herrmann yesterday. One came from H. R. Durant, manager of the Waterbury team, of the Connecticut league. Mr. Durant is a Yale graduate, and has been in baseball for the past 10 years. Two years ago he purchased the Waterbury club for $1,500, turned it into a winner and a money maker and has received $5,750 for players sold in two seasons. Though doing such a good business at his present stand, he is anxious to break into the big league, and he does not ask $12,000 for his services. Another applicant is Gus Wetherall, manager of an independent club at Albion, Pa., who would probably do just as well as some others who have been mentioned.

FORWARD PASS IN DISFAVOR AT YALE

Walter Camp Urges That Play Be Abolished.

AGAINST ELEMENT OF LUCK

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 7.—Yale will urge the abolition of the forward pass in football before another season. Walter Camp, Yale's athletic director, opened the crusade for that reform in the following letter to the Yale News: "The American collegian, whether player or spectator, does not care for a game in which the element of chance is paramount. He likes to see or play a game where hard work counts, and a game where definite planning secures a well appreciated result. For this reason he does not care for the unlimited forward pass, which can now be tried without severe penalty on first and second down. Throwing the ball around indiscriminately may be the last resort of a weak, or inferior team and as such is unsatisfactory."

INDIANA FARMER, EIGHTY YEARS OLD, INHERITS TWO MILLION DOLLARS

PEOPLE WHO TAUNTED OLD MAN'S CLAIM FOR MANY YEARS NOW SEEK FAVOR—MONEY DATES FROM SIR FRANCIS DRAKE.

Boonville, Ind., Dec. 7.—The happy experience of a man of eighty summers to be assured that he is to receive a share aggregating two millions of dollars, is what has come to the person of William Matthews, a farmer of Warrick county, living near this city. The story of his sudden fortune would be mere fiction were it not for the facts in the case which prove that there is money behind the movement and that the estate is a reality. Some time ago Mr. Matthews received papers to be filled out and which were to prove up his claim to his inheritance to a large estate in England left by the famous English explorer and navigator, Sir Francis Drake. During his residence here Mr. Matthews has always alluded to the money in question and has maintained that some day, even though it would be in his extreme old age, he would be the proud possessor of money that would be due him then.

The origin of the money dates back to the year 1572 when Sir Francis Drake, the explorer, disregarded the laws of nations and began to prey upon Spanish Merchant ships, thereby enriching himself with enormous wealth of gold and precious metals. The histories say that he enriched himself by a process little different from that of piracy, and that after getting untold wealth in South America waters, he sailed up the western coast of the Americas and later circumnavigated the globe. He now holds the distinction of being the first Englishman to sail around the world. Shortly after his return to England Sir Francis Drake invested his money. A part of it was placed in a certain enterprise for a period of over three hundred years, which time has just elapsed. It is this money that Mr. Matthews is partly a heir to.

It is said that the heirs have never lost sight of the invested money, which, though small when invested, has now reached into the millions. Owing to the fact that the heirs have kept closely in touch with the money and have always known that it would be due them at this time, most of them have been located and have been asked to prove their title.

Hundreds of old people in this county are well acquainted with Mr. Matthews and have heard him tell many times of his fortune which was to come to him. And hundreds of people have as many times discredited his story, but at this time they are being astounded by the facts in the case which confront them.

Mr. Matthews is a widower and a soldier of the civil war. He has a son and several daughters living.

PUBLISHERS MAY SOON ORGANIZE

Indiana Associated Dailies, May Be the Name.

COUNTY PAPERS AFFECTED.

The Indiana Associated Dailies will likely be the name of a new organization of newspaper publishers to be formed within a short time in Indiana, with headquarters in Indianapolis.

Preliminary steps toward bringing the owners of "country dailies" into one organization for "social and business" purposes were taken Friday at a meeting held at the Denison hotel in Indianapolis by a number of newspaper publishers.

N. M. Moss, publisher of the Linton Daily Call, presided at the meeting. Frank T. Singleton of the Martinsville Reporter was secretary.

Some time ago letters suggesting an organization of the publishers were sent out. Out of forty-five replies received forty-three publishers favor an organization. A committee was appointed to adopt constitution and by-laws and a general meeting of publishers will be held within the next few weeks.

If the organization is formed it is probable that a press service plan will be adopted by which all of the papers may be supplied with state news at a nominal price.

ENTRIES ATTRACT MUCH ATTENTION

Mrs. Meredith's Entries at Live Stock Show.

NOW ON IN CHICAGO.

At the live stock show now on exhibition at Chicago, Mrs. V. C. Meredith of Cambridge City, one of the best known stock raisers in the state, is represented by a prize bull, and two cows. Her entries are attracting attention. Many of the exhibits come from Illinois, Indiana and Iowa. Indiana is especially strong on cattle.

One of the few "freak" exhibits at the show is the cattle exhibited by W. S. Vanatta, of Fowler, Ind. The cattle are a cross among a buffalo, a Hereford and a Jersey, and the one on exhibition at the stockyards is the only one in this section.

The animal is striped like a zebra and has been attracting much attention of stockmen, few if any of the visitors ever having seen the strange hybrid. The crossing of Buffalos with cows was first tried in Salt Lake a few years ago on the buffalo farm at Antelope island, where the largest herd of buffalo in the country now is.

There are said to be four cattalos at Antelope island at present. The Fowler animal is the only other cattalo in this part of the country.

During the last few months in Switzerland and France there have been brought to light several caverns in which petrification of water had wrought marvelous effects of crystalline decoration. ## FOOTBALL TEAM WELL PLEASED BY PICTURE

Pompadours Are Very Much in Evidence.

VARIETY OF THE VIEWS.

The members of the high school football team have received proofs of the pictures taken of them some time ago and are very well satisfied with the results. On the whole the pictures are unusually good and the pompadours, of which the boys are so proud, are present in all of their freshly cut glory. Another picture shows the plucky little quarter-back, Eddie Cox, and the half-back, "Happy" Wann, Jr., standing with the ball between them in a very realistic manner.

PRODUCTION PLEASES A LARGE AUDIENCE

The Red Mill Proved to Be Beautiful and Picturesque.

THE STARS CREATE MIRTH.

A fairly good sized audience, the best of the season, witnessed an excellent musical production, "The Red Mill," Friday evening at the Gennett theatre. "The Red Mill" was one of the most pleasing productions of its kind ever seen in this city. The stage settings were particularly beautiful and appropriate, the quaint Dutch costumes were most picturesque, the lines by Henry Blossom are naturally clever and witty. Victor Herbert has supplied numerous and catchy musical numbers. There is actually a lot to the play and the big cast is a particularly good one.

M. P. Coakly and Harry McBride were very amusing in their parts of two homesick New Yorkers, stranded in a little Dutch village. Louise Brackett as the barnmaid was pretty, dainty and graceful. She carried her part splendidly. All the other principals could not have been improved upon.

McBride and Coakly furnished two novel and exceedingly entertaining character sketches. At the opening of the second act they entered as Italian musicians. This sketch included a grind organ and a monkey, which climbed all over the "organist" and pilfered sweets from his coat pocket. In the latter part of the same act these two clever comedians appeared as Sherlock Holmes and his friend, Dr. Watson. The takeoff on these two celebrated characters was a scream, especially when Holmes injected "dope" into his wrist, with a hypodermic syringe the size of an automobile pump. Richmond amusement lovers would be pleased to welcome "The Red Mill" back any time.

Infants and children are constantly needing a laxative. It is important to know what to give them. Their stomachs and bowels are not strong enough for salts, purgative waters or cathartic pills, powders or tablets. Give them a mild, pleasant, gentle, laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which sells at the small sum of 50 cents or $1 at drug stores. It is the one great remedy for you to have in the house to give children when they need it.

Great pains are taken by the German military authorities to exclude all foreigners from obtaining any acquaintance with their new field artillery, but it has become known that its caliber is 77mm., or 2mm. higher than is usual for field guns. It is of course a breech-loading quick-firer, equipped with a hydro-pneumatic brake. The German name for the gun is "Ruesklaufgeschutze."

An Extraordinary Migration. One of the greatest mysteries to scientists, one for which there seems to be no reasonable explanation, is that concerning the migration of the lemming, or Norway rat. Instead of taking place once a year, these migrations occur only once in eleven years. When the time comes for the exodus the little animals journey westward from Scandinavia, allowing nothing to stop their movements, which virtually amount to a headlong flight. They swim the lakes and rivers and climb the highest mountains in incalculable numbers, devastating the whole country through which they travel. Naturalists attribute the movement to some inherited memory of a flight to escape an expected cataclysm, but this seems somewhat far fetched.

BUILDING IS NOW SLOWLY GOING UP

Foundations for the New Y. M. C. A. Home Will Be Completed Soon.

MONTHLY MASS MEETINGS.

DIRECTORS OF THE ASSOCIATION THINK THESE WILL DO MUCH TO KEEP UP INTEREST IN WORK.

Foundations for the new Y. M. C. A. building have about been completed, and it is said that the plans for the super-structure have been about completed at the architect office of Kaufman and Son.

The plans have not been materially changed since the first blue prints were struck off. The contract on the superstructure will be let just as soon as the building committee deem it advisable. The work on the walls of the building will progress as fast as the weather conditions will permit.

It has been decided to appoint a committee to have charge of mass meetings to be held monthly at the Gennett theatre for the purpose of arousing interest in the Y. M. C. A. work. This committee will be appointed later.

A monthly meeting of the directors of the Y. M. C. A. was held Friday night at which time Secretary Goodwin was to have made a report of the National Y. M. C. A. convention which was convened at Washington, D. C., last month, but owing to the small attendance it was decided to defer the report until some subsequent time when a more public meeting could be held.

BLUEBEARD.

Two Different Stories as to Who Was the Original.

Like many of the other heroes of the nursery tales, Bluebeard once lived in the flesh and blood, if the old chronicler Holinshed, from whom Shakespeare got so much of his material, is to be believed. According to that writer, the original Bluebeard was Gilles de Retz, or de Rais, marquis of Laval, who became marshal of France in 1429. He is described as an impious and debauched man, a devotee of the black art, who enticed young men and women to his castle and killed them in order to obtain innocent blood for his magical enchantments and who also murdered six or seven of his wives. His crimes were discovered, and he was burned at the stake in 1440 at Nantes.

According to an old French legend, however, the original Bluebeard lived in Brittany in the sixteenth century and was known as Count Conomer. After seven of his wives had disappeared he became enamored of Triphyna, the daughter of Count Gueucet of Vannes. The wedding was celebrated at Vannes, and Conomer took his bride home.

Before a year had passed Triphyna noticed a change in her husband's manner, and, fearing the same fate that had met her predecessors, she fled from the castle, but was overtaken by Conomer, who struck off her head with a single blow. St. Gildas, by whom the unfortunate wife had been educated, happened to pass the spot soon after, and, seeing the body, he tenderly retriplied the head and by prayer restored Triphyna to life. The story does not relate the end of Conomer.

PHYSICAL EXERCISE.

Effect of Boxing on the Mental and Moral Faculties.

Boxing is an exercise which is not only of the most marked benefit in a purely physical way, but it is of the utmost value as a means of training the mental and moral faculties. One of the most unfortunate weaknesses of our very whimsical day is the prejudice against boxing as a sport and exercise. There is no sport in which there is provided such splendid exercise for body and mind and spirit as in boxing.

The physical influence of boxing is superb. Every muscle and organ is brought into active use. So far as mentality is concerned, the perception, imagination, judgment, discretion, self confidence, aggressiveness and will are all brought into active and rapid use. The boxer who fails in perceiving his opponent's intention, who misses in judging the power or reach of his blow, who is lacking in self confidence, will power or aggressiveness, who fails for one moment to remember all the weak points of the man against whom he is working—that boxer is likely to fail, to lose what we all value—that is, reputation, public confidence and income. Among the many sports and games which are of value in training the mind I place boxing as by all means the most valuable.—W. R. C. Latson, M. D., in Outing Magazine.

JAILS RECEIVE MANY FOR DRUNKENNESS

Statistics Show That During Past Year 14,361 People Were Arrested.

NO DRUNKS IN 2 COUNTIES.

THE ANNUAL COST OF CARING FOR THIS CLASS OF PEOPLE COSTS THE STATE OF INDIANA $42,976.65.

In the past six years the jails of Indiana, according to figures compiled by the Board of State Charities, have received an average of 12,624 persons annually because of drunkenness. The sheriffs receive 40 cents a day for boarding each person committed to their care, and this burden upon the taxpayers has averaged $3,973.22 annually in the period given. The figures for the fiscal year just closed, which included only eleven months, are higher than the average—14,361 prisoners because of intoxication, and $42,976.65 for their board.

There are but two counties in the state which report no drunkards in jail—Brown and Ripley. In the past six years Brown County has had but four commitments for intoxication, and Ripley but nine.

The most striking thing is the record of Vigo County. With its 62,035 inhabitants, it ranks fifth in population among the counties of the state. The combined population of the four next larger counties—Marion, Allen, Vanderburg and Madison—is 416,736. Vigo County's jail in the last eleven months received 1,634 persons for intoxication; the other four counties 3,102. The proportion to population was one in every thirty-eight in Vigo County, and one in every 134 in the other four counties.

BLACKMAIL PLOT SAYS DR. ATTRIDGE

Man Shot by Affinity Holds Hypnotical Powers.

WANTED WIFE OF ANOTHER.

Detroit, Dec. 7.—Dr. James Attridge, shot last night by Mrs. James E. Griffith, his affinity, who afterward shot herself, declared today in an ante-mortem statement to the prosecutor, that the tragedy was the result of a plot to blackmail him. It is discovered that the woman had engaged counsel to bring suit against Attridge, who had also engaged counsel. Prosecutor Yerkes said that Griffith had tried to compel the doctor to protect Mrs. Griffith by marrying her.

Griffith, questioned by the police, said that he had first met Attridge four years ago; that soon afterward Attridge became his physician and treated him for typhoid fever. Attridge, he said, seemed to exercise a peculiar influence over his (Griffith's) wife, who acted as if hypnotized when in his presence, and as soon as he left the house, regained composure.

At the times when she seemed to be under hypnotic influence she detested her husband and confessed to him that she loved Attridge. When Attridge was absent her love for her husband returned, and she seemed stricken with remorse. Both Attridge and the woman are thought to be dying.

A ROYAL TRAGEDY.

The Secret Murder of the Ill Fated Duchess of Wurttemberg.

About the same period at which Queen Caroline was earning notoriety for herself there resided in a small town in the north of Germany a man noted for his skill as a public executioner. Late one evening two men in military uniform called upon this person and requested him to accompany them, as his services were required at some distance and would be liberally rewarded, but that he must consent to be blindfolded. To this, after some demur, he consented and entered the carriage brought by the two officers. Apparently they drove a long distance, and at last by the sound he judged that they had crossed a bridge and entered a paved courtyard.

The carriage having stopped, he was assisted to alight and conducted along corridors and upstairs till at last, the bandage being removed, he found himself in a large, gloomy room, in the center of which stood a block with a heavy sword laid on it. A door at the far end of the room opened, and a tall and very handsome woman entered, led by two men and gagged. She was forced to the block and the executioner ordered to do his office. With some hesitation he obeyed. Instantly he was again blindfolded, hurried downstairs, placed in the carriage and driven off at full speed. To all his inquiries and remonstrances his escort remained obstinately deaf, but on reaching his home a very large sum of money was given him, with a warning that he would do well never to attempt to solve the mystery or tell of that night's work.

Shortly afterward he heard that the Duchess of Wurttemberg, sister of Queen Caroline, had died suddenly on that very night. She was a woman of great beauty and known to be an object of great jealousy and suspicion to her husband, who was said to keep her in enforced seclusion, and, from inquiries he made, the executioner felt no doubt that this ill fated daughter of the house of Brunswick had been the gagged lady who had been thus secretly done to death by his hand.—Temple Bar.

HEART ACTION AT SEA.

How It Is Affected by Vibration on Ocean Liners.

"All hearts sound alike on these modern ships," said the surgeon of a transatlantic liner. "Although the hull of the average modern steamer is bigger and supposedly less subject to the violence of the sea, the machinery to drive the engines has been increased in size. With the increase in the size of the engines there has followed greater vibration.

"It is this vibration which makes it impossible for us to read truly the action of the average human heart. I have tried repeatedly by all manner of means to overcome the influence of the vibration on the heart, but I find that by even swinging a patient in a hammock, where the shaking up is not greatly felt, the result of the heart reading is far from satisfactory.

"The first day at sea in this ship on her maiden voyage I had occasion to treat an Englishman who was en route to Canada on business. I was startled to hear his heart. Yet he had the finest kind of cardiac action, as I ascertained once the ship's machinery stopped. I have since found it to be an invariable rule that the engine's vibration makes it appear as though the heart of the average man was going to stop before I could get the stethoscope away from his breast.

"Vibration does not hurt the heart any. Do not make the mistake of supposing that it does. It just sounds as though the end was positive, and, while the patient's heart is beating in regular form, the shaking of the ship deceives even the practiced ear."—Washington Post.

The Snowdrop.

In the northern United States the snowdrop is the only garden flower that we can count on year after year as the earliest sign of spring. Its pendulous white blossoms, with "heart shaped seal of green" sung by Rossetti, often appear before the last snow has gone. Luckily, even city families need not be without snowdrops, for they have been known to thrive in narrow passageways between tall houses. Most bulbous plants like the baking hot sun of midsummer in order to ripen their bulbs, but the snowdrop thrives best in partial shade. It blooms earlier if it has a chance at the March sun, but is one of the very few that will flower regularly, though less freely, in dense shade and with a northern exposure.—Country Life in America.

WEDDING BELLS A-PLenty.

Marry Young and Often Seems to Be the Rule in Egypt.

According to information given from authentic sources to a correspondent of Leslie's Weekly while in Egypt, "there are few men in Cairo past the age of twenty years who have not been married at least twice, and the majority of women over sixteen have made a half dozen or so matrimonial experiments." There is no disgrace attached to divorce in Egypt. If mutual admiration wanes with the honeymoon, there is nothing more natural to the Egyptian mind than that the dissatisfied party takes steps toward another trial. Marriage is universal in Egypt. There are no old maids. Widows remain widows but a short time, and, as a rule, no young man is considered fitted for business or entitled to the confidence of the community until he is married. These numerous marriages and their attendant celebrations make it extremely interesting for the stranger from the west who journeys through Egypt. Toward the end of the tourist season, when money is considerably more plentiful than it is just before the travelers invade the country and begin to scatter plasters along the Nile, there are hundreds of marriages. In Cairo they average during the month of April from ten to twenty a day of the elaborate ones—with brass bands, processions and feasting—and any number of less showy ones.

A LONG DRIVE.

The Expert Lumbermen of the Canadian Rivers.

One of the most interesting sights the new arrival in Canada can strike is to witness a log drive on one of the rivers there, especially should there be several rapids to navigate.

The expert river man is a clever athlete—clever and nervy as any circus rider, his steeds probably cutting more antics than any horse could think of. He will jump from one log to another quickly as they swirl around until he reaches the one he wants; then he will make for the center and stand perfectly upright and still, balancing himself with a long pole or peavy, sometimes running down stream miles without landing.

He also guides other logs into the channel in passing, at times jumping from one to another in marvelous fashion, although the logs are twisting and turning in every direction.

Probably the cleverest piece of work one could observe out here is when the logs get jammed in passing the rapids. Then you see the expert at his best. He is here, there and everywhere until he gets things as he wants them, when he will calmly stand and ride down among the heaving, grinding mass as though there were no danger at hand. This scene, so full of excitement, once witnessed could never be forgotten.—London Tit-Bits.
