At Mint.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Frank A. Leach, director of the mint, explained to the President some of the changes that were necessary in the coinage of the new $20 gold pieces of the St. Gaudens design. The first $2000 that were struck off were so highly embossed that they would not stack, and for this reason were objectionable to the business world. The coinage was stopped and changes made in the design. The raised figures on the coins were reduced and the rate was put in plain figures instead of the roman numerals. The first coins struck off are now commanding premiums of anywhere from $5 to $10 each. So that the demand for them may be supplied some more are being struck off.

Director Leach has issued orders that the coinage of the $2.50 and $5 pieces shall begin next week at the Philadelphia mint. These will be reproductions of the $20 design now being turned off. All these coins of the St. Gaudens type, approved by the president, are without the motto, "In God We Trust."

A Healthy Clay Eater. "The old clay eating negro of the south is seldom found now," said a Montgomery man. "I remember my old black mammy as she would hunt for rich brown clay and eat many pieces of it. She said it helped her stomach and kept her from illness. She would eat the clay every day and would wind up by eating a large piece of charcoal just before going to bed. She was never sick a minute in her whole life. She lived to be ninety-two years old and died from an injury received in a runaway. She told me many times that good clay would keep the system in fine shape and that charcoal was most healthy. It acted like a charm in her case."—Nashville Tennessean.

Hotel Life.

For ourselves, we can imagine no worse punishment for persons who value privacy and intimacy and home-ness and the peculiar arrangement or even disarrangement of their own belongings than to be condemned to pass the term of their natural lives in a great hotel. The marble halls, which once seemed grand, would become a nightmare of grandiosity. The loneliness of a man among the unceasing multitude of strangers would become intolerable. The graces of the cookery, as they once seemed, would become familiar tricks and a hollow imposture. Life would become a circus without tinsel, a stage without limelight, gingerbread without gilt.

We have known an old man who had lived for many years in the same hotel, and he had all the fads and crotchets and selfishness of the worst old fogey in a club. Indeed, he had many more, and worse, for a clubman is restrained by the opinion if not by the protests of his fellows, but an old resident in a hotel can hardly be moved from his position on more than his rights by the combined criticism of all the strangers whose opinion is nothing to him.—London Spectator.

It Does The Business.

Mr. E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve: "It does the business; I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind." 25c. at A. G. Luken & Co., drug store.

SHAH'S SEVERAL WIDOWS WOULD HAVE PERSIAN
PARLIAMENT SETTLE UPON THEM ANNUAL INCOME.

Three of the widows of the late Shah of Persia. All the Shah's widows are complaining to the Persian parliament that they are not granted a sufficient income. The Shah provided that each should have $1,000 a year. Considering that $1 in Persia will buy as much as $40 in this country, it would seem that the Shah died pretty well off for one having so many wives. Parliament thinks so, but the widows who saw him later in his cell, said that he was trembling as if on the verge of a breakdown.

ON VERGE OF A BREAKDOWN POWERS
TREMBLES IN CELL

Arguments Were Closed in the Famous Case Wednesday And Jury Retired Today to Pass Final Judgment.

MUCH SPECULATION AS TO THE VERDICT.

Nervously the Accused Man, Thrice Convicted, Awaits The Verdict of His Inquisitors.

Georgetown, Ky., Jan. 2.—New Year's Day will live long in the memories of the throng who heard the closing arguments in the fourth trial of Caleb Powers, charged with and three convicted of complicity in the assassination of William Goebel in the statehouse grounds at Frankfort just 30 days less than eight years ago. At the close of the arguments, just a few minutes before 6 o'clock, Judge Morris said:

"I will not submit this case to the jurors until they have had their supper and I know whether or not the majority wishes to consider the case tonight or rest until the morning before retiring to their jury room."

So Judge Morris sent the jurors to their hotel, telling them to notify him of their decision. The jurymen were carefully admonished against talking to any one and the deputies in charge were given precautionary instructions. The jurors sent word to Judge Morris at 7 o'clock that they would receive the case this morning.

Powers is laboring under great mental strain and shows it. He nervously worked his fingers and licked his lips as if they were feverish when waiting to hear whether the jury would retire last night or this morning. Officers who saw him later in his cell, said that he was trembling as if on the verge of a breakdown.

THAW'S COUNCIL
READY FOR FAMOUS
"MONKEY GIRL"

Chief Counsel Says There Will Be Surprises If the Young Woman Is Called to Stand By Prosecutor Jerome.

WAS FORMER FRIEND OF EVELYN NESBIT THAW.

A New Line of Defense Has Been Planned by Attorneys For Accused Man—Interesting Developments Expected.

New York, Jan. 2.—"We are all ready for Ida Simonton," said Martin W. Littleton, chief counsel for Harry Kendall Thaw, in speaking today of new features that will appear during the second trial of his client for the murder of Stanford White.

"I am not going to give away any of the plans that have been formed for the defense of Mr. Thaw, but I feel free to say that there are likely to be some surprises if Ida Simonton is called as a witness for the prosecution by the district attorney and who is known as the 'monkey girl.'"

Miss Simonton was sought as a witness during the first trial, but was reported to be in Africa. Recently she returned to Pittsburgh and stated that she would "fix Thaw."

Miss Simonton was a close friend of Mrs. Thaw when she was Evelyn Nesbit, and Miss Simonton was called to Europe to bring Mrs. Charles J. Holman, mother of Evelyn Nesbit, back to America at the time Evelyn Nesbit and Thaw were making a trip on the continent.

It was evident today from the manner in which Mr. Littleton spoke that the Thaw forces have been digging deeply into all matters regarding Miss Simonton in preparation for her appearance as a hostile witness.

"I suppose the calling of Miss Simonton by the district attorney will be one of the interesting new features of the second trial," said Thaw's coun-
