ISSUES OF DAY SOON TO BE KNOWN

Taft Will Begin His Active Canvass for the Presidential Nomination.

MANY STATES TO BE VISITED

HAS HUNDREDS OF INVITATIONS, BUT WILL ONLY BE ABLE TO ACCEPT A SMALL NUMBER OF THE LOT.

Washington, D. C., January 3.—Before the contest for the republican presidential nomination progresses much further the country will understand the attitude of Secretary Taft on all the political issues of the day more thoroughly than it does at this time. The secretary is making engagements to speak which will carry him into many states. Invitations to deliver addresses are coming in by the dozen, and he is sorting them out with careful discrimination. Of course, he will be able to accept only a small percentage of them, but everyone which he does accept will be with a view to advancing his presidential interests.

"The Time, the Place and the Girl." Miss Elizabeth Goodall, who is one of the principals in "The Time, the Place and the Girl" company, was sending her summer vacation in New York this year, and during her spare time one day dropped in to see the New York stock exchange. Not being familiar with the game, she asked one of the brokers a question or two.
"Well it will take a long time to explain," said the broker, "in fact if I were not in a hurry I would consider it a privilege and pleasure to take you around and show you all I possibly could. Come down some other day, and I will explain it all to you." After considering the invitation, Miss Goodall accepted.

To make a long story short, Miss Goodall soon caught on to the methods of making money and in a short time had cleaned up about $12,000.
"That's enough for me," said Miss Goodall, "I might take more chances and then lose. So she invested the money in a nice little home, and Wall Street is $12,000 to the bad. It was a rather profitable sight seeing expedition for Miss Goodall. At the Gennett Monday night.

"The Girl of the Golden West."

David Belasco's "Girl of the Golden West" comes to the Gennett January 11. Scenically, it is said to be as remarkable a work as it is in a dramatic sense. In the fourth act, for instance, the curtain rises showing the stage in utter darkness. Gradually lights begin to break, shadows grow and the footfalls of the Sierras are shown in the distance, with the first faint light of day breaking over them. Then the rays of the sun penetrate in the most realistic fashion and the light of early dawn casts its glow over the boundless prairie.

"The Girl Question."

The Phantom Chimes is an electrical music novelty in "The Girl Question," the latest of the music plays by the authors of "The Time, the Place and the Girl" to be sent on tour by the Askin-Singer company and which will be seen at the Gennett on January 16. Its novelty and the attractive movements of the chorus and the catchy music which accompany their work invariably make it productive of eight or nine encores. There are many other numbers of almost equal popularity in "The Girl Question."

"Our New Minister."

The man, middle-aged, who would like to believe all the things he was taught at Sunday school, but has back-slid so far that he finds it hard to get back, is most amusingly depicted in Dennan Thompson and George W. Ryer's comedy drama of life in Hardscrabble, N. H., called "Our New Minister." All in all the play is uproariously funny in the way of entertainment, full of laughs, yet with that something that sets one thinking of the moral truth it aims to reflect.
It comes to the Gennett Jan. 9.

"Dream City."

"Dream City" the "near opera" from Weber's New York theatre is by the past masters of that style of play-building, Edgar Smith and Victor Herbert. It is splendidly interpreted by an excellent company headed by Little Chip and Mary Marble. The entertainment from beginning to end is one of rare charm and attractiveness.

"Dream City" makes fun and melody for nearly three hours. The chorus itself is one of the features of the production. Gennett, Jan. 10.

Vaudeville at the Phillips.

Two points of special interest remain on this week's vaudeville bill at the New Phillips—one, the contest among the amateurs tonight and the other the special matinee for children on Saturday. Manager Murray has a good bill for next week and it will be announced in detail tomorrow.

Do not miss the chance to buy Embroideries. The sale will be continued tomorrow, Saturday, at Knollenberg's.

SHIRTS RECONCILE YOUNG COUPLE.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 3.—Fred Chambers, whose wife left him two years ago because he would not change his undershirts but would wear one out without having it washed, has won her back, and will try to have the divorce annulled. He has bought one dozen undershirts.
He is said to have entered into an agreement with her that he will change his shirt twice a week and to have filed the agreement in court.

DREADED INSANITY AND SHE KILLS SELF

Husband Found Wife at Side of Her Babe.

Niles, Ohio, January 3.—Returning from a visit at his mother's home this afternoon, Frank Vaughn found his young wife dead in their home on Mill street. She had committed suicide, using a revolver. A note on the dresser read:

"My mind is wrecked since my sickness due to brooding over it. With all I have to live for gone there is only insanity ahead, so who can blame me for this?"

Their two-months-old child lay in a cradle beside the bed on which the mother rested. Mrs. Vaughn was 29 years of age. Before her marriage eight years ago she was Miss Mabel Nesbitt, of Warren.

BATTLE OF STONE RIVER REFOUGHT

Veterans Assembled in Kokomo Thursday for Eighth Annual Reunion.

WAS PLEASANT OCCASION.

Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 3.—Survivors of the battle of Stone's river, which fought forty-five years ago yesterday, held a reunion in this city. The attendance was the largest in the history of the association and it was the eight annual gathering. James K.
Bowers of Shelbyville, presided at the opening session at 10:30 a. m. in the Main-street Christian church, and after prayer by Chaplain William P. McKinsey, Fortieth Indiana Infantry. The fore noon was spent in approving the minutes of the preceding session and in the appointment of special committees and reports of standing committees.

In the afternoon came an address of welcome by Capt. Milton Bell, Eighty-sixth Indiana Infantry, with responses by Capt. George W. Seacore, Fifty-first. Special addresses were delivered by A. G. Murphy, Pawnee, Okla., and Dr. W. W. Blair, who was medical director of Gen. Wood's division, and the only surviving officer of Wood's staff. The afternoon embraced a number of short talks by comrades, and a memorial service conducted by Chaplain McKinsey. The veterans ban-queted last night.

Danville was voted as the next meeting place, and the following officers were elected: President John T. Eller, Bloomington; vice-president, Capt.
John C. Livsey, New Castle; chaplain, Wm. P. McKenzie, Plainfield; secretary and treasurer, W. H. Dryden, Mar-tinsville.
