

MUCH MONEY WENT TO AID THE POOR

More Spent for This During The Past Quarter Than Ever Before.

FEW SUFFERERS IN COUNTY

REPORTS OF OTHER TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES SHOWS WAYNE WAS THE ONLY ONE BADLY AFFLICTED BY CONDITIONS.

The quarter ending January 1, provided a hard one for the poor of Wayne township. The report of trustees on the money spent for the relief of the poor in Wayne township, shows that more money was spent the past quarter for this purpose than for several years past. The reports of the trustees of the other townships show that there was but little suffering among the poor outside of Wayne township. Jefferson township had no report to submit.

WIELAND CASE AGAIN POSTPONED

Will Be Heard Tomorrow Morning.

When the case of Harmon Wieland and Samuel Snow, charged with keeping a house of ill fame, was called this afternoon in the city court, Attorney E. C. Robbins on behalf of both defendants, made a motion for a change of judge to hear the case. Judge Converse appointed P. J. Freeman special judge and the case will be heard tomorrow morning.

HENRY CASE WILL BE ONE OF FIRST

Criminal Docket Called in the Circuit Court.

In the circuit court this morning the criminal docket was called but no cases were set for trial. The first case to be heard will probably be the Taggart embezzlement case. This will be called for a hearing the latter part of this month. William Henry will not be given his second trial for some time owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Henry, who is one of the prosecuting witnesses.

MEN'S SOCIAL UNION HAS BIG BANQUET

Pleasant Event Was That of Tuesday Night at Presbyterian Church.

W. C. HALL SPOKE TO MEN.

An unusually pleasant banquet was given Tuesday evening at First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Men's Social Union. There were about 75 men who participated in the affair, and the membership was increased to 50. A feature of the evening was an address by Mr. W. C. Hall of Indianapolis, a traveling salesman who is especially interested in brotherhood work among the churches. A quartet, the Regis, composed of four young men of the church, rendered several pleasing selections. It is expected to hold similar social events frequently.

FUNERAL OF ROBT. F. WHITE TODAY

Was Held From Home This Morning.

The funeral of Robert F. White, who died a few days ago at New York after a surgical operation, was held this morning at 10 o'clock at the home of his parents, 119 South Ninth street. Rev. David Huntington officiated. The pallbearers were Messrs. Wilfred Jessup, Ray Shively, Elmer Eggenmyer, Bert Davenport, Lou Morgan and Harry Thornburg. The burial was at Fairham.

LETT TRIAL IS NOW POSTPONED

Will Be Heard Latter Part of The Week.

William Lett, colored, was taken from his cell this morning in the county jail where he had been confined while suffering with an acute attack of severe throat, and marched through the snow to the circuit court room. After the man arrived there it was decided to postpone the hearing of his case until the latter part of the week. Sheriff Meredith then took him back to jail. Lett is charged with petit larceny.

THAW TRIAL SLOW IN RESUMING TODAY

Examination of Talesmen Was Taken Up Immediately And One Chosen.

MRS. THAW'S STATEMENT.

SAYS NEITHER SHE NOR THE FAMOUS "MONKEY GIRL" WILL TESTIFY IN THE PRESENT TRIAL OF HER SON.

New York, Jan. 8.—The Thaw trial was slow in opening today. The examination of talesmen was taken up at once. Several were passed and John P. Hoelbert was the last chosen.

Three jurors sworn to serve on the trial panel for Harry K. Thaw represented last night the results of the two days and six sessions of the trial before Justice Dowling in the criminal branch of the supreme court. In addition to the trio who are outbanded well and truly to try the case, there were in the jury box at the close of the night sitting four tentative jurors who are subject still to peremptory challenges by either side. The task of filling the five vacant chairs was resumed today when the last installment of 100 talesmen summoned on the original omnibus panel of 300 names reported for examination.

In all ninety-five prospective jurors were called and questioned yesterday against fifteen on the day previous. At the close of the afternoon session the jury box was filled and hopes ran high that at least a majority of those tentatively chosen would prove acceptable to both sides. The challenge of attorneys lessened the number to three.

EVELYN'S MOTHER TALKS.

She Will Not Testify, but Hopes Thaw Will Be Acquitted.

Pittsburg, Jan. 8.—Neither Mrs. Charles J. Holman, mother of Evelyn Thaw; Howard Nesbit, her son; nor Miss Ida Vera Simonton will testify in the present trial of Harry K. Thaw, according to a statement by Mrs. Holman at her home in Berkshire avenue, Brookline, Miss Simonton, according to reports, was to have been the star of the state's new witnesses.

"Nothing would please me so much," said Mrs. Holman after giving voice to the above statement, "as to see Harry Thaw freed at his trial. His wife is a daughter of my own flesh and blood. Her happiness is mine. Anything that Harry Thaw has said about or done to me or any pain he has caused me is trivial, in comparison to my interest in my daughter's happiness. I am sure nothing would please her in this world so much as a verdict of not guilty in the trial now under way. Under these conditions the belief that I would put a straw in her husband's path to freedom is too repulsive for thought. It would be little short of unnatural for a mother to air in sending her own daughter's husband to the electric chair."

Mrs. Holman declared that at no time since the tragedy had she even thought of taking the stand against Thaw. She also denied most vigorously the report that District Attorney Jerome has any deposition from her or even any notes that might aid him in building up his case. She declared that she had never been approached by either the district attorney or any of his agents.

"I am just as sure," continued Mrs. Holman, "that Miss Simonton will not be a witness in the present trial. She has not been subpoenaed, and in a talk which I had with her since her return from Africa, she said that she would not be dragged in the trial."

Thaw Was Rude to Her.

"I am sure she will stick to her decision. It is true that Thaw was quite rude to her, and she has grounds for feeling against him, but I believe that she is friend enough of mine not to testify against my wishes, and it is my desire that she stay out of the case. I have been particularly unfortunate in being placed in a bad light with the public. At the last trial my son Howard went to New York against my wishes and my advice in an effort to protect my name. His attitude was entirely misunderstood. It was never Prosecutor Jerome. The boy went primarily at the solicitation of Mr. Harriet Stanford White's secretary, hoping in some measure to protect the name of a much belittled man who had been a friend in need to me and mine. The boy went finally under instructions from his father to deliver a message which he carried to no one but Evelyn. When he arrived in New York Thaw's attorney would not permit him to see his sister and the message was never delivered."

Looked Into the Wall.
A rather peculiar case of absent-mindedness was that related of Peter Burrows, an Irish lawyer. A friend who called on Burrows at an early hour one morning found him shaving with his face held close to an empty wall. "What on earth are you assuming that attitude for?" he asked.

"To look in the glass," was the reply. "But there's no glass there," laughed the acquaintance.

"Bless you! I didn't notice that before," said Burrows, and then calling his servant he asked him what had become of the mirror.

"Why, sir," said the man, "it was broken six weeks ago."

"Why do you call your boat 'The Hen'?" How is she anything like a hen?"

"Because she lays to."—Baltimore American.

SCHOOL MAY CLOSE OWING TO SMALL POX

Denial Is Issued by Principal. But Parents Are Taking No Chances.

RYAN FAMILY AFFLICTED.

Ernest Ryan, the young man who has been ill at his home in Fairview with the small-pox for the past few weeks, is again able to be around, but the remainder of the family including Mr. and Mrs. Ryan, and the two other children, have been attacked by the disease. Roy, the elder son, is the only one who has not yet felt the effects of the disease. It has been reported that several students of the Seavastopol school have been exposed to the disease and it is feared that the school will have to be closed, and all land, states that there is no foundation for the story, several of the parents are keeping their children at home until things blow over.

A MANCHURIAN INN.

Chinese Food and Beds—High Walls to Protect Against Thieves.

The inn at Tieling which was similar to the inn at northern Manchuria, had a big compound surrounded by a high mud wall with gates. The long distance carts going down the country with beans and bringing back goods are driven inside these compounds for safety from robbers each night, says the South China Post, and during the great hauling season in winter these inns are crowded.

The walls of the inns are of mud plastered on a center wall made by weaving reeds together. The windows are mostly of oiled paper, with possibly one small pane of glass in the center. The rafters are rounded timbers on which are spread reeds, then a layer of coarse matting and then a layer of mud. In the cities the better inns have brick walls and tiled roofs, but are otherwise about the same.

It was necessary to sleep on the "kang" and eat Chinese food. In these inns the first place entered is the kitchen, a square space with mud floors and raised mud ovens with clay and iron pots. From this one passes through a cloth hung doorway into the inn proper. At Tieling this was twenty to thirty feet, down the middle of which was an eight foot aisle with packed mud floor.

On each side of the aisle were the "kangs," raised mud embankments, brick faced, some thirty inches high and six feet wide. On these are spread matting, and here all guests roll themselves in their own blankets and sleep side by side, with their feet to the wall and their heads to the center aisle. A fire underneath runs the length of each "kang," and a fire at one end furnishes the hot air, which passes through and out at a mud chimney and warms the sleepers.

The meals are served on these "kangs" on little tables about a foot high. At these inns a teapot is always kept warm over a fire in a raised mud embankment in the middle of the main aisle.

IN WRECKS AT SEA.

The Way Men Act When They Lose Their Heads and Nerve.

What has most struck me in my many experiences of shipwrecks has been the strangely diverse ways in which the passengers acquit themselves under intense excitement and panic, said a lifeboat man to the writer.

Women cry, faint and cling to each other, but are least trouble. Men often act very strangely. I remember one man throwing into the lifeboat a heavy trunk which he wanted to save, but which we promptly heaved overboard. Some men become quite panic stricken. I've seen strong men, probably brave enough in other cases, fighting fiercely for the life buoys and thrusting the women and children aside in frantic endeavors to keep into the boat first; yet, strangely enough, one man who thus disgraced himself has since obtained the Royal Humane society's medal for saving life at sea, twice volunteering with a scratch crew in aid of a distressed vessel.

I've known others who became so stupefied with fright as to resist all attempts at rescuing them, begging to be left to die and having to be forcibly thrown into the lifeboat. Some persons frequently become half demented, and I've known several cases where they have in a frenzy committed suicide by positively jumping headlong into the sea and drowning themselves, and one man to insure his sinking filled his pockets with coal.

Some years ago another passenger, hearing the ship had struck, went and drowned himself in the bathroom, anticipating his fate, as it were.

I remember another case where a passenger hanged himself in his cabin just as the lifeboat arrived—London Tit-Bits.
