

BATTLE AGAINST TAGGART IS NOW JUST BEGINNING

Several Leading Indiana Democrats Are Planning to Defeat "Pluto Tom" for National Committeeman.

MAYOR HOLTZMAN IS A LEADER IN FIGHT.

Proposed Plan of Action Is to Have the National Delegate Chosen in Direct Primaries And Action Is Requested.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 11.—Leading Indiana democrats are planning to defeat Tom Taggart for national committeeman from this state. The movement is led by ex-Mayor Holtzman, of Indianapolis, Henry Warren, and James K. Risk of Lafayette. The proposed plan of action is to have national delegates chosen in direct primaries and the state committee will be asked to act on the resolution setting out the order for primaries. The new deal backs Lew Ellingham of Decatur, for national committeeman.

DRYING THIN GLASSES.

A Dealer Tells Why the Maid Breaks Them So Often.

"Our maid certainly worked destruction on those sherry glasses," said the customer to the dealer. "There were six, and she broke three inside of three months."

"Oh, you got off easy, judging from the stories that come to us," replied the storeman.

"Well, I see how it is," responded the customer. "I tried wiping a few of these glasses myself the other night, and the first thing I knew I wiped the side right out of one. As the maids say, 'Why, they break right in the towel!'"

"Now, if you would wait until they were nearly dry," remarked the dealer, "you'd never break any at all. Take this cordial glass with the very thin stem. You naturally seize it by the foot and turn it while you wipe the bowl with the other hand. While the glass is wet the dish towel, gripped between two fingers, holds the bowl like a vice, and you just naturally twist the stem in two. But if you let the glass get nearly dry the towel slips, and the danger is over."

"Doesn't that make streaked glasses?"

"No, not if the water and towels are clean. Of course you ought to have towels that you use only for glassware. Towels that have been used on dishes are likely to have grease on them, and grease is the great enemy of brilliancy in glassware."

"Then can soap be used in the water?"

"Oh, yes. We use pure white soap with ours. The main point is to have the water hot enough. That helps with the drying, too, because when you take a glass out of very hot water and set it aside to drain it will dry itself before you can take a towel to it. This soap is good as a polisher because usually it has never touched grease. Alcohol has a reputation as a polisher, but its function is rather to clean. Cut up potatoes are good to shine up the insides of pitchers and carafes."—New York Post.

A FAREWELL CHAT.

Interview Between the Boss and the Man He Fired.

Neither of the partners had arrived, and the clerks that morning were indulging in their usual bout of gossip.

"Did I tell you, chaps, that I was leaving?" drawled the languid swell of the staff, whose incompetence was as palpable as the splendor of his attire.

"Heard you'd got the sack," replied the spectacled cashier gruffly.

"I answered an advertisement yesterday for what looks like a first class job," resumed the overdressed one, ignoring the remark. "I've pitched rather a strong yarn, but you've got to do that if you want to keep up with the times."

Just then the senior partner entered, and all wrote intently.

Within five minutes the "old man," who had been opening letters, called the last speaker into his room, and the following dialogue became plainly audible to those outside.

"Have you been in our service seven years?"

"No, sir; only fifteen months."

"And is your salary $4.10 a week?"

"No, sir; 30 shillings."

"And are you in entire charge of the counting house?"

No reply.

"And are you leaving us because of a difference with the firm regarding the management of our colonial branches?"

Dead silence and a short pause.

"Then the old man—"

"You should be more careful in your statements, sir. This is a small world. The advertisement you answered was for the situation you are leaving on Saturday. That will do!"—London Tit-Bits.

The curious fact is noted by Prof. Landman, of Breslau, that careful measurements of the intensity of gravitation in different parts of the globe show this to be greater on islands than on continents.

"Throw away pills and strong cathartics which are violent in action, and always have on hand Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the guarantee for constipation and all diseases arising from stomach trouble."

CHINESE TIDBITS.

The Way Vegetables and Meats Are Preserved by the Natives.

In China turnips, several varieties of cabbage and seaweed are often prepared for winter by giving them a coat of salt and drying in the sun. A vegetable resembling cabbage is sometimes dried in the sun without salt and put away in shallow baskets until ready for use. They have a way also of making a kind of sauerkraut very much as Americans do. The treatment of certain vegetables in this way is a common practice. The best native hams come from a region known as the Kiang district, in Chekiang province. The hams when dressed and ready for curing are carefully placed in vats. A kind of pickle is then prepared of salt, water and a sauce from the soy bean, which is poured over the fresh hams. After the hams have been in the pickle a sufficient length of time they are taken out and hung up to dry and occasionally, but not often, smoked, when they are ready for the market. Sometimes a little nitrate of potash is also added to help preserve them, but this addition is the exception and not the rule. It is reported that in the south hams are cured by means of an alkaline earth and common salt, but so far as can be learned no earth of any kind is employed in the middle and northern provinces. The famous pickled eggs of China are preserved with a pickle made of common mud, salt, saltpeter and soy bean sauce, all mixed together. The eggs are coated with a plaster of this mixture and laid away until ripe, when they are ready for the table. Prepared in this way they will keep several months.

PAPER MAKING IN KOREA.

Hermist Kingdom Supplies Best to China and Japan.

It is not generally known that the best kinds of paper met with in China and Japan are the product of Korea. It is claimed by many that the Korean paper excels the very best that is made in China and Japan. It is produced entirely by manual labor and without the use of any machinery. The raw material used for the better kinds is obtained from the bark of the Prousonia papyrifera, which is collected in the spring and beaten in water containing large admixtures of wood ashes until reduced to a thick pulp.

This is taken in large ladles and spread upon frames of bamboo so as to form thin sheets. Another kind of paper is made from old scraps trodden into pulp, much in the same way that grape juice is extracted in some countries, and, though this mode of pulping is slow, it has the advantage of not breaking the fiber so much as when machinery is used.

After the pulp has been made into paper, the sheets are piled up to a height of six feet and then cut into pieces, to be again subjected to the stamping with the feet. At the same time the roots and seeds of a plant called tackoon are added, the soluble parts of which are supposed to give tenacity and toughness to the paper.—Exchange.

Reminded Him.

A clergyman was warning up to the climax of his sermon, and his auditors were waxing more and more excited.

"I wahns yer, O my congregashun," exclaimed the exhorter—"I wahns yer against de sin uv fightin'; I wahns yer against de sin of whisky drinkin' an' de sin uv chicken robbin'; na' I wahns yer, my breddren, against de sin uv melon stealin'!"

A devout worshiper in the rear of the church jumped to his feet and snapped his fingers excitedly.

"Whuffo does yer, my bredder, f'ar up an' snap yo' fingers when I speaks uv melon stealin'?" asked the preacher.

"Kaze yo' jes' minds me whar I lef mah overcoat," replied the devout worshiper as he hurried off.

A Poor Prophet.

Conan Doyle told of an experience which he had when leaving school.

His teacher must have been one of those old Romans such as Thackeray describes as roaring at young Penderennis when the major, his uncle, called to take the boy away. When Conan Doyle had finished his course in school the head master called him aside and, after eying him with ominous favor, spoke to him in measured tones as follows: "Doyle, I have known you now for seven years, and I know you thoroughly. I am going to say something which you will remember in after life. Doyle, you will never come to any good!"—Bookman.

Had Been There.

"Here's a firm advertiser for a general man, not afraid of good pay, any willing to start at 10 and quit at 3. You have all the qualifications to land that job."

"All except the $10,000 to invest in the business."—Pittsburg Post.

Not Qualified.

"Did you intend to drown yourself?" asked the magistrate at Marylebone police court when a cab driver was remanded on a charge of attempted suicide.

"No, I cannot swim," replied the man.—London Mail.

A Substitute.

Customer—Will you give me a copy of "The Art of Being Happy at Home?"

Librarian—I'm afraid it's out, but I have here a little treatise on ju jitsu, which makes an excellent substitute for it.—Pittsburg Post.

The barber as well as the pugilist can give an uppercut.—Philadelphia Record.

SUITS FILED TODAY.

Mary E. Gilbert today filed suit for divorce from Grant J. Gilbert in the circuit court.

Suit on claim has been filed in the circuit court by John Cogshall against the estate of Allen Cogshall.

It requires the expenditure of eight times the energy to go upstairs that is required for the same distance on the level.

JUVENILES OCCUPIED COURT'S ATTENTION

Eleven Cases Were Heard and All Were Disposed of by Judge, Today.

FEW TO WHITE'S INSTITUTE

YOUNG GIRL CONSIDERED INCORRIGIBLE, WAS ORDERED TO BE SENT TO THE GIRL'S INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

Judge Fox, with the assistance of Prosecutor Jessup, Trust Officer Geo. Bishop, City Missionary Mrs. Elizabeth Chandler and Clerk Harry E. Penby, cleared up the juvenile docket. Eleven cases were heard and all disposed of. One girl was sent to the girl's industrial school, several children were sent to White's Institute, where they will be given good homes, others were lectured and allowed to go on their good behavior and two cases were dismissed.

Mabel Lamberson who is incorrigible, was sentenced to the Girl's Industrial School, Agnes Gaines and Chester Lamb, two youthful truants were released on good behavior. Wilford Bode, a little mite who was deserted by his mother, was ordered sent to White's Institute. Earnest and Marie Favorite, truants, were allowed their liberty pending further orders of the court. Ethel and Harry Fairweather and Eva Thornton, three children whose parents are not persons to be trusted, were committed to the custody of the city. James Temple, charged with petty larceny, was released on good behavior. J. Tostog, charged with assault and battery and Foster Webster, charged with petty larceny, were dismissed.

IDLE MEN APPEAL FOR GOV'T WORK

Cincinnati's Want Congress To Supply Them Labor on Public Enterprises.

THINKS DEMAND JUSTIFIED.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 11.—An appeal to congress for work on highways, buildings, or other public enterprises was made in an open telegram today by Nicholas Klein, general secretary of the socialist party of Ohio, on behalf of the unemployed of this city. In part the telegram reads:

"During the recent financial flurry the United States government came to the aid of the bankers of this country with a loan of $25,000,000, without interest, to save the bankers. Let congress and the senate enact the following for immediate relief of this nation's workers—viz.:

"Resolved, That the United States government issue money without interest on bonds, to states, counties and cities, to be used for the purpose of building public highways, schools, bridges, municipal tenements, and public utilities, this work to be done directly where possible and at an eight hour day and living wage standard."

An Age of Machinery.

In the making of most of our household goods machinery has done away with the craftsman. True it is that some master mind plans the design in the first pattern that becomes the father of thousands, but if these things had been made by human hands we should have had not one but a thousand masters of their trade instead of one artist only and an army of workmen doing some monotonous routine job for their daily bread. The whole system is a premium on dullness and mediocrity. It may be argued that this machinery more or less makes for cheapness, and on that account a man can become possessed of more goods than he would have had without it, but a man's life hardly consists in the abundance of things that he hath, and it is also quite on the cards that a few good possessions are worth a whole host of bad. When we come to think that in the making of almost everything we wear, almost everything in the house upon which we step, sit or lie, machinery has had a hand to the constancy of some craftsman, the enormity of our wickedness becomes clear.—Reginald Newton Weekes in Nineteenth Century.

Noise and the Nerves.

It was Schopenhauer who said that insensibility to noise was the surest indication of a low and undeveloped nervous organization, on which assumption it is certain that we as a nation can hardly be reckoned very far advanced. Certain it is that we are more tolerant under this head than any other nation professing to call itself civilized, though I fancy the Americans run us pretty close in this respect. Sir Arthur Sullivan was wont to compose in the middle of the night because he could never obtain quiet at any other time, and without expecting the impossible or looking for legislation on a subject which is merely of concern to the community at large, irrespective of party issues, surely it is not too much to ask that the local authorities shall put their heads together on this matter and exercise the powers which they possess. Bernard Shaw once expressed the opinion that it was the "state aided noises" as he called them, which were the worst offenders—as, for example, the church bells, and the military bands.—London Truth.

TOOTHACHE REMEDY CAUSES ILLNESS

Connersville Basket Ball Player Taken Violently Ill After Game.

COMPANIONS WERE NURSES

Following the basket ball game Friday evening between the local high school boys and the Connersville team, one of the visiting boys, was taken suddenly ill at the hotel and it was necessary to call for the services of a physician. Young Ballard, 30, his companions say, had been using some toothache remedy during the day, and it is supposed incidentally swallowed some of it. He suffered to inconvenience until after the game, when he was taken violently ill.

After suffering during the greater part of the night, his companions acting as nurses, he was able to return with his team this morning. The physician states that the boy will suffer no further inconvenience from his toothache cure-all.

CHARTERS CASE ARGUED BY STUDY

Claimed That Tax Adjuster Had No Right to Claim Share of Taxes.

JUDGE FOX HEARD CASE.

On behalf of the city, T. J. Study this morning argued before Judge Fox in the case of W. F. Charters, tax adjuster, against Wayne County and the City of Richmond. The attorney argued that Charters had no right to demand a fee on the city's share of omitted taxes placed on the county duplicate last year. Mr. Study said that Charters had no contract with the city and that the contract made with him could not be expected to bind the city. Mr. Study was followed by John L. Rupp, who argued in behalf of the plaintiff. Judge Fox is considering the case.
