HOSTILITIES HAVE BROKEN OUT AMONG SAILORS AND COLORED MEN AT RIO JANEIRO

Rio De Janeiro, Jan. 15.—A row occurred between some of the sailors from the American fleet and a number of the city's rougher element. Some of the Americans were in a saloon, where two Brazilian negroes became involved in a quarrel. One of the negroes threw a bottle at the other, but missed him, and the missile hit a sailor. The latter chased the negro from the place and thought the matter ended.

The negro, however, thought differently. He obtained a big knife, and returned to the saloon, seeking vengeance. He attacked the first sailor he saw. The sailor, before the negro could deal an effective blow with his weapon, handed him a good right arm. American told on the law and the colored gentleman withdrew from the game. He had a number of friends in the place, who jumped in to even up things with the American, whose countrymen at once rallied to his assistance. A general mixup ensued, in which three men were slightly injured. As soon as the information of the fracas reached Rear Admiral Evans he ordered that all the party men be recalled to their ships. The matter was investigated today and it was decided that the Americans were in no wise to blame for the trouble. This decision was concurred in by the Brazilian authorities, and as a result double the number of men were allowed to go ashore yesterday, their number reaching 4,000. The Brazilian officials approved Admiral Evans' course in giving the greater number shore leave.

It is generally admitted that the local police are a little slow in preserving peace. The chief of police says that the whole affair was a deplorable blunder. It has not and the slightest effect upon the cordiality displayed toward the Americans by the Brazilians. Admiral Evans has called a full account of the row to the secretary of the navy at Washington.

For a number of years the United States has maintained in Porto Rico two battalions, or eight companies, of native troops at an annual cost of $150,000. The higher officers are all Americans, and those under the rank of captain are mostly Porto Ricans. The enlisted men are all natives of the island. This force does not perform police duty and its military service is not strenuous. But the general opinion seems to be that the effect of the maintenance of the little army has been most beneficial.—Baltimore Sun.

"Just Out of College."

George Ade's play, "Just Out of College," will be the attraction at the Scene From "Just Out of College."

Gennett tonight. Mr. Ade has contributed to the stage a very humorous and laughable play, if persons desire to be amused and are not averse to laughing heartily while attending a performance they will find something to please them in "Just Out of College," certainly a laugh producer. There are so many good characters in this piece—types of real men and women who are seen in everyday life—that they appeal to the public mind because of their seeming naturalness. Stage license is permissible in the exaggeration of characters, but it is said Mr. Ade has not overdrawn any of them. He has made his young man just out of college by no means the only strong part.

spiriting humor, entrancing music and moving with a dash and ginger which makes an irresistible appeal to every drop of healthful blood in one's veins.

comes to the Gennett Thursday night. "The Girl Question" is the successor to "The Time, The Place and The Girl," the comedy with music by Adams, Hough and Howard, which broke all Chicago theatrical records during its run at the LaSalle theatre there last year and set up standards which before the advent of "The Girl Question" seemed destined to stand for many years to come. The latter, however, has already surpassed its gross receipts for two hundred performances and the demands for seats is still apparently inexhaustible.

Vaudeville at the Phillips.

The management of the New Phillips extends a special invitation to amateur performers of Richmond to give in their names at the box office and take part in the amateur contest of Friday night. Prizes worth trying for are given in these contests and in addition those who enter get the benefit of the experience, which often results in the development of good performers. This week's bill has enough pleasing on it to satisfy anyone who cares for vaudeville.

ICE MEN NOW MUCH WORRIED

The Smiling Sun Has Prohibited Ice Harvest.

"How would you like to be the ice-man?"

Well, the local dealers in frozen water do not think it is such a jolly good job just at the present time. They are worried. They are wondering if they are going to harvest ice. From weather indications, seemingly, they are not. Old Sol is beaming every day and the weather suits every one except the ice-men. They say that Richmond is to be subjected to some severe storms and cold periods before the sun again shines on both sides of the fence. They predict that there will be ice and plenty of it and state that the fears of the ice-men are unnecessary.

city. Weather prophets are all favorable to the ice-men. They say that Richmond is to be subjected to some severe storms and cold periods before the sun again shines on both sides of the fence. They predict that there will be ice and plenty of it and state that the fears of the ice-men are unnecessary.
