THE BERLIN TROUBLES.

Sixty years ago Prussia, the largest country in the German empire, was in the throes of a revolution because the people wanted more political freedom. That revolution spread over nearly all Europe and the people of many European countries gained greater political liberties. In Prussia the revolution failed, only to break forth again after smoldering more than sixty years in the great disturbances now rife in Berlin. The people of Prussia are demanding that they be given universal manhood suffrage and a secret ballot. The Prussian government may succeed this time as it did over half a century ago, in withholding from the people by force, what they justly demand. But to do so, simply prolongs but slightly the inevitable, for universal manhood suffrage and the secret ballot are the handmaidens of greater political and personal freedom and the great mass of people of all countries that have not obtained them are more and more demanding them, even as the Prussians are now. And repressive measures, the present ruling class in Prussia will find, will act upon the people as oil fed to burning building.

MILD WINTER PROTECTION.

THE REMAINING BIRDS HAVE HAD BUT LITTLE TROUBLE IN KEEPING ALIVE—STATE GAME
COMMISSIONER WARNS PEOPLE

Farmers from different parts of the country report that the extent of the slaughter of quail during the open season is quite manifest and that but few of the "Bob Whites" are to be found. Fortunately the winter has been comparatively mild and the few remaining birds have not suffered from freezing weather or snow on the ground. It is more than probable that the remainder of this and next month will be real winter and Z. T. Sweeny, state game and fish commissioner, is concerned about the welfare of the birds. In a recent circular sent out devoted to the care of birds, he makes some timely suggestions.

He states that a protracted snow will cover up all natural sources of food and it is then that the farmers can do much to preserve the birds. Mr. Sweeny says:

"What, then, is the duty of every true sportsman, every lover of little Bob and the remnant of his family which have escaped the deadly aim of his gun? It is to at once go forth, locate the bevy of birds that are left and provide shelter for them where they may find protection from the elements when the storms and chilling blasts do come. This is not all. He should be ready as soon as the storm makes its appearance to go to these shelters and distribute grain in ample quantities, and every few days until the storm subsides and the temperature moderates, repeat the operation, and thus save hundreds of birds which will surely perish if not protected and fed.

The work of providing shelter for the birds should not be left until the heavy snow comes, for then it may be too late. Do it now, and let the little fellows learn where they can find protection when it is needed.

Her majesty Queen Alexandra has lately conceived a great liking for fencing, and is taking lessons from one of the best-known fencing masters in the country, says Tit-Bits. The master in question was formerly instructor to one of the regiments of household cavalry, and boasts of having trained more first-class swordsmen than any other man in Europe. He describes her majesty as being a "born fencer," and as one who has taken up the art earlier in life would have achieved great prominence in it.

Former Preble County Man
Dies at Logansport.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 16.—Allen Richardson, one of Logansport's oldest and best-known citizens, hiccoughed his life away. He began hiccoughing about ten days ago, and all efforts to stop the convulsions were futile. Physicians tried every known remedy; bath cures and charms were tried, but they were all unavailing. Mr. Richardson was a pioneer resident and in the early days came with his parents from Preble county, Ohio.

Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 15.—Proclaiming himself a temperance man, yet declaring that he takes a drink when he desires one, and pointing out the distinction between what he calls a temperance man and a total abstainer, Rev. Elisha Nimrod of this city has announced his candidacy for prosecuting attorney. He says that if he is elected he will enforce temperance laws.

Midshipmen and marines are interesting the navy department at present considerably. In the last three years more than one midshipman has been dismissed from the service for marrying before he has been graduated from Annapolis. Also there have been increasing numbers of requests to the navy department from passed midshipmen asking permission to marry. The department has been thus far lenient with Cupid and has granted most of these requests.

Elsewhere the people fleeing before him threw down babies in the hope of staying their hunger and so stopping the white man's advance.
