

CAMBRIDGE CITY FREE OF DISEASE

Of That Town Shows
Just Two Cases.

MORE DEATHS THAN BIRTHS

REPORT SAYS THAT BUT FEW OF
THE CAMBRIDGE CITY DAIRIES
MEET THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE INDIANA LAW.

Cambridge City, Ind., Jan. 16.—The annual report of the city board of health, shows that there was more deaths than births during the year just past. Deaths to the number of 22 were reported, while the number of births only amount to 27. Only one case of diphtheria and one case of typhoid fever were reported during the year so it may be known that Cambridge is a healthful place. The merchants are meeting most of the demands of the pure food and drug laws and the citizens are living in close compliance with the requests made by the local board of health. The condition of the dairies that furnish milk to this community could be improved upon an inspection by the state health board shows that but few of these meet the requirements of the law.

COUNT FLEEING FROM PARENTS

Married His Washerwoman in Germany and Is Now on Way to America.

ESCAPED FROM ASYLUM.

PLACED THERE BY RELATIVES WHO WANTED MARRIAGE ANNULLED—ESCAPED THROUGH WIFE'S EFFORTS.

New York, Jan. 16.—Traveling incognito to escape parental authority, which is seeking to separate him permanently from his divorced wife, Count Francis Erasmus von Erbach, son of the house of Erbach-Erbach, one of the oldest and proudest families of German nobility, and the ex-countess, are on their way to this country, where they hope to remarry and live happily.

Word to this effect was received in this city today. The count and his companion have left Geneva, where they have been in hiding for three weeks, and will sail within a week for America.

Falls in Love With Laundress. Three years ago, while riding through the forest at Erbach, the count, who is the heir to his father's titles and estates, with an annual income of $1,250,000, met Dora Fischer, a beautiful young washerwoman, who assisted her mother in a laundry, and "did up" Count Erasmus's linen.

The count determined to make the beautiful laundress his wife. Threats, entreaties and prayers of the count's father were alike useless and immediately the count came of age and his bride fled to Paris in a swift motor car.

From Paris the young couple crossed to London, where, after abiding for the statutory time, they were married. After the honeymoon the count and countess Erbach decided to return to Germany. The father summoned a meeting of the members of his house and they decided that, should the young man not be divorced within three years, he should be disinherited, and his uncle, Count Arthur, be put in his place.

Placed in Insane Asylum. His father's ultimatum was ignored by the young count. After an interval of three years he was arrested at Frankfurt-on-the-Main on the ground of insanity. He was incarcerated in the Altweller lunatic asylum. The family succeeded in obtaining an annulment of the marriage and breathed again.

The countess-washerwoman bribed an attendant at the asylum, and supplied the count with a length of stout rope, with which he made his escape from a window. He was met by the countess in a powerful motor car. They dashed off at full speed toward the Swiss frontier, 200 miles away.

The Prince Erbach-Schoenberg, the count's cousin, and one of those who sat in judgment on him, is married to her serene highness, the Princess Battenberg, a sister-in-law of the Princess Beatrice.

ROYALTY ARRIVES TO ATTEND WEDDING

Vanderbilts Give No Marriage Dowry.

New York, January 16.—Friends of the Austrian bridegroom and who will be guests at the approaching wedding of Miss Gladys Vanderbilt and Count Laszlo Szechenyi have arrived on the Kronprinzessin Cecile. As the party left the big liner they were met by Count Laszlo and there was a joyous reunion at the dock.

When a question about a marriage settlement was asked Count Denes broke in with: "Well, you can say for Count Laszlo's big brother that there is no such a thing as a settlement. They will soon go to Hungary, and the welcome accorded Count Laszlo and Countess Gladys will be heard around the world. Then you will know the sentiments of the Hungarian nobility."

THEY MEAN IT.

ENGLISH MASTIFF LYNCHED BY BOYS

Dog Had Bitten One of Their Playmates.

Niles, Ohio, January 16.—Seven school boys lynched a big English mastiff here yesterday. The dog had bitten one of them some time Saturday evening, and to get revenge they armed themselves with three air rifles, two revolvers, a small repeating rifle and a rope. The dog was captured by the youths and taken about a mile from the city limits, where it was hanged to a tree and its dangling body riddled with lead. A sign on the dead body of the dog read: "A warning to all people to keep your dogs tied."

LEGISLATORS FEAR THE NIGHT RIDERS

Playing Politics While Lawlessness Continues.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 16.—The great state of Kentucky is in the clutches of lawless men. The legislature is in session here and it is supposed that body will make the proper investigation of the outrages in the tobacco district. But there is considerable politics in Kentucky, just as there is in Indiana. In this instance the republicans seem most determined to put down the lawlessness. The democrats, or at least a portion of them, are playing at politics of the Indiana peanut variety. Because the farmers are making so much noise, they believe it is popular to be on the side of the farmer, no matter how lawless his act. But if Governor Willson has his way and gets the support he ought to have, some one will be punished for the crimes committed in this state.

In New York city alone the postoffice handles no less than one hundred thousand picture postal cards every day, and it is the same story everywhere—in Chicago, San Francisco, New Orleans, Buffalo and in all the large cities. Moreover, it is not in the United States alone that these conditions exist. In Europe, too, all the postal services are actually inundated with post cards. It is officially stated that no less than five hundred million passed through the British post-office during the year 1906.—Bohemian for January.
