

TRADING STRENGTH WILL NOT AID THE STATE CANDIDATES

Candidates Hope to Do
Some Swapping in Convention by Solid Delegations.

A careful analysis of the situation existing within the republican party in Indiana at this time has convinced many of the shrewd leaders that trading strength will not aid much figure on behalf of any candidate in the coming state convention. The intense interest in the race for governor is so overshadowing that fully nine-tenths of the delegates will be selected in behalf of some of the candidates for the head of the ticket.

The four candidates for governor may have their districts in such shape that they can trade some of the votes, but the independence manifested by the average voter, it is thought, will keep the so-called leaders from delivering them here and there in behalf of their candidates.

There will be fewer opportunities than ever before to make trades. The Tenth district will have two candidates—Judge Gillette, of Hammond, who wants to be renominated for supreme court judge, and Senator Goodwine, a candidate for Lieutenant Governor. With these men dividing the district the number of votes that can be traded there will be small.

The Ninth district has two candidates—Fred A. Sims, of Frankfort, for secretary of state, and E. E. Neal, of Noblesville, for reporter of the supreme court. Sims has no opposition, so he will not be involved in any trades. Neal will have to divide his own county if he makes the race in earnest, but it is said that he cannot handle the rest of the district for trading purposes, especially among the candidates for governor.

There are three candidates for state superintendent of public instruction—J. F. Tomlin of Shelbyville, Lawrence McCutchan of Alexandria, and Prof. Bauman, of Mt. Vernon. Tomlin and McCutchan are James E. Watson, candidate for governor, reside in the same district, so their interests are mutual. McCutchan's district is so split by factions that he does not hope to control to the point of being able to trade them, while it is said that Bauman entered the race so late that he has no chance of getting delegates who will go down the line for him and be traded right and left against their own favorites for other positions. Judge David Myers, of Greensburg, who is a candidate for renomination as appellate judge, has no opposition, and he lives in the same district with Watson and Tomlin.

There will be no one to trade with in the Second and Fifth, unless Speaker Branch runs for lieutenant governor. George Self, of Corydon, is a candidate for renomination for reporter of the supreme court, and probably no candidate has more loyal followers at home than he, but he is not making an effort to line up his district to make trades with anyone. His county, as a matter of course, will be divided. Orange county will present Joyce Monahan, of Orleans, for state treasurer two years hence, which may result in a divided delegation there, but no other county in the Third district is getting ready to do a lot of trading.

The Eleventh will have a candidate in Quincy Myers, of Logansport, who is running for supreme court judge, but the district is so torn up over the race for congress that no candidate can get delegates who will do his bidding. The Twelfth has no candidates so will not be in position to trade.

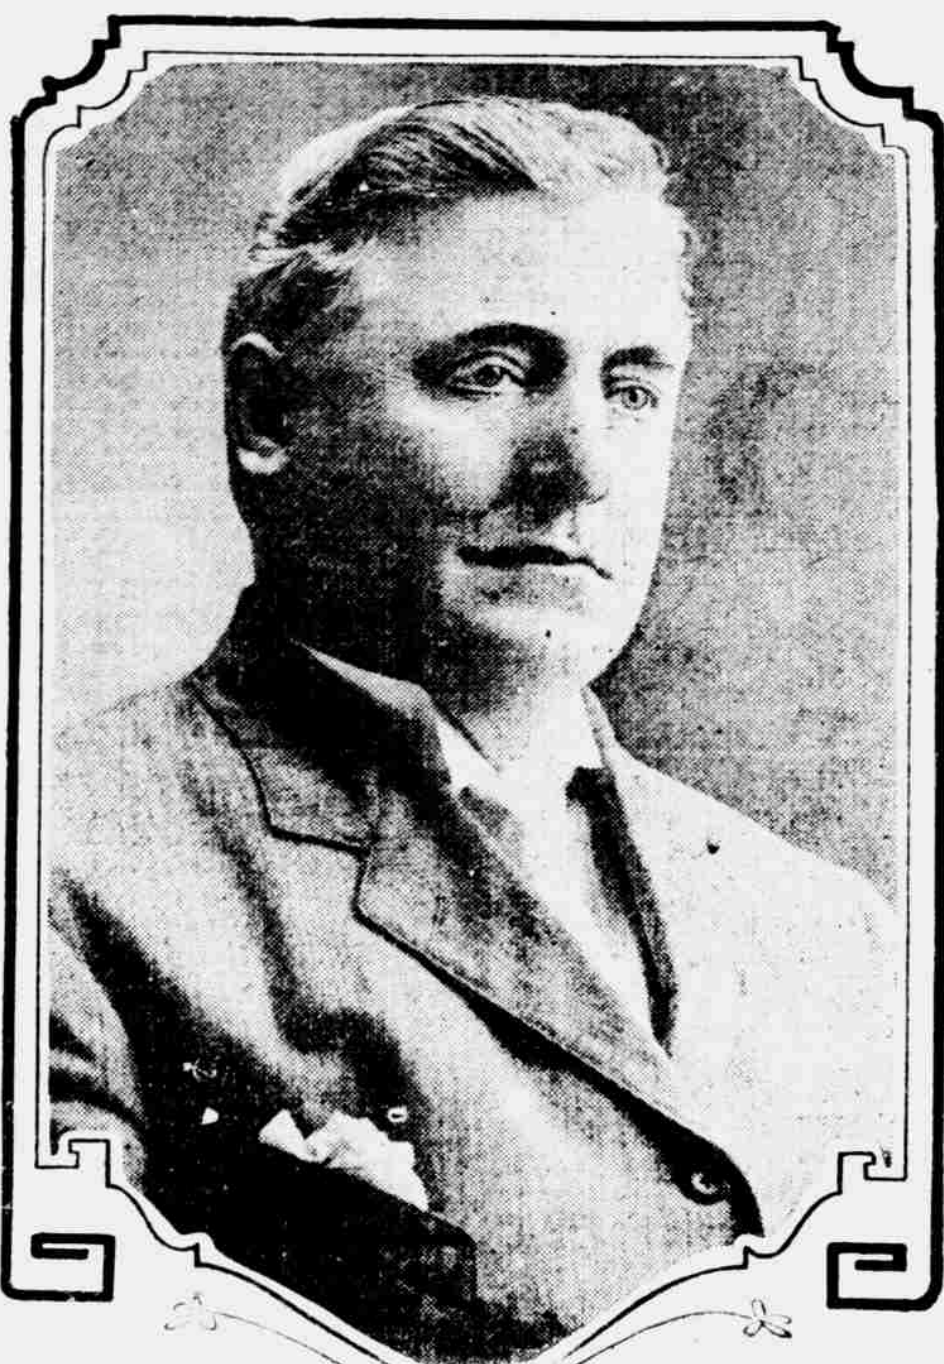

The followers of some of the candidates have been counting on getting a large vote in the convention by having their own districts so solid that they could trade right and left, but the indications are that good trades will be hard to make.

Russian Juryman.
The most incredible stories have been told of Russian juryman. Thus the foreman of a jury declared he would not send a poor fellow to prison because it happened to be his (the juryman's) birthday. Another jury had agreed upon a verdict of guilty when the church bells began to ring. They revised their verdict because a holiday had begun. A burglar was allowed to go free because the man whom he had robbed had refused to lend him money. This in the opinion of the jury was a direct incentive to crime.

Warned.
Minister's Wife to her husband:—Will you help me to put the drawing room carpet down today, dear? The room is beautifully clean. Minister (recoiling):—Ah, well, I suppose I will have to. Wife:—And don't forget, John, dear, while you are doing it that you are a minister of the gospel.—London Tit-Bits.

Then There Was a Row.
"Now, sir," she commanded, "look me in the face and deny, if you dare, that you married me for money!" He raised his eyes until they were directed to her countenance and faltered: "Well, I think I earned the cash, don't you, dear?"—London Mail.

SPLIT OF OPERATORS MAY CAUSE STRIKE

Interstate Wage Agreement
Bone of Contention in Miners' Ranks.

CONFERENCE THURSDAY.
THREE STATES WILLING TO RE-NEW THE PRESENT INTER-
STATE AGREEMENT—STRIKE
WOULD BE SUCCESSFUL.

Reports were current among the miners' delegates yesterday of a split among the bituminous operators coming to Indianapolis Thursday for the conference looking to a renewal of an interstate wage agreement. Operators in Indiana, Ohio and part of Illinois, it is said, favor the renewal of the present interstate agreement, which expires March 31, and will work to that end.

Bituminous operators in Pennsylvania and West Virginia and those with headquarters in northern Illinois, especially in Chicago, are said to be against a renewal of the agreement even to the point of striking if necessary, officers and delegates say.

It was pointed out yesterday that bituminous operators mining mountain coal because of the industrial depression and the unusually warm weather, have been unable to dispose of the products of their mines as readily as in previous years and have been compelled to store much of it. As a consequence a large amount of coal is on hand. The Pennsylvania and West Virginia operators, especially, it is pointed out, are anxious to dispose of this accumulated product, and by bringing about a suspension of operations would create greater demand for coal and thus enable themselves to dispose of their surplus. Even if the miners could be forced to strike, it is pointed out by the more conservative miners attending the present convention, these operators would obtain what they are striving for. For this reason a suggestion of a strike among the miners will be met by opposition in their ranks. The Indiana, Ohio and southern Illinois operators have not suffered so much from the industrial conditions, it is said.

A Wall street business man showed a visitor a bundle of old letters that he was taking home from his office to burn in his furnace. "I wasn't always so particular about these useless business letters," he said, "until I learned that the women cleaners were sorting them out of the wastebaskets and selling them to certain firms which make a business of furnishing lists of names for various purposes, mostly to speculative concerns. Then I concluded that I owed it to my clients to protect them from the nuisance that follows getting one's name on a mailing list."—New York Sun.

The Aye-aye.
A very strange animal, related to the lemurs and peculiar to Madagascar, is the aye-aye. It feeds on wood-boring grubs that tunnel into the bark of trees. The beast cuts away the outer bark with its chisel-like teeth, and as the worm retreats to the end of its hole pokes after it with a finger. This finger is a remarkable organ, evidently provided by nature for this purpose, being abnormally long and armed with a hook shaped claw for dragging out the grub.

The Inspector's Life.
Caller:—I'd think that your father's duties as building inspector would be awfully dangerous going round unsafe buildings. Small Son of the House:—Oh, no; he doesn't go near 'em till after they fall down.—Life.

The other fellow's advice may be all right, but you'd better use a little horse sense with it.—Springfield Republican.

SECRECY SURROUNDS REMOVAL OF MRS. EDDY TO NEW HOME

Special Train With Pilot and Trailing Engines Carried the Leader of the Christian Scientists.

NEW HOME IS IN FASH-IONABLE BROOKLINE.

It Was Rebuilt at the Cost of $100,000 and Will Probably Be the Last Earthly Home of Famous Leader.

Boston, Jan. 27.—Guarded with the utmost secrecy Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder and head of the Christian Science church, was removed by special train yesterday, with all her household attendants, from Pleasantview, in Concord, N. H., where she has lived for 19 years, to a new home in the fashionable Chestnut Hill section of Brookline.

The coming was unheralded and only a few of the leaders of the Christian Science church had been aware of the contemplated change. Even the train crew which early took the private car of the vice president of the Boston and Maine railroad to Concord were commanded to maintain absolute secrecy as to the trip they were to make, and the best men in the service of the road were assigned to the duty.

Preceded by a pilot engine to clear the way the special train of three cars left Concord at 2 o'clock and proceeded over three railroads by a circuitous route to the Chestnut Hill station on the Boston and Albany road. In the rear of the train, to guard against collision, trailed a third engine.

Unusual Precautions.
Arriving in Brookline at 5 o'clock the party was taken to the late Amory A. Lawrence estate, one of the most beautiful in Brookline, even before $100,000 had been spent in the past four months to remodel it, and here Mrs. Eddy was settled in her new home.

The most unusual scene attended the arrival of the special train at Chestnut Hill station. There were seven closed carriages to meet and convey the party to the Lawrence estate. The fifth carriage in the line, the smallest of all and the least conspicuous, was occupied by Mrs. Eddy, Calvin A. Frye, her secretary, and another man, apparently a groom. All were warmly wrapped in furs and the women all carried bouquets of beautiful flowers.

The Lawrence home was reached at 5:20 o'clock. One by one the men and women of the party alighted, and, gathered about the massive porch at the front entrance, stood in line on either side from the carriage steps to the house.

Carried From the Carriage.
When the carriage of Mrs. Eddy drove up Calvin A. Frye was the first to leave it, and following him came the other man. Leaving back into the carriage the big man gathered up the frail form of Mrs. Eddy. Wrapped in a long sealskin cape, with a black bonnet trimmed with violets on her head and with her hands protected by white gloves, she was carried gently up the steps in the big man's arms through the long line of people, who murmured softly as she passed. Then she was taken upstairs and placed in what will be her own private room, on the front, or Commonwealth avenue side.

Immediately the whole great house burst forth into light, and from every window came the rays where before but a few lights had burned dimly. Trunks and satchels were passed in and soon all but one of the party had passed into the house.

Calvin A. Frye remained behind, and was closely pressed for information by newspaper men and others. Absolutely refusing to give any names of those in the party or to make any statement, he turned to six tall, powerful men who stood near him, and ordered that every person be at once put off the grounds. Then he turned and entered the house and his orders were obeyed without delay.

House Closely Guarded.
At 8 o'clock the light in Mrs. Eddy's room was extinguished, a little later the servants passed from the house to their quarters, and the first night in her new home had begun for Mrs. Eddy. Six men remained on guard through the night and tomorrow six others will take their places for the day guard. Within a week permits have been issued by the Brookline police for the men to carry arms, and it is believed the watch of six at night and six by day will be continued for some time.

The Recent Financial Flurry demonstrated the great value of a savings account. Many wage earners, with income temporarily cut off, passed through the period without inconvenience as they were able to fall back upon their bank accounts.

Unfortunately, however, numerous others had not fortified themselves in this manner. They are now in debt.

Now that the shops are open again, you should maintain a savings account. Do this, and the next flurry will not find you unprepared.
