

CANDIDATES LIVELY IN HENRY COUNTY

There Are Thirty-three Candidates for Office and They Are Working Hard.

NO MUD SLINGING SEEN.

CANDIDATES ARE NOT RESORTING TO SUCH TACTICS ALTHOUGH IN FEW INSTANCES SUCH HAS BEEN CASE.

New Castle, Ind., Jan. 29.—The fascinating game of politics is about the only thing in the county that is receiving its just share of attention. The candidates are slipping about the country. In one township they appear in the morning. In the afternoon they appear in another and at night they buttonhole voters in a third. Of course everyone who wants an office is working hard to get the place he covets.

At present there are 33 candidates. All of them will not be elected, but all are trying to be. No stone is being left unturned and each is dead sure that he has the nomination in his vest pocket.

Some of the candidates will get more votes than they are counting on. Others will not get as many as they believe they should have. It is hardly likely that any of the gentlemen are aspiring to office will get no votes.

It is most too early to even hazard a prediction as to any of the candidates. The greatest interest is centered in the sheriff's and the prosecutor's races. Each will be interesting from start to finish.

Thus far the campaign has been remarkably free of mud slinging, although one or two candidates are charged with having been "born with silver spoons in their mouths." However, this is not punishable with imprisonment or death and the allegation has aroused no comment.

Headache?

If it does, you should try Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. Why not do so. They will relieve the pain in just a few minutes. Ask your druggist. There are 45,000 druggists in the U. S. Ask any of them. A package of 25 doses costs 25 cents. One tablet usually stops a headache. They relieve pain without leaving any disagreeable after-effects— isn't that what you want?

"My son Frank Snyder has used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for a long time. He never had anything to help him so much for headache. A year ago he came home, and I was down sick with such a dreadful nervous headache. He gave me one of the Anti-Pain Pills, and after while I took another and was entirely relieved. I always keep them in the house now, and gave many away to others suffering with headache."

A FEAT IN PHOTOGRAPHY.

Daring Descent to Get a View of an Osprey's Nest.

New commenced my work, and I descended on my rope to terrace after terrace, forcing my way through thick oaks of prickly pear, a most painful operation. And now we found that there was nobody below to signal us where the nest lay. The inevitable result was that after descending more than 100 feet I had to signal to be hauled up again, always through the prickly pear. Again I descended, and again did I fall to find the nest. On the third occasion I reached a recess in the great cliff, whence, after unloading my rope and securing it to a bush for obvious reasons, I made a cast along a ledge to the south and reached a point which I identified as being not far from the nest as seen from below. So I retraced my steps and, regaining my rope, was hauled up for a third time. During this operation I passed a ledge where a peregrine falcon was nesting. The old female swept close around with shrill cries and eventually alighted on the sandy shelf of rock within a few feet of me and, with outspread wings and every feather standing on end, lowered her head and screamed furiously. I have no doubt I was close to her young, but I had no serious work in hand, and so I left her alone.

I now made my fourth and last descent and found myself immediately over the nest, but before I could go down to it the party handling the rope had to work their way down toward me, since the rope was too short. Finally I reached the nest, an enormous mass of big sticks measuring more than five feet across and doubtless the result of many years' work. In it were two eggs much incubated. By standing on a ledge close to the nest and pressing the camera between my body and the face of the cliff I was able to take some long time exposures with fairly good results. It was near sunset, and the cliff was in deep shadow, which did not facilitate my task. Between the shaly nature of the cliff, the slippery terraces covered with loose soil and stones and the detestable prickly pears I never had a more unpleasant or arduous task on a cliff before. But I have lived to endure worse experiences, although not so painfully protracted as were these.

My very curt entry in my diary summarizes the whole job thus: "Bad shale cliffs, vertical and dangerous. Height over sea, 180 feet. Top of cliff, 310 feet. The worst bit of rope work I ever did."

With regard to the prickly pears, it was many months before the last of the poisonous spines I had collected in various parts of my body consented to come out, and then only after first festering.—London Saturday Review.

"Not the least noteworthy thing about the beautiful building," writes Dr. Sunderman, from Mayence to the Voetschrift, referring to the cathedral of that place, "is the pavement. This is made of stones on which there are Hebrew letters which aroused our curiosity. Investigation showed that the stones at one time marked graves in the Jewish cemetery and had been taken thence when there was a scarcity of building material and used to pave the cathedral. They have remained there ever since, and some of the inscriptions are still in a fair state of preservation."

BUREAU OF MINES

Senate Committee at Solicitation of Hemenway Will Report Such Bill.

LOSS OF LIFE APPALLING.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Senator Hemenway, who went before the Senate committee on mines and mining and urged that the committee report out a bill for the establishment of a bureau of mines and mining in connection with the department of commerce and labor, obtained a promise that the committee would report out such a bill by the end of the month.

Senator Hemenway thinks this is a step in the right direction and believes that it will work to the advantage of a class of men who are compelled to work under ground.

The loss of life among the miners in recent years has become something appalling, and it is with a view of attempting to stop it that Senator Hemenway has turned his attention to the subject. The senator believes that with the help of others who are interested in this class of legislation, a law can be enacted at this session, appropriations be obtained and the bureau be equipped for business by the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1.

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Richmond Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—

Backache, sideache, headache, Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Richmond citizen tells here a certain cure.

Dallas Cassel, living at 711 South Eighth St., Richmond, Ind., says: "I think it was about fifteen years ago that I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills. At that time I was working, and in the course of a hard day's work had quite a bit of heavy lifting which brought on severe backache and dizzy headaches. I had tried several remedies, but with no effect. Finally I was induced to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at A. G. Loken & Co's drug store. After I had taken them for a short time the dull aching in back disappeared and with it the headaches. Since that time I have not been troubled, and have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many other sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

DEMOCRATS ACTIVE

Will Soon Make Arrangements For Holding State Nominating Convention.

AN EARLY DATE IS LIKELY.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 29.—The meeting of the Indiana State Democratic Central committee, in conjunction with the midwinter session of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association, Thursday, Feb. 6, will be a most important session. The dates for holding the state convention will be set at that time. It is expected that Wednesday and Thursday, March 18 and 19, or some date in the latter part of March, perhaps a few days later, will be chosen. This is a matter which will not be finally adjusted until the committee, the editors, the candidates for state officers, and the party workers from over the state express their desires and pass judgment on the matter. It is definitely understood that the Democratic state convention will hold before that of the republicans. As the republicans have named April 1, as their date, the March convention is practically assured for Democrats.

The editors and the committee, with other party leaders, will take up many questions of importance for discussion and settlement. It is said that a local option plan will be urged, for adoption as part of the state platform. The attitude of the party towards organized labor will be talked over with some of the prominent labor union men of the state, and it is expected that important action will be taken by the committee on subjects having to do with this important issue.

The coming of Mr. Bryan, Feb. 10, and the banquet to be given in his honor by the Indiana Democratic club, Feb. 17, at the Claypool hotel, will come in for discussion and planning.

In accounting for the rumbling or rolling of thunder, which has heretofore been explained by the echo theory, it is now stated that a flash of lightning is made of innumerable smaller flashes, which go to make up the whole. The rolling thunder is due to the primary sounds of successive discharges or flashes. When we see a relatively prolonged flash we witness in reality, a number of discontinuous discharges following down the same path and the sounds of these successive explosions come to us like the rattle of a rapid-fire gun, only less rhythmically. This discontinuity is quite different from oscillation.—Scientific American.

In the columns of the London Times a dispute continues to be waged stoutly in regard to the language commonly used by men of science. The chief point insisted upon is that there is not in science any truth so abstract that it can not be expressed in plain clear English. The men of science who take refuge in technical terms such as zygotes and gametes, are, the correspondents allege, really confessing to a lack of education.
