

RECEIVER NAMED FOR THE COLONIAL

Dickinson Trust Company to Act in This Capacity
For Creditors.

THE MORTGAGE IS HEAVY.

$70,000 IS THE AMOUNT AND IT IS HELD BY PEOPLE'S LOAN &
TRUST COMPANY OF WIN-CHESTER.

Application was made in the Wayne circuit court this morning to foreclose a mortgage on Edwin M. Campfield and Gertrude Campfield, his wife, by James Goodrich, attorney for the People's Loan and Trust company of Winchester. The appointment of a receiver was asked also, and the Dickinson Trust company of this city was selected. The court has set Tuesday, April 7 at 10 o'clock as the time for the application of the plaintiff for the appointment of a permanent receiver will be heard.

The loan and trust company seeks to take charge of the property known as the Colonial block, located at the corner of Main and Seventh streets and including the Colonial annex, located on South Seventh street, directly in the rear of the Main street building. The company holds a mortgage for $70,000 against the defendants. The First National bank of this city is named as a defendant, inasmuch as it is a creditor of Campfield.

The receiver is empowered to collect the rents, profits and earnings arising from the real estate and to apply the same to the payment of taxes and necessary improvements for the preservation of the property and to the payment of the principal and interest of the plaintiff's debt and the costs of this suit. The appointment of a receiver was made under an emergency clause showing it was necessary without notice to the defendants. The Dickinson Trust company is required to serve under a bond of $500,000. The receiver takes charge of the property immediately and all tenants are directed to pay the receiver all rents due accruing from their occupancy of the real estate or any part of it.

NEVER TO BE HEARD.

Suit Against Campfield Not Dismissed
However.

Satisfactory arrangements have been made by the First National Bank with Edwin M. Campfield, owner of the Colonial block and there is no likelihood the application made by the bank for a receiver for Campfield ever will be heard in court. The suit has not been dismissed, but it will not be brought to trial, according to statement of J. L. Ripe, the bank's attorney. In explaining the present attitude of the bank, Mr. Ripe stated everything has been accomplished outside of court that could be brought about through a receiver and consequently none will be asked for nor needed. Nearly all of the claim of the bank against Campfield has been paid and it will not be necessary to prosecute.

The petition for a receiver was made on the ground Campfield had violated his contract with the bank, whereby it was provided the bank would advance him money and he in turn was to turn over to the bank all moneys collected as rentals from the Colonial block. It was alleged the defendant had failed to keep his contract.

His Lecture on Job.

"I dunno what dey call Job a patient man for," said Brother Dickie, "knew of all de growlers I ever heard tell on he sho' wuz de growliest! But he sho' did have enough ter make him growl—dat he did! De devil say, 'Looky yer, Job, you in my power now, an' I gwine ter 'flict you wid a few biles.' An' Job say, 'All right; I kin stan' it ef you kin.' But de biles commence ter break out so thick an' fast dat Job say, 'Looky yer, man, dese ain't no biles—dis de smallpox, sho' ez I kin hear!' An' he catch so dat he had ter scratch hissef wid a goat's head. Den de devil git in a high win' an' blow down Job's house, an' dat wuz too much! So 'ef Job lift up his voice, an' he say, 'Looky yer, I bargain fer biles, but I didn't want no hurricane blowed in fer good measure.'—Frank Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

His Place at the Broom.

The famous coup d'état by which Napoleon III. gained control of France is vividly described in the "Memoirs of Monsieur Claude." Among the many anecdotes of the eventful evening of Dec. 1, 1851, M. Claude gives the following: "Comte de Morny, the chief spirit of the nocturnal drama about to be performed, was at the opera Comique in order to relax suspicion. A lady said to him, 'M. de Morny, is it true that they are going to sweep out the chamber?' 'Madame, I don't know anything about it,' he replied, 'but if there is any sweeping to be done I shall try to be on the side of the broom handle.'"

An Exception.

"My faith in newspapers has been revived a sad shock," said the burglar just captured in the act.

"How so?" asked the policeman adjusting the cuffs.

"I had read so often that a copper was never around when needed," rejoined the prisoner, tapping into sudden silence. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Affairs of the Sporting World

(By Tort.)

King Cole, the Columbus, O., pitcher, who was with Richmond last year, will not report here this season until the close of the term at the Ohio State University, where King is studying law. This had is a most promising youngster and his services the first of the season will be missed.

Johnny Reuter, the crack little professional golf player, will this season again be the professional coach at the Richmond Country club. Reuter has been wintering at Dayton, O.

Eli Cates, the former Greensford man who made such a splendid record on the Pacific coast last season, is making good with the Washington American League team and will no doubt be one of the regular twirlers for the senators this season.

For some reason the Muncie Star still continues to hand out raps to the I. O. league. The league does not know what it has done to cause this opposition—but it is awfully sorry for having done so.

Members of the various croquet teams in the county will soon be ordered to report for spring practice.

Mr. Watts of Toledo, will find he has made no mistake if he takes hold of the Muncie franchise. Muncie is filled with baseball fanatics who are actually starving for the national pastime.

After considerable civil strife the city bowling league is now one nice, happy family. All the clubs are well balanced and the race is close and interesting.

LAMOTT-LITTLE CASE WAS CONTINUED

Question as to Bill Presented
By Guardian.

The case of Lamott vs. Little in the Wayne Circuit court was not concluded yesterday and will be resumed next Monday. The plaintiff taxes exception to the report of the defendant as guardian of Rachel Robbins. It was asserted during the trial that the guardian had presented a bill for the custody of a ward for an entire year that she did not remain with him.

FIRST GOOD MARKET OF YEAR TOMORROW

Marketmaster Waltherman Issues the News.

Marketmaster Waltherman states that the first good market of the season will be held tomorrow at the South Sixth street market house. There will be a good supply of hot house vegetables raised in this county and there will also be a large supply of fresh vegetables from the south, which have just been received here. Eggs, butter and poultry will also be plentiful.

Courts in the Open.

One of the reviving barometers in the north of England had his court under a tree in a vineyard garden, the village schoolroom not being at his disposal. This is not by any means the first court held in the open. Deborah in the book of Judges, it will be remembered, gave judgment under a palm tree. Admirals, according to Pyrrhus, held their courts "close by the flux and reflux of the sea," and in the fifteenth century the admiralty court used to sit on a quay at Southwark.—London Law Journal.

GIRL WAS LOCKED IN

Afterthought of Clerk Penny
Saved Girl From Spending
Night in Court House.

WAS ON VERGE OF TEARS.

It was only due to the afterthought of county clerk Penny that a fourteen year old girl was not forced to spend last night as a prisoner in the court house. The girl had been in attendance at the Lamott-Little trial and had been locked in the court house at 6 o'clock and just as the clerk was leaving the building, which had been locked previously by the janitor, Mr. Penny presumed it probable that court might be in session and knew if such were the case others in the building would have keys. After the girl had entered the clerk locked the door.

He had crossed the street and was en route home when he thought it might be there was no one left in the court house but the girl. He returned and unlocked the door. Tears stood on the girl on the verge of tears. She had gone to the court room and found it deserted. She returned to the front door and it was locked. She was in a quandary as to how to proceed when the clerk returned and solved the problem for her.

MUNCIE TEAM SURE

The Union Traction Company Means Business and Will Repair Park.

PIQUA READY FOR THE FRAY

Muncie fans are greatly pleased with the prospects of having their team in the I. O. league managed by A. J. Watts, the well known Toledo baseball man. When Mr. Watts comes to look the field over he will be welcomed with open arms.

The sporting writer on the Muncie Press states that the Union Traction company is sincere in its efforts to have a club placed in the field and as soon as the weather permits the company will repair the fences and stands at the West Side Park and make everything ship shape for the season.

All that it will be necessary for Watts to do, if he takes control of the club, will be to sign up a team that will keep Muncie in the running from start to finish—the Muncie fans will then do the rest. West Side park is quite a little distance from the center of town but this handicap would be offset by good street car and traction service.

At Piqua the majority of stock in the baseball company has been placed. This week the promoters of the company are at work placing the remainder of the stock and soliciting subscriptions for season tickets. Their efforts are meeting with success and at the Van Wert meeting Sunday, Manager Sank will be able to report that everything in his city is in readiness for the opening of the season.

GENERAL PROTEST WILL BE RAISED BY THE FARMERS

commissioners to comply with the request and proceed according to law.

This means tax payers residing in Wayne township four or five miles from the site of the proposed road will have to pay their share for its construction. It is doubtless there will be general protest among the farmers and rural residents to paying for a road that they will regard as almost entirely for the benefit of the city.

The usual method of procedure will be followed. An engineer and viewer must be appointed and a profile of the proposed road must be prepared. The county auditor must advertise for bonds and the treasurer dispose of them. The residents of the township will be taxed to pay for these bonds. Another feature provided for by the law governing such road construction, is that after the township has been taxed to build the road, it loses all vestige of authority over the same. The law says: "After any street shall have been improved hereunder, the trustees of such town or the common council of such city shall have control of the same and shall maintain the same in repair."

The Turret Battery.

Early in the nineteenth century, in 1812, Colonel John Stevens conceived the idea of the construction of an iron plated vessel of war with a saucer shaped hull, propelled by screws so arranged as to give a rotary motion to the structure. The battery was to be of the heaviest ordnance of the time and the plating heavy enough to resist the shot of similar guns at short range. The main purpose of the craft was harbor defense, and the plan of action was to moor the vessel by a chain leading down through the bottom of the ship at its center and to spin it around this center, firing gun after gun as it came in the life of fire, thus anticipating the later Timby turret, which in turn was the germ of the modern monitor armored. Such a vessel was actually built half a century later by the Russian government and was a good representative of the first Stevens battery.—Cassier's Magazine.

Paved With Tombstones.

"Not the least noteworthy thing about the beautiful building," writes Dr. Sundermann from Mayence to the Wochenschrift, referring to the cathedral of that place, "is the pavement. This is made with stones on which there are Hebrew letters, which aroused our curiosity. Investigation showed that the stones at one time marked graves in the Jewish cemetery and had been taken thence when there was a scarcity of building material and used to pave the cathedral. They have remained there ever since, and some of the inscriptions are still in a fair state of preservation."

Its Cost.

A Frenchman, meeting an English soldier with a Waterloo medal, and meditated sullenly on the government for bestowing such a trifle, which he declared, did not cost 3 francs. "That is true, to be sure," replied the hero. "It did not cost the English government quite 3 francs, but it cost the French a Napoleon."

CAMPAIGNING TO DEFEAT WATSON

Local Labor Organizations
Instructed From Indianapolis.

AN URGENT APPEAL MADE.

PERRY SAYS UNITED EFFORT OF ALL TRADES UNIONISTS WILL RESULT IN THE SELECTION OF SOMEONE ELSE.

The various local labor unions are now, under instructions received from Theodore Perry, chairman of the political committee of the Indiana Federation of Labor, busily engaged in a campaign to defeat the nomination of James E. Watson as republican candidate for governor.

These labor unions have received from Chairman Perry a communication in which he states that the final effort to defeat Mr. Watson is now being made by labor unions all over the state and asks for the support of the local unions in this effort. "At this time the prospects of defeating Mr. Watson are very good, and we believe that by a determined and united effort on the part of trade unionists of Indiana the fight can and will be won," the letter states in part.

Local unions are also urged to appoint a committee of three or five members to draw up resolutions protesting in vigorous terms against the nomination of Watson. Copies of these resolutions are asked to be sent to Chairman James P. Goodrich, of the republican state committee; the chairman of the delegation from Wayne county and to the state committeeman from the sixth district.

The Roman Forum.

The Forum Romanum, the first that was erected in Rome, served equally for the purposes of trade and all public meetings as well as for the administration of justice by the consuls and other Roman magistrates. Later on, when the forum numbered some eighteen or twenty, they were divided into two classes, some for public meetings and the proceedings of the law courts and others for the various requirements of trade. The Roman forum corresponded to the agora, or market place, of the Greeks, and no Roman city was without this important center of judicial, political and commercial life.—New York American.

VARIANCE OF STATE LAWS WAS CAUSE

Affidavit As to Authenticity of Signature Passed Upon.

An affidavit as to the authenticity of the signature of Harry C. Doan as a subscribing witness to the will of the late Mary B. L. Starr, was prepared in the Wayne circuit court today. Such an affidavit was made necessary because of the variance between the laws of this state and those of Pennsylvania. The executors of the will of Mrs. Starr had sought to file it for probate and record in Pennsylvania and learned that proof of the will by two subscribing witnesses was required. The name of Edward Klute appeared as the other witness. The Pennsylvania law demands that in case the proof is made by only one witness the attested signature of the other must be attached. The proof of the will had been made by Mr. Klute only. Harry Doan, the other witness, is now at Kansas City and the affidavit required was made out by his father, Walter Doan, who attested the signature.

TRIBE OF CRIMINALS.

The Maghaya's Greatest Pride Is Successful Burglary.

The Maghaya is born in an arid field and schooled to theft from his infancy. He lives without shelter or food for the morrow, perpetually moving from encampment to encampment, chased by the police and execrated by the villagers. His greatest pride is a successful burglary and a prolonged drinking bout his most coveted reward.

Jail offers no terrors to the dom. It is merely the result of being a bungler at his trade. The first attempt to reclaim the Maghaya doms in Champanun was made by Mr. (now Sir E.) Henry. He found the greater number of the adult members of the tribe were in jail. Every police officer was held responsible if any doms were found in his jurisdiction, with the result that as soon as a dom was released from jail he was usually returned thither under the bad livelihood sections.

Agricultural settlements were established for the tribe, but they do not seem to have been very successful as civilizing agencies. The settlements serve as houses for the women and children, but the men are seldom found in them.

The females generally hawk stolen property in the villages and act as spies.—Bengal Gazetteer.

A WINDOW AND A WAR.

Costly Incident of the Reign of Louis XIV. of France.

A terrible war was once caused by a window.

It was in the days when Louis XIV. "Le Grand Monarque," was dazzling Europe. His minister, Louvois, was superintending on the king's behalf the building of the palace of the Trianon in the park at Versailles. Louis inspected the buildings one afternoon and declared one of the windows to be out of shape and smaller than the rest. This Louvois denied, and the king had the window measured, with the result that he was proved to be right, and he openly before all the court ridiculed Louvois.

But the minister had his revenge, for with the angry ejaculation that he would find better employment for a monarch than that of insulting his favorites, he embroiled France by his insolence in a quarrel with the powers, which only ended years later in the peace of Ryswick after a war which entailed the loss of many lives and the expenditure of large sums of money.

NEW CASTLE BEATEN

Picked Team Defeated Flower
City Lads Again Last Night at Polo.

LAST PERIOD A WHIRLWIND.

A picked team of city league players went to New Castle last evening and defeated a picked team representing the Flower City by a score of 11 to 5. Three of the New Castle players were professionals, but this made no never mind to the Quakers. At the close of the second period the score was tied, 5 to 5, but in the third, Richmond in the good old whirlwind Quaker fashion, swept the Flower City lads before them, caging six goals. In this period, Sharp, Brown and Karns, for Richmond, gave a splendid exhibition of floor working. Moore, the Quaker goal tend, played a sensational game. Lineups and summary:

Infants and children are constantly needing a laxative. It is important to know what to give them. Their stomachs and bowels are not strong enough for salts, purgative waters or cathartics pills, powders or tablets. Give them a mild, pleasant, gentle, laxative tonic like Dr. Cassell's Syrup Pepsin, which sells at the small sum of 50 cents or $1 at drug stores. It is the great remedy for you to have in the house to give children when they need it.
