SPOILED THE SCENE.

When Kimball Pointed the Way to His Own Future Career.As a delineator of the traditional Yankee character Mathias Currier Kimball, more widely known as Yankee Glenn, long stood without a rival.Away back in the early forties, when he was a mere lad, a little incident with Junius Brutus Booth, the elder, started him in his career. Kimball was only seventeen years old at the time and was at work as an usher in the Lowell museum. Booth, who was then in the zenith of his power and fame, was billeted there for three nights.
The play was "Richard III." Kimball had thoroughly studied the play and was considered a young man of promising dramatic ability. On the opening night the actor who took the part of Lord Norfolk failed to show up.
Booth was in despair. At last some one suggested that young Kimball knew the lines of that part, and he was cast for it by Booth.Of the event Kimball himself said: "When I went on the stage, I was buddy rattled. Booth was imperious and stern, which only complicated matters. However, I got along all right until we came to the battle of Bosworth Field. In my hurry I had taken the wrong place on the stage, when Booth hissed out in a whisper, 'Get into your place.' Then wheeling around he pronounced these words in thrilling tones: 'What thinkest thou now, noble Norfolk?' That we shall conquer, my lord,' was my reply, but on my tent this morning early was this paper found." Booth was marking out the plan of battle on the sand.
When I had finished the lines, he drew his sword and with terrific force struck the paper from my hands, saying, 'A weak invention of the enemy!'"I was thoroughly frightened at his fearful expression and dodged back, nearly falling to the floor. Booth then repeated the words:"What thinkest thou, Norfolk, if the pardon was offered?""By this time I was completely rattled and forgot my lines. Booth stood glaring at me like a tiger. The audience were holding their breath for the next turn of affairs. Suddenly I realized that something must be done.
My nerve returned, and I think it must have been the devil that prompted me to balance myself on one foot and drawl out with Yankee twang:"Well, I don't know, Mr. Booth. It may work.""Instantly the whole house was in an uproar. As shout after shout of laugh-er went up the black cloud on Booth's brow relaxed, and, wheeling on his heel, he left the stage, shaking his sides with merriment. After the play was over he came to me and, placing his hand on my shoulder, said in fatherly tones, 'Young man, you never never played tragedy before, did, on? Without waiting for a reply he continued:
'Take my advice and never attempt it again. You are a natural comedian.
Take a Yankee character and become identified with it, and fame and fortune will be yours.' And I followed his advice."

THE DUST IN THE AIR.

Without It the Heat of the Sun Would Be Unbearable.The usefulness of dust is proclaimed by science despite all the housewives of all the ages. Dust is part of the machinery that produces cloud and rain.
It is also protection from the sun.
Without it the sun's rays would be unbearable. The reason that sunburn is more easily acquired on the mountains than in the lowlands is said to be probably because of the comparatively dustless air of the mountainous regions.A dustless atmosphere during rain would mean a much greater degree of discomfort than rain ever brings.
Trees and buildings would be dripping with moisture, our clothing and the exposed parts of our bodies would be constantly wet, umbrellas would be classed as useless curios, and instead of trying to conquer the dust in the house we should have to face a much greater enemy in wet floors and dripping walls. In every drop of rain and in every particle of cloud there is a particle of dust. A sample of air may be taken anywhere and the number of its dust particles accurately determined.
Dust, too, produces the glorious sunset effects in the evening sky, thus causing the faint obscurity we call twilight.Twilight is always a reflected glory.
The light comes from the sun, which has in the meanwhile sunk below the horizon. The reflector is an upper layer of dust. Were the air perfectly dustless there would be no twilight.
Darkness would immediately follow the sunset.—Exchange.

He Was Almost Dead.

When the Root Juice people were in Richmond hundreds of people flocked to A. G. Lukens' drug store to see them and get some of the great remedy.and after they left the great sale of the remedy continued because of the many remarkable cures it made.Many names of people living in this locality who were cured by taking a few bottles of Root Juice were published in this paper. The remedy is such a health-promoting agent that it creates great excitement in every city in which it is introduced. That whole country seems to be aroused over the scores of cures the Juice is making at that point. Mr. AlbertTimlick, of Cantrell, Ill., wrote and said: "For a number of years I suffered with a severe stomach trouble and tried many kinds of medicine, but none did any good. I was almost dead when I started on my first bottle of Root Juice, but as soon as I took three or four doses I began to feel better. Four bottles of the Juice made a complete cure of my troubles. I now have a good appetite and can eat anything I want. Before I took Root Juice I could not digest the lightest food. It would sour on my stomach and would bloat fearfully. I digest everything I eat now. It has certainly brought wonders for me." Root Juice is great healing tonic to the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys. It is sold for $1 a bottle. Three bottles for $2.50 at A. G. Lukens' drug store.
