Infants and children are constantly needing a laxative. It is important to know what to give them. Their stomachs and bowels are not strong enough for salts, purgative waters or cathartic pills, powders or tablets. Give them a mild, pleasant, gentle, laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which sells at the small sum of 50 cents or $1 at drug stores. It is the one great remedy for you to have in the house to give children when they need it.

PEARL HARBOR TO BE USED AT LAST

Congress Will Spend Vast Sum

In Improving Pacific
Naval Station.

WILL COST $12,000,000.

PROPOSED TO ERECT FORTIFICA-TIONS AND BUILD DRY-DOCK.
ALSO TO DREDGE SAND BAR
FROM MOUTH OF THE HARBOR.

Washington, June 27.—The white man's outpost in the Pacific—the greatest naval station in the world. It is now settled that this is what Uncle Sam will establish at Pearl harbor, on Oahu island, seven miles from Honolulu.

He will spend from ten to twelve million dollars to do it. Once it is accomplished the Pacific fleet sheltered there, will protect not only Hawaii, but will become the watchdog of the Pacific coast, always alert, ever ready for attack.

A bill has been passed by the house, and will be passed without opposition by the senate, providing for the expenditure immediately of $650,000 in the preliminary work, and, before the next session of congress, an additional amount of approximately $2,500,000.

There are no official figures upon the probable ultimate cost of the improvement, but the Taft record recommended fortifications to cost $2,500,000 and there is planned a dry dock to cost $2,000,000 more. This with the estimated cost of dredging the channel and removing the bar at the mouth of the harbor, $2,000,000, the equipment of machine shop at a cost of $1,000,000 and the coal shed, store house and naval yard construction to cost another million, brings the amount approximately to $10,000,000.

In preparing for this highly important auxiliary to the Pacific fleet, congress and the house naval committee is going it alone, for the naval board has never made any estimates or recommended the general project, despite the fact that the land surrounding the harbor, some 600 acres, was purchased by the United States for this purpose before the acquisition of the islands, for $650,000. Nothing has ever been done toward improving it to date.

The importance of Pearl harbor as a naval strategic point has been urged upon the government since 1851. Naval engineers have made voluminous reports upon it. The first step toward making it a naval base followed Dewey's victory in Manila bay, when Uncle Sam purchased the harbor and its surrounding territory from the Hawaiian government.

The harbor is formed by the mouth of the Pearl river on the southern shore of Oahu island, seven miles from Honolulu. With the exception of the bay at Honolulu it is the only harbor for large vessels in all the islands.

Topographically Pearl harbor is an ideal naval station site. It is a beautiful lagoon, three miles long, which branches out at the inner end into a delta-like harbor with a land frontage of 30 miles. The water varies from 30 to 60 feet in depth. Coral and sandstone banks rise so straight that a full rigged man-of-war could anchor alongside without docks. The rise and fall of the tides in the harbor is scarcely noticeable.

A sand bar now obstructs the mouth of the river and the plan contemplates its removal and the dredging of a wide deep channel out to sea. For a mile beyond the sand bar the approach to the harbor shows only a depth of 100 feet, a condition especially well suited to marine mining operations. The experience of Honolulu, in dredging away a similar bar, was that after its removal it did not re-form.

It would be utterly impossible for a hostile fleet to force an entrance to the harbor, once it was properly fortified. Two immense cliffs jut upward at the mouth of the river, and heavy bombs placed here could not only repel any attack from the sea but also defend Honolulu, whose sea approach lies within easy range. Back of Honolulu are cliffs that would afford excellent location for coast defenses, which coupled with the Pearl harbor fortifications, would make that city of 50,000 practically immune from a sea attack.

Supplies could be brought to Pearl harbor over the Oahu Land & Railroad Co.'s line, which skirts the harbor. Fresh water springs and artesian wells on all sides insure an excellent water supply. Surrounding it, inland, is a fine agricultural country, which could be drawn upon for the ordinary food supplies.

PORT APPRAISERS TO MEET IN CONFERENCE

Government Officials to Gather in New York in September.

Washington, June 27.—A conference of United States local appraisers will be held at the United States appraiser's office at New York from September 21 to 29, both dates inclusive, and will be attended by the local appraisers of the following ports: New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Baltimore, San Francisco, Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland, Buffalo, New Orleans, Tampa, Portland, Me., and the officers acting as appraisers at Port Townsend, Cincinnati, Newport News, Pittsburg, Milwaukee, Galveston, Los Angeles, Honolulu, Kansas City, St. Paul, Providence and Portland, Ore.

The conferences have been held annually for a long time, and are called to promote uniformity in classification and appraisements at the different ports.

EXPERIMENTS ON FOOD COSTLY TO GOVERNMENT

Expected That Tests to Be Made Will Cost About
$75,000.

Washington, June 27.—Department of Agriculture officials estimate the cost of food experiments before the board at about $75,000. This is admittedly only a rough guess. The cost may be much more than this sum. The money is being drawn from the appropriations for the enforcement of the pure food law, and of course reduces the sum available for the regular routine of administration by an equivalent amount, as congress made no special appropriation for the purpose of the expert board. The experiments apparently cover somewhat the same ground as that which Dr. Wiley has already traversed in his experiments in the bureau of chemistry.

WESTERN CATTLE ARE IN PRIME CONDITION

Four-Year-Olds Are Fat and Will Be Ready for Market Early.

Chicago, June 27.—Reports from the ranges all over the west are that cattle are now in the best condition they have been in at this time of the year for many seasons, and the stock is also reported to be in fine shape. The reports also show that the four and five year old stuff is exceptionally fat and will be ready for market early.

BANDITS TERRIFY WHOLE SECTION

Rob Banks in Western States
And Secure Net Total of Over $50,000.

IS A DESPERATE GANG.

NITROGLYCERIN USED TO FORCE
DOORS FROM BANK VAULTS
—OUT OF TWELVE ATTEMPTS,
ELEVEN ARE SUCCESSFUL.

Topeka, Kan., June 27.—Robbers have been holding sway in southeast Kansas, southwest Missouri and northeast Oklahoma. During the last four months, bandits have robbed eleven banks and carried away $54,000.

Twelve attempts have been made altogether to get into the strong boxes of the banks and in only one case did the desperadoes fail. The country is wrought up and detectives are searching day and night for the bandits, who have thus far been able to foil all attempts to capture them. Large rewards are offered and the head of any one of the bandits would be a valuable trophy to the man who brings it in. All banks are taking extra precautions against raids and it is believed that it will not be long before the famous battle at Coffeyville will be reproduced in one of the towns.

There have been bank and train robberies in this same country in years gone by, but sooner or later the gangs that accomplished the work were captured or most of the members killed. In not a single instance is there the slightest clew to the robbers in the last twelve bank robberies.

It was thought that a band of outlaws led by Henry Starr, a former desperado, made the raid on the Caney (Kan.) banks and Starr was hunted for weeks, but not captured. As a matter of fact, there is no evidence that Starr was in the raid.

It is generally supposed that all of the burglaries were the work of the same band, and all of the daylight holdups were performed by the same men. Two to four men took part in all of the burglaries, while three men were all that actually held up and robbed the four banks. None of the men have been identified, but the earmarks of each crime were such that the officers believe that only two bands operated.

In each burglary the bank vaults were blown open with nitroglycerin, and the detectives placed on the different cases say the plan of operating was practically the same. In each instance the men left the town on handcars which they stole in the railroad yards.

They rode on the handcars to some railroad crossing twenty to thirty miles distant from the scene of the robbery and there boarded a train. The robberies were so timed that the men were able to get away and ride to the railroad crossing just in time to catch a train. The handcars always were found at the crossing and when the robbery became known the trainmen reported three or four men boarding their train at this crossing.

The daylight holdups were accomplished by three men. One man stayed outside to hold the horses and watch the citizens. The other two entered the bank and while one held the bank officials and clerks at bay with his guns the other put all the money in sight into a sack.

The three rode away together and usually got a good start before the alarm was given. The robbers always entered the banks either just after the bank had opened or just a few minutes before closing time, when it was unlikely that there were many persons in the bank.

In all the robberies the depositors and banks did not lose any money as all the banks carried burglary insurance and the insurance companies paid the bills regularly and hired the detectives to hunt the bandits. In the bank burglaries the bank buildings were damaged almost as much as the amount taken from the bank vaults. The building at Rich Hill, Mo., was totally wrecked and all the others partially wrecked and all the others destroyed.

HOLLANDERS MOVE

Many Dutch Farmers Come to Canada to Settle Among Distant Relatives.

PEOPLE OF SAME BLOOD.

Calgary, Alberta, June 27.—By a strange coincidence this part of Canada has witnessed during the past few months the last act of a drama of international interest, which had its beginning in distant Europe fifteen centuries ago. Driven by the same pressure of increasing population that forced their ancestors to seek homes in the British Isles, the farmers of Holland are beginning to migrate to this part of Canada. The new settlers, who are increasing in numbers every month, come from that particular region along the shores of the North sea that was the cradle land of the Anglo
