STATES RIGHTS.

One of the most ludicrous of the planks which finds itself in the democratic platform is the proposal (we infer of Mr. Bryan) to compel the corporations doing more than twenty-five per cent of the business in any commodity to take out a federal license before it can engage in business. Where are now the democratic brothers who have for many years bewailed the delegation of state's rights to a central government and who have seen danger in the increase of federal power?

Not content with the licensing of corporations, a future democratic congress will protect the public from watered stock. How? There the democratic party pauses, but at any rate it is certainly more "delegation to the central government."

But there is still more. "A law compelling such licensed corporations to sell to all purchasers in all parts of the country on the same terms after making due allowance for the cost of transportation." Where is such power to be found under the constitution? There is no paragraph which applies to interstate commerce which could in any way be distorted so as to give congress the right to fix the price of any commodity. Such a course would kill the business of the country only too quickly.

To put it tersely, the democratic party is not content to regulate the corporations, but would give congress the right to absolutely control them and all the business of the country together with the prices.

On this subject the New York Sun says: "This is socialism run mad. If the Denver candidates are really committed to the policy embodied in that plank in the Denver platform, no true democrat can vote for the Bryan and Kern electors."

IN RE MRS. LONGWORTH.

Three self appointed Kentucky Colonels (with that courtesy which we have come to regard of as innate in not only Kentucky gentlemen, but of gentlemen everywhere) invited Mrs. Nicholas Longworth to be a guest of honor at the national convention of the prohibition party. Now it appears that the convention doesn't want her. Mrs. Longworth is not regarded as being a "perfect lady." She has been known "to be seen in the company of George B. Cox of Cincinnati, at the Latonia races and to have smoked cigarettes." Besides they averred she is not the type of woman the delegates ought to select as a guest.

Laying aside the fact that Mrs. Longworth may or may not agree with the propaganda of prohibition, it was in very poor taste to expose her to criticism of public discussion. It would not have hurt the party to be looked at by one of the gentlest born women in the land. No one in the democratic party felt for an instant that Mrs. Longworth was very enthusiastic about their party nor wished them success, but she was invited and entertained in a cordial and hospitable fashion. It would have been a feather in the cap of the prohibition party had they succeeded in luring Mrs. Longworth from her alleged wicked life. But perhaps she receives a compliment in being thought so attractive that she might make the members of the party err. There is all the more ground to this belief in as much as the most of the opposition came from a lone woman on the committee. Was it feminine jealousy or simply a disregard of the laws of politeness?

BRYAN IN THE EAST.

That there is growing opposition to Bryan in the East, in addition to the apathy and disgust of the old line democrats is witnessed in this morning's dispatches which announce that W. R. Hearst has opened fire on him. Whatever may be the estimate of Hearst, it is undeniable that he has an immense following in the city of New York which has cut into the forces of Tammany-hall.

In a dispatch from Paris Hearst says:

"I do not think the path of patriotism lies in supporting a discredited old party which has neither conscientious convictions nor honest intention or in endorsing chameleon candidates who change the color of their political opinion with every varying hue of opportunism."

Moreover we are to have the pleasure of hearing Hearst attack Bryan, Kern and Taggart in this state, as Hearst will take the stump to do his best to put the trio out of business. We consider however that the sphere of influence in which Hearst will do the most damage to Mr. Bryan will be in those cities in which Hearst has established one of his newspapers. His clientele will follow him any where.

MORE NATURE FAKING.

In a recent magazine there appeared an article headed, "In Pursuit of the Wild Honey Bee." Has it come to this? How long before we meet with "Wild Insects I have Known," or the "Hunt of the Green Caterpillar?" We do indeed remember that a Russian did write a stirring novel called the "Gadfly," but from now on one should consider well any such incendiary literature as "Lady Bug." Even the President's hunting trip in Africa should be well attended with success in this field of insect romance. Next we shall listen to a monograph on the "Fly in Literature." Still we welcome the insect in literature more than in other places.

MUM.

An eastern paper remarks that Colonel Bryan has begun to teach Kern the art of keeping still. We confess that we would rather lean toward the opinion that he had come to a very poor tutor. It may be that Bryan wants to do all the talking, that Mr. Kern has nothing to say or that he considers that the least said about things, the better. In such a case the explanations being many, we refrain from offering or selecting any. Mr. Kern did say one thing however: "We hope to carry the state." That doesn't sound very confident. But it is almost more than he could say truthfully.

CONVICT CAPTURED

Indiana Murderer Overpowered in Kentucky Footballs.

TAKEN TO MICHIGAN CITY.

Michigan City, Ind., July 17.—Nelson Fritz, an escaping convict from the Michigan City Prison since August 13, last, convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment from Bedford, Lawrence county, seven years ago, was captured in the foothills of the Cumberland mountains, 18 miles from Barboursville, Ky., by Prison Agent Thomas Larmore. The capture was effected after months of effort on the part of the prison agent.

While at Michigan City Fritz was employed generally about the institution. Carefully choosing his time he made a successful bolt for liberty. He finally found refuge in the mountains of Kentucky.

Agent Larmore after tracing his man through the Blue Ridge and Cumberland mountains finally located him at the home of a brother-in-law near Barboursville, Ky.

The fugitive kept himself concealed in a clump of bushes a short distance from the house, his meals being carried to him by his sister-in-law. It was when the woman was on a visit to the convict's hiding place that she was followed by Larmore. After a struggle Fritz was overpowered and was brought to this city by Agent Larmore.

CAMPAIGN OPENS

IN HENRY

Party Leaders Decide on the Date.

New Castle, Ind., July 17.—County Chairman Christopher of the republicans, and Walter S. Chambers of the democratic county committee, have announced the opening of the campaign September 1. Each will endeavor to have some of the party's most prominent speakers to stump the county. The democrats will invite Thomas R. Marshall and John W. Kern, while the republicans are confident of securing the services of James E. Watson and Vice President Fairbanks.

WILL STAY IN RACE

Catrow Thinks Killing Man Should Not Affect His Candidacy.

ACCIDENT IS DEPLORABLE.

Dayton, O., July 17.—Rumors growing out of the tragedy Wednesday afternoon in which Colonel H. G. Catrow, the millionaire banker and republican candidate for congress, ran down with his automobile and killed a street workman, were afloat last night that Colonel Catrow had pledged through C. W. Belser, chairman of the republican committee that he would withdraw from his candidacy. Today however, Mr. Belser and Colonel Catrow said that the rumors were without foundation. Colonel Catrow says that the accident was unavoidable and while deplorable, he does not think that it should affect his candidacy.

HAIRS TAFT VICTOR

Senator Foraker, Old Time Enemy of Candidate, Says G. O. P. Will Win.

NO ONE DOUBTS RESULT.

Washington, July 17.—Senator Foraker who arrived in Washington yesterday en route to Northeast Harbor, Maine, where he will remain with his family for about a month, returning then to Ohio, in a statement he made just before his departure for the north predicted the election of William H. Taft and Governor Harris. As to the senatorial situation Mr. Foraker said it would be time enough "to bother about that after we have secured a republican legislature." His statement is as follows:

"I have been in Cincinnati for the last two weeks, but was so busily occupied with other matters that I did not have much opportunity to look over the political situation. So far as I could observe the people have not yet become very greatly interested in politics and there is not for that reason much discussion. They have been waiting for the nominations to be made and are now apparently awaiting the letters of acceptance from the candidates. In the meantime the committees are getting ready for work and shortly there no doubt will be the usual interest manifested. We shall then know more definitely than it is possible to know at this time just what to expect."

PREPARATORY SERVICES.

Services will be held at the Reid Memorial church this evening at 7:30 o'clock preparatory to communion on the Sabbath. The sermon will be by the Rev. R. H. Dunnaway.

At this conference you read carefully Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is positively guaranteed to cure indigestion, constipation, sick headache, offensive breath, malaria and all diseases arising from stomach trouble.
