FALL FESTIVAL IS ASSURED SUCCESS

Business Men Contribute Liberally and Others Add Their Donations.

COMMITTEES TO REPORT.

PREPARATIONS FOR FESTIVAL TO BEGIN AT ONCE AS $4,000 IS IN SIGHT TO DEFRAY EXPENSES FOR EVENT.

Chairman Nimrod Johnson and other members of the fall festival finance committee joyfully announced today that the efforts of the committee to raise funds for the big event are meeting with success. Already enough money has been secured by the various soliciting committees to insure the festival and the manufacturers and a large number of well-to-do citizens not actually engaged in business have not yet been asked for contributions.

This afternoon the committee to solicit contributions from the manufacturers will begin its canvass and they expect to complete the work by this evening. "I expect that when all the soliciting has been completed $4,000 will be available for the expenses of the festival. I confidently believe the investment of this amount will bring between $25,000 and $30,000 into the city," stated Mr. Johnson.

Members of the finance committee will meet this evening at the festival headquarters, Ninth and Main street, over the Western Union office and at this meeting the chairman of all the soliciting committees will be asked to submit their reports and to pay over to Mr. Johnson the contributions they have received.

As soon as the expense fund has been collected the various committees having charge of preparations for the festival will begin active work. This is a monumental task but it will be done in such a thorough manner that the first Richmond fall festival will be the most elaborate and successful ever held in this section of the country.

MISTOOK LOCAL BARBER FOR WEALTHY STOCKMAN

Chief Bailey has received a letter from one of the Louisville police officials in regard to Isaac Lucas, the local barber who is held at LaGrange, Ky., under a forged charge. The first information received by Chief Bailey was to the effect that Lucas was charged with passing a forged check on a St. Matthews, Ky., bank. The letter he received today states that the bank victimized by Lucas is located at LaGrange.

In the letter it is stated that on arriving at LaGrange Lucas deposited at the People's bank a check for $100. A day or two later he placed on deposit a check made out to him, calling for $876. The bank officials were of the opinion that Lucas was a wealthy stock dealer, so on the day following his deposit of the second check they unhesitatingly advanced to him on demand the sum of $450. He said that he wanted this money to purchase some horses and cattle.

A short time after Lucas received this money the bank officials became suspicious. Lucas was looked for, but it was learned he had left on a traction car for Louisville. The Louisville authorities were notified by telegraph and Lucas was arrested on his arrival in that city. He was returned to LaGrange, where he is now being held without bond for trial.

It is stated that Lucas has done everything in his power to secure release. The letter states he took advantage of the ignorance of a green jailer who permitted him to write letters and drop them from his window for small boys to mail. One of the lads who secured a letter dropped to him by Lucas copied the address and gave it to the sheriff. The address furnished by the boy is very illegible.

HEAP CRITICISM UPON GOVERNOR FOR HIS ACTION

the importance of the existing emergency, and so the situation stands. Anyhow, there is to be an extra session of the legislature, and while the party will stand by the governor's action and the work of the law making body, the political wisdom of the governor's course is doubted.

What is looked upon as one of the most valuable endorsements that the republican state platform has received was that passed by the Northwest Indiana Methodist Conference in session all this week at Attica. The conference went on record almost unanimously, in favor of local option, with the county as the unit. There was discussion of the liquor planks of the democratic and republican state platforms and the unqualified indorsement was given to the latter.

Those who listened to the speech of William Randolph Hearst at English's opera house on the occasion of the first state convention of the Independence league, were not surprised at his attacks upon Tom Taggart. Hearst literally flayed the French Lick hotel keeper, and he made plain what many have long believed—that Hearst would like above all else to defeat the democratic ticket in Indiana, particularly to insure the downfall of Taggart first, and Bryan second. He has no love for Bryan, as is well known, while for Taggart he possesses a spirit of resentment and revenge. Hearst's party has already pulled away several old line democrats, and whatever strength it shows in Indiana will be obtained chiefly at the expense of the democrats. Bryan knows this, and he would do most anything to pacify Hearst. But Hearst is not the man to be pacified, especially as all his political hopes and ambitions are wrapped up in his Independence league.

While it is always difficult to get definite information on the work of the poll takers, some things will occasionally leak out. Especially is this true of the party which finds surprising things in its favor. The republican managers are elated over the outcome of the first few days work of the poll takers. They profess to have information that leaves no doubt as to the party's vote going where it belongs in November. "Not a thing has developed to discourage us in the least," said one of the party managers, "and as far as the poll has progressed there is ample proof that Bryan will never find the added strength he must have among the republicans of whatever rank. The doubtfuls are surprisingly few."
