Ah doesn't lak to git cheated, boss."—Houston Post.

Tricking the Hens. "Jinamen have a way of tricking hens so that they assist in the hatching of fish. Fish eggs are carefully placed in an eggshell, which is then sealed and placed under an unsuspecting hen. In a few days the sparrow is warmed into life, and the contents of the shell are then cast into a shallow pool, where the sunshine completes the work."

Saw It. "There's been a conflagration here," said Cumso, looking at a tall building. "How do you know?" asked Fangle. "I saw the fire escape."—Kansas City Independent.

GLEN HARSH IS NAMED MANAGER

To Arrange Schedule for High School Football Team.

Roy Horton, coach of the team pointed out the necessity of having more men out for practice. As the result 24 men reported last evening. The majority of the games secured this year will be with Ohio teams.

MEET SUNDAY.

Bowlers To Complete Plans for City League.

A meeting of the bowlers of the city is called for 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the bowling alleys on North Ninth street. At this meeting definite arrangements will be made in regard to the organizing of the city league this fall.

One Mystery Solved.
Boarding house habitués who have repeatedly complained of the dark, cheerless coloring of the wall paper in their rooms may find something to interest them in the information recently elicited by a curious clerk in a department store.

"I should like to know," said the clerk, "in fact, I have long wanted to know—why it is that you ladies who manage boarding houses always choose such dark paper."

"Well," said the prospective purchaser, "if that is the only thing you want to know you might just as well have got wise long ago. We like dark paper because with that on the walls the pictures don't leave such ghastly scars."—New York Press.

Expired.
The defendant, who was held on the charge of keeping a dog without a license, repeatedly tried to interrupt the evidence, but was hushed each time by the court. Finally the clerk turned to him.

"Do you wish the court to understand," he asked, "that you refuse to renew your dog license?"
"Yes, but."
"We want no 'buts.' You must renew your license or be fined. You know it expired last month."
"Yes, but so did the dog."—Harper's Weekly.

Worth While.
Whatever adds in even the smallest way to the world's brightness and cheer is worth while. One who says an encouraging word to a disheartened neighbor, gives a look of love to a lonely one or speaks a sentence which may become strength, guidance and comfort to another does something worth while. It is always worth while to live nobly, victoriously, struggling to do right, showing the world even the smallest fragments of divine beauty.

LODGES TO TAKE PART IN PARADE

Two Orders Signify Intention Of Entering Fantastic Show.

BALL PLANS ARE COMPLETE

MILITARY EVENT AT COLISEUM WILL BE BIGGEST OF KIND EVER HELD IN RICHMOND—OTHER PLANS.

Two local lodges have accepted the invitation to compete in the fantastic parade which will be held the first evening of the fall festival. These two lodges are the Elks and the Eagles. It is expected that three or four other lodges will participate in this Mardi Gras affair.

Arrangements are about complete for the big ball that will be given the last night of the carnival in honor of the officers of the Tenth United States infantry. A professional decorator has been secured and he will make the interior of the coliseum a dream of beauty with palms, cut flowers, flags and bunting. A limited number of invitations to this event will be issued. It is expected that there will be many out of town people attend the ball.

The industrial committee met last evening and appointed sub-committees to canvass various sections of the city for the purpose of encouraging merchants and manufacturers to be represented by floats in the industrial parade.

FIFTY-SIX ATTEND REGIMENT REUNION

Hagerstown Decorated in Honor of 36th Ind. Volunteers.

Hagerstown, Ind., Sept. 17.—The Thirty-Six Indiana Volunteer regiment held its reunion at Hagerstown Wednesday. Fifty-six responded to the roll call. Members of other regiments were present. The business houses were beautifully decorated in the patriotic emblems in honor of the visitors. Dinner and supper was served in the L. M. Pierce room on Main street by the ladies of the Social Union of the M. E. church. The camp fire was held in the I. O. O. F. hall in the evening where a program of speeches and music was rendered. A large audience was in attendance.

AN AMERICAN HERO.

He Used His Own Body to Stop a Leak in a Ferryboat.

One morning in January, when the ice in the Hudson river ran unusually heavy, a Hoboken ferryboat slowly crunched her way through the floating fies until the thickness of the pack choked her paddles in midriver. It was an early morning trip, and the decks were crowded with laboring men and the drivers choked with teams. The women and children standing inside the cabins were a solid mass up to the swinging doors. While she was gathering strength for a further effort an ocean tug sheered to avoid her, veered a point and crashed into her side, cutting her below the water line in a great V shaped gash. A moment more and the disabled boat careened from the shock and fell over on her beam, helpless. Into the V shaped gash the water poured a torrent. It seemed but a question of minutes before she would lunge headlong below the ice.

Within 200 yards of both boats and free of the heavy ice steamed the wrecking tug Reliance of the Off-shore Wrecking company, and on her deck forward stood Captain Scott. When the ocean tug reversed her engines after the collision and backed clear of the shattered wheelhouse of the ferryboat he sprang forward, stooped down, ran his eye along the water line, noted in a flash every shattered plank, climbed into the pilothouse of his own boat and before the astonished pilot could catch his breath pushed the nose of the Reliance along the rail of the ferryboat and dropped upon the latter's deck like a cat.

With a threat to throw overboard any man who stirred he dropped into the engine room, met the engineer halfway up the ladder, compelled him to return, dragged the mattresses from the crew's bunks, stripped off blankets and snatched up clothes, overalls, cotton waste and rags of carpet, cramming them into the great rent left by the tug's cutter.

It was useless. Little by little the water gained, bursting out first below, then on one side, only to be calked out again and only to rush in once more. Captain Scott stood a moment as if undecided, ran his eye searchingly over the engine room, saw that for his needs it was empty, then deliberately tore down the top wall caking he had so carefully built up and before the engineer could protest forced his own body into the gap, with his arm outside level with the drifting ice.

An hour later the disabled ferryboat, with every soul on board, was towed into the Hoboken slip.

When they lifted the captain from the wreck he was unconscious and barely alive. The water had frozen his blood, and the floating ice had torn the flesh from his protruding arm from shoulder to wrist. When the color began to creep back to his cheeks he opened his eyes and said to the doctor who was winding the bandages:

"Was any of them babies hurt?"
A month passed before he regained his strength and another week before the arm had healed so that he could get his coat on. Then he went back to the Reliance.—Everybody's Magazine.

CAMPFIELD IN POLITICAL GAME

Special Session May Be Work Of Hanly to Block Local Man.

HOSPITAL CASE A CAUSE.

SAID GOVERNOR THOUGHT CAMPFIELD WOULD GO BEFORE THE NEXT LEGISLATURE ASKING FOR REIMBURSEMENT

Madison, Ind., Sept. 17.—E. M. Campfield, formerly of Richmond is said to be taking a great interest in the political game now being played in this state. According to reports Campfield's sally into the political arena is a desperate effort on his part to relieve himself of the financial troubles which have beset him for some time past.

Early in March, Governor Hanly forfeited Campfield's contract for building the Southern Indiana insane hospital at Madison. This action followed a bitter controversy between Campfield and his attorney, James P. Goodrich, on one part and the hospital commission, of which the governor is one of the members, on the other.

It is alleged that Campfield owes more than $70,000 for materials furnished and work done on the buildings in question and that forty or more suits have been filed against him. It is also stated that the Peoples Trust company of Winchester, Ind., of which Mr. Goodrich is president, holds a mortgage of $75,000 on Campfield's property, most of which is in Richmond.

It is said that Campfield's political activity is due to the fact that he planned to go before the next legislature and ask reimbursement for the forfeiture of his hospital contract. It is now whispered that Governor Hanly was greatly influenced in calling a special session of the legislature because he feared Campfield might be successful in influencing the next legislature. It is stated that the present legislature at its extra session would not dare make a settlement with Campfield on the eve of an election, so the governor it is alleged, plans to have the matter settled at the extra session and settled in a manner that will not be at all pleasing to Campfield.

PARIS CABBIES.

The War of Words That Comes When They Block Each Other.

There is no more entertaining way to spend an idle hour in Paris than to get into a taxicab and instruct the driver to go along some street where you will be reasonably sure to get into a jam or to bump against another cab. The charm of the experience is, of course, enhanced by your ignorance of what the cabbies say.

Should your driver merely graze the wheels of another cab he will turn on his seat and yell mellifluously at the other driver, who in turn will shout back an assortment of vowels. But the best is a quarrel between two cabbies obstructing each other's way. The conversation, translated as nearly literally as is safe, goes in this wise: "Sacred name! Why do you?" "Holly blue! I do not!" "Stomach on the ground! You have the face of an ox!" "Blue stomach! Are you in chains?" "A bas! Name of a dog!" "Mon Dieu! Name of a pig!" "Wow (or words to that effect)! Name of a name!" "A thousand deaths! Name of a name of a name!"

Now you begin to expect some doings. While you have not fully understood, you are satisfied that nothing but pistols and knives will wipe out the insults.

Unfortunately about this time the jam is untangled and you are allowed to drive away, but the other driver yells after you:

"Aha! You are a little piece of brown soap!"
It seems that this expression is the "fighting name" in Paris. Were it not that your cabbie owes a duty to you and must convey you to your destination you know by his facial expression that he would climb down and get that other cabbie and muss up the city with him.

He contents himself with turning about and making a face in the direction of his enemy and of going through the motion of spitting at him.

Then he says "Voop!" to Le horse, and the way is over.—Chicago Post.

TO AROUSE PUBLIC SCOOL PLANS CALL

Mass Meeting to Be Held Sunday for County Local Option.

SHUMAKER TO SPEAK.

Under the auspices of the Ministerial Association and the Wayne County Civic League, a mass meeting will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the East Main Street Friends' meeting house. This meeting will be addressed by E. S. Shumaker of Indianapolis, president of the State Anti-Saloon League. The object of the meeting is to arouse public interest in the fight for county local option.

A Lesson in Patience.
When the eminent botanist, Professor Altman of Glasgow, was a small boy, he had the present of a silver bit, whereupon his mother was so worried with questions as to what he should do with it that she exclaimed, "Really, you had better go to Thomas Elliot's (a well known pharmacist) and buy sixpence worth of patience."
Down the street marched the lad and demanded of the chemist, "Mr. Elliot, please give me sixpence worth of patience."
Mr. Elliot, taking in the situation at a glance, said: "Certainly, my boy; there's a chair. Just sit down and wait till you get it."

Professor Altman's endeavor to purchase patience was a great success. It made a deep impression on the lad and was one of the factors of his success in life.

Outreasoning Reason.
Little Raymond's mother had told him she should put him to bed if he disobeyed her command in a certain matter. Temptation overcame him, and when his mother proceeded to fulfill her duty sobe of anguish filled the room.

"But, Raymond," said the mother gently, "I told you I should punish you in this way if you disobeyed, and mother must keep her word, you know."

Between muffled sobs Raymond managed to say, "You needn't break your word, mamma, but couldn't you change your mind?"—Woman's Home Companion.

The Tactful Doctor.
A physician in a small town in northern Michigan got himself into a serious predicament by his inability to remember names and people. One day while making out a patient's receipt his visitor's name escaped him. Not wishing to appear so forgetful and thinking to get a clue, he asked her whether she spelled her name with an "e" or "i." The lady smilingly replied, "Why, doctor, my name is Hill."—Success Magazine.

FOR GREAT AMOUNT

For This Reason the School Board Refuses to Accept Them.

REVISION IS NECESSARY.

BOARD HOPES TO HAVE EVERYTHING READY FOR THE CALL FOR BIDS ON NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING BY OCTOBER 1.

At a meeting of Richmond school board which was held last evening at the offices in the Garfield school building, the plans for the new high school building that have been completed by Hasecoeter and Kaufman were presented. The plans call for a building between $100,000 and $120,000. This was considered too much by the school board. A number of changes were made but no definite decision was arrived at. A number of minor matters were settled by the board and the meeting adjourned. The board hopes to have the specifications and the plans completed by the last of this month so that the contract will be open for bids by the first of October.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR SESSION

man, are two more democratic "temperance" members—Moss and Bingham.

Passage Next Week.
Following its reference to the committee, it is expected to have the bill reported back by Monday for second reading. If it gets over the shoals then, its third and final reading—and soon afterward. It is believed the senate bill will have the more rapid sailing, since opposition to it is apt to be perfunctory and that the name under which the hoped-for local option law will be known will be that of a senator, not a representative.

Branch Is Safe.
Today there is less talk of attempting to depose Speaker Branch. The latter only smiles when asked about it and his friends say there is no basis for an actual effort to shake him from the important place to which he was boosted at Hanly's dictation at the last regular session. In the same manner, talk of insisting upon the reorganization of the legislature in all departments has been dissipated.

Want Repeal of Law.
Among the democrats a question being agitated almost as much as that of standing pat on the temperance issue, is that of the repeal of the metropolitan police law. The democrats are prepared to make a great fight over this and today are seeking to learn what republican support they can obtain on the proposition. It is remembered that they had almost, if not quite, enough to pass the repealing law over the governor's veto two years ago. It is even hoped to have a republican representative introduce this bill. Carroll K. McCullough, representative from Madison county, who led the fight for the bill on the other occasion will do so again. He says he has an abundance of republican support.

McCullough declared his intention, also, to attempt to obtain the repeal of the cities and towns act. The effort of himself and others to accomplish this at the regular session failed, but only after one of the biggest fights the session knew. As tending to defeat any such scheme, there is a strong feeling on the part of most members, readily expressed, that the thing to do is to hurry through the imperative business of the special session and adjourn. Senator Roscoe E. Kirkman, of Richmond, finds many of his way of thinking, viz: that the special appropriations act, the night rider question and the county local option question are the only things that should be given consideration.

Elections Discussed.
The special elections being held today to fill the vacancies in the house and senate were the subject of considerable discussion. Representative Fitch, from Muncie, arrived late, having been detained helping Dr. Hugh A. Cowing in his effort to defeat his democratic opponent, Williamson, for the seat of representative Carmichael, resigned. The fight is one of the hottest Delaware county has known, due to the remarkable personal popularity of the democratic candidate and the solid backing he has received from the liberal element.

It had been expected that a successor to Jesse McKinney, of Jay county, might need to be elected, but McKinney has wired that he is on his way home from Portland, Oreg., and will help swell the minority.

Candidates Busy.
While things are getting their liveliest here, the candidates gubernatorial are hustling here and there over the state, dropping speeches as they go. Watson seems to find his most available material in the things that Marshall says, the latter finding some difficulty in avoiding the wrong thing to say. Watson is talking to the railroad men at Peru today, while his opponent, who spoke last night at Mt. Vernon, remains near the Ohio river.

Lewis Butts in Game.
If the democratic national committee had deliberately sought humorous comment it could not have done better than it has in its latest announcement. Col. James Hamilton Lewis whose wonderful pink whiskers are known the country over, is to campaign with John W. Kern, whose whiskers are just beginning to achieve their due made of fame.
