

GERMAN CHAMPION DEFEATS PRINDLE

Carl Busch Wins Wrestling
Match from Indianapolis
Lad Last Night.

SPORTS WITH FAVOR.

TERRIBLE TURK WRESTLES WIN-NER NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT AND LARGE CROWD IS EXPECTED—
MATCH INTERESTING.

After a beautiful exhibition of wrestling, witnessed at the coliseum last evening by a wildly enthusiastic crowd of men, women and children, numbering between 700 and 800, Carl Busch in the third bout put his adversary, Frank Prindle to the mat with a full Nelson hold after six minutes of most strenuous work. This was the second fall of the evening to the credit of Busch and Referee Kenneth Craig declared the German champion the winner.

The result of the match was not entirely satisfactory to the crowd which favored Prindle, the burly American athlete. However no one had a complaint to register as Busch was clearly entitled to the victory, proving the craftier and more experienced of the two men.

The sport was fast and furious, especially in the second bout when Prindle, by most desperate work mastered the German, stretching him prone on his back. Throughout this bout the crowd stood up and yelled like a crowd of college football rooters.

In the first bout Prindle had Busch in several tight places and the crowd implored him for a fall. Finally Prindle got a vicious scissors hold on the German and appeared to have a cinch for a fall, but the crafty Busch as Prindle reversed him, head downward, suddenly writhed out of the hold like an eel and the crowd reluctantly applauded him for his clever work. After breaking this hold the fortune of battle changed for the German and after the men had been on the mat for twenty-three and a half minutes, Busch got the Indianapolis boy in a full Nelson and the "fire was out."

In the second bout Prindle fought desperately, throwing the German about like a chip on an angry sea. After eighteen minutes Prindle mastered Busch and with a half Nelson forced him to the mat for the first time. In the third bout Prindle went in third but the German was still full of ginger and disposed of the Indianapolis lad in six minutes, with a full Nelson hold.

Notes of the Match.
All the Turk will meet Busch at the coliseum next Friday. The Turk will outwrestle the German by twenty pounds and so as to make the match even, it has been agreed to wrestle mixed style. That is both Graeco-Roman, Catch-as-catch-can. The Turk growled a little over the Graeco-Roman style, saying it was out of date, but agreed to meet Busch in this manner.

Just before the first bout a short stocky looking lad jumped into the ring and offered to take on anybody his weight. He stated that he was Harry Wylie, feather weight champion of Philadelphia.

All the Turk, after the second bout climbed into the ring and was introduced to the crowd by M. Carlson, the promoter. All offered to wrestle both Busch and Prindle next Friday evening.

Prindle, after his defeat, motioned to the crowd for silence. When he gained its attention he stated that he was out of condition and had only been able to get in four days training. "I fought the best I could under such conditions," he said. The crowd cheered him. Busch in broken English stated that he had beaten Prindle fair and square and that Prindle's statement was a baby's act. The crowd listened to the German impatiently.

Referee Craig, who is a local newspaper man, officiated in a most satisfactory manner. He only faux pas was during the second bout when he leaned on a rope, breaking down a corner post and precipitating himself into the lap of a rabid Prindle supporter.

The crowd that witnessed the match was a large one considering the fact that the match was the introduction of wrestling into the city and but little was known of the sport. However, the game proved decidedly popular and next Friday night the fans will be out in force.

Prindle weighed in last night at about 184 pounds. Busch was nine pounds shy of this mark but he made up for this handicap in weight by superior cunning and ability.

Two of the most beautiful of the many fall festival poster designs that are on display about the city, are shown at the Eggenmeyer grocery. They are the work of Mrs. Elmer Eggenmeyer, formerly Miss Maud Kaufman. The designs are life size and remarkably appropriate for the occasion and season. They are commented upon favorably by all, who see them.

GREAT WRESTLER CHALLENGED THE WINNER OF LAST NIGHT'S MATCH.

"GREEK DEMON" DEMETREL.

Demetrel is one of the greatest wrestlers in the world. He now holds the championship belt of England. Demetrel has issued a challenge to Busch, the winner of last night's match against Prindle, which was pulled off at the Coliseum. It is not known whether the challenge will be accepted or not.

Affairs of the Sporting World

(By Tort.)
Down the stretch, neck and neck, come the three National League leaders, and the four American League leaders. Just six points separate Pittsburgh and New York, with the Cubs one point behind the Giants. Fourteen points separate Cleveland and St. Louis. The Naps lead the Tigers by two points with the White Sox four points back of the Tigers.

When it was reported that Cincinnati had twice defeated New York yesterday, it was thought some telegraph operator was kidding the community. Just think of the humble Reds standing up and smiting the mighty Giants twice in the same place. Such a business.

Eddie Sugraver was the boy hero of Detroit yesterday. The former Indianapolis star twice spanked Philadelphia. Owie Bush played a prominent part in these doings.

Gene Moore, the former star twirler of the local league club, will probably be sold to a Southern league team. Two clubs in that circuit are after the big fellow. Moore is now the property of South Bend.

The sporting world has been shocked by the sudden death of Frank DeHaas Robinson, owner of the St. Louis Nationals. Mr. Robinson expired at his home in Cleveland last night. Besides being interested in baseball, he was a street car promoter and regarded as a wealthy man.

Washington is growing very unpopular with the local fans, who are pulling for Cleveland to win the American league pennant. Washington again defeated the Naps yesterday and brought the Tigers within hailing distance of them.

Rube Marquard and Bull Durham had a somewhat unfortunate debut in National league society. The Reds jumped upon Rube and pounded him into a hash, then Durham was sent in to rescue his old pal. Mr. Durham received the same treatment. Indianapolis is now in tears.

The enthusiasm displayed at the wrestling match last evening, shows that old Dame Richmond still has a little sporting blood flowing in her veins.

BIG RALLY SUNDAY
Majority of Sunday Schools in The City Will Observe The Occasion.
TO AID STATE ASSOCIATION
Tomorrow will be rally day for the majority of the Sunday schools in Wayne county and in Richmond. This is one of the big days in the Sunday school history each year. It is at this time that a special collection is taken up and is given to the State Sunday School Association to carry on the religious work within the state, and to pay the expenses of the association. The work in the state is the best this year that it has been for some time. The St. Paul's Lutheran church has arranged a special program. The Sunday school will commence promptly at 8:45 o'clock. There will be a special musical program given by the orchestra. Pres. Robert L. Kelly will speak during the Sunday school hours. Sunday there will be a temperance rally at the Whitewater Friends church, North Tenth and G streets. It will continue during all services of the day. The following addresses will be delivered:
"Delivered from Temptation"—Susan Stegall.
"The Bible Versus the Liquor Traffic"—Josephine Burson.
"Clothing of the Knights of Manhood to the Temperance Fight"—Class No. 8.
"How the Saloon Helps"—The Rev. Candier.
"Different Ways of Fighting the Liquor Traffic"—Mattie Utter.
"Jonathan Rigdon's Monument"—Smith Crampton.
"Caricatures"—Gertrude Thomas.
"Temperance in Its Broadest View"—Isaiah Holdcroft.
There will be a Sunday school rally at the First English Lutheran church tomorrow morning. An address will be made by Prof. C. W. Knouff, principal of the high school. A large orchestra will furnish music and the choir will be assisted by Mrs. Fred Bartel and Mrs. F. W. Krueger.

IOWA IS SAFE FOR WM. H. TAFT

His Visit to State Friday Does Much to Pacify Warring Factions.

FEALTY IS PLEDGED.

RESIDENTS OF THAT STATE NOW
SPECULATING ON THE MAJOR-ITY OF TAFT OVER THE NE-BRASKAN.

Des Moines Iowa, Sept. 26.—With conditions continuing as they are Iowa today it is certain to cast its electoral vote for William H. Taft, who was in the state yesterday. The only doubt that exists is as to the majority that he will secure over William Jennings Bryan.

Under the exaggerating environments of the campaign through the state Friday by the republican nominee, open claims were made that the difference between them would be 100,000 votes. Down on the ground and away from the flag-beleeked rostrums the prognosticators admitted that 50,000 would be nearer the mark.

No serious claim has been made by the democrats that the state was debatable. Their hopes have rather been centered upon the senatorial seat made vacant by the death of the late William B. Allison. For this honorably worn toga there is a bitter contest within the republican party between Governor A. B. Cummins and former Congressman John M. Lacey, of Oskaloosa, the candidates, respectively, of the progressive and stand-pat factions.

A month ago the democrats believed that because of this internecine conflict there was a possibility of carrying the legislature and electing their candidate, Claude Porter, who is described offhand as a republican democrat, as against Governor Cummins, who is set down by his enemies as a democrat republican. Through a series of events since that time this hope has been dashed and the indications are that Allison's successor will be a republican with the chances greatly favoring Cummins.

When he entered the state at Clinton, Judge Taft found himself favored by a condition almost precisely similar to that encountered in Wisconsin. Both factions vied to render his welcome cordial. Senator Robert M. La Follette's place in the situation was taken by Governor Cummins who met him on his arrival and escorted him across the state to the capital, where last night he presided at a great meeting in the auditorium, and introduced him to the audience.

In the conferences held in the private car of the presidential nominee in the trip across the state, the representatives of both sides pledged their fealty to the national ticket, much to the comfort of that individual, who said in return that he could now prophesy the election of a United States Senator to succeed Allison, although he discreetly refrained from naming the probable victor.

No Competition.

There's not a manufactured article in existence that is without competition—except one—Easy Task soap. It is white and pure and sweet and makes everything it touches the same. Use it for woodwork, windows, kitchen or laundry and you'll never use any other. Try two five cent cakes; if you're dissatisfied the Hewitt Bros. Soap Co., Dayton, O., will return your money.

amination of the affairs of the plant. He promises to put an expert accountant to work on the books immediately, claiming he can show the plant is not insolvent.

Mr. Johnson said: "John F. Wild certainly is an interested party. He holds preferred stock and if it turns out the plant is insolvent he loses all of his investment. He knew nothing of the filling of the suit and was given no chance. He maintains the appointment was made by persons not wholly competent. He denies the validity of the large claim of the plaintiff. Wild wants to be allowed to intervene, and if his request is granted will present the claims of other owners of preferred stock. Shiveley & Shiveley are warm personal and social friends of the plaintiff and we ask for new attorneys. Ray K. Shiveley is a stockholder and officer of the company. This firm has brought suit for Stimson, the legality of whose claim is denied. In the ex parte proceedings he appears as attorney for the corporation and when the receiver was appointed the same attorneys became his representatives. It is not a question of the honesty of these gentlemen, but we ask they be removed to put them above suspicion. It is a question of justice. I believe an examination will show other conflicts. Here is one man claiming $80,000 out of a total indebtedness of $140,000. It looks to me like it is the place of the court to explain matters to these attorneys and suggest the appointment of attorneys not interested personally. This factory is not to be moved to Cincinnati, but the air brakes are to be made here and the company is to receive a profit of $5 on each one above the cost of its manufacture."

Charles E. and Ray K. Shiveley, who compose the firm of Shiveley & Shiveley, undertook to refute the allegations of Mr. Johnson. Charles E. Shiveley spoke of the intervening petition as a remarkable document. He said there had been no ex parte but only adverse proceedings in connection with the case. He said the law does not require that stockholders be notified in receivership proceedings. He maintained the affairs of the company are in the hands of the court. He said to attack the machinery at the plant is cheap and of inferior quality. He said the plant could not have run for the past two years had not Stimson fed it money. He said Wild was offered 25 cents on the dollar for his stock and refused.

Of these gods Brahma is looked upon as being the highest, but Vishnu is the most beloved god, while Siva, on account of the hurt he is supposed to be capable of and inclined to, is the one who holds the largest share of the people's attention.

SIXTY-THIRD YEAR BEGINS MONDAY

Earlham College to Open With Encouraging Prospects.

MANY CHANGES ARE MADE.

GIRL'S DORMITORY IMPROVED—
LIBRARY TRANSFERRED—SEV-ERAL NEW FACES IN THE FAC-ULTY.

With the prospect of the largest enrollment in its history and with several new faculty members, Earlham college will start on its sixty-third school year next Monday morning. The institution since last year has been greatly improved and it is now one of the best equipped colleges of its size in the country.

There will be an unprecedented number of Richmond young people attend the college this year. This fact was a great and pleasing surprise to President Robert L. Kelly.

Almost all the rooms in both dormitories have been engaged and the few which have not yet been spoken for will be assigned to the new students when they report Monday and Tuesday.

Many changes have been made in the old dormitory for the convenience of the young women who room there. The principal changes have been the establishment of a modern heating plant and the installation of electric lighting. These changes were made during the past summer.

The transfer of the library from its old quarters in Lindley hall to the new Carnegie library building, has been of much benefit to the college. The old library room, which was quite a large one, has been divided into two rooms which will be used for recitation and study purposes. These two rooms are each large enough to accommodate the largest class.

Several of the young men students, interested in athletics, formed the advance guard of the student body, arriving at the college today for the purpose of indulging in football practice.

The new instructors are all on the ground ready for the new term's work. Miss Anna M. Moore, the daughter of the late ex-president of the college, Joseph W. Moore, who was an instructor in the Westwood Boarding School in Philadelphia last year, will take charge of part of Prof. Wm. N. Trueblood's work in the English department.

Miss Moore is quite capable of handling the English classes and will be of great assistance to the head of this department.

Miss Helen Brown Keyes, a graduate of Vassar, will take charge of the French and German classes, which Miss Sarah Hill has had for the past four years. Miss Keyes has an excellent command of both the French and German languages, speaking both fluently.

Ben H. Grave, Earlham's former star all around athlete, will have entire charge of the laboratory and will deliver some lectures. Prof. Dennis will meet his classes as usual this fall, but will be absent from the college this winter. Mr. Grave will have full charge at this time and will meet all of the biological classes.

The new governess to succeed Miss Clara Brown is Miss Florence N. Hanson of Atlanta, Ga. Miss Hanson held the position of general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., of the state of Georgia and in this capacity showed her ability to handle girls. She will be assisted materially by the help of Miss Grace Trimble of the Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio, who will hold the position of parlor matron, a new place in the faculty of the college.

Monday, Professor Hirsch of Chicago university, will arrive to take charge of the classes in history, during the illness of Prof. Cyrus W. Hodgkin. Monday and Tuesday will be given over entirely to registration. School commences in earnest Wednesday morning.

FORAKER STRIKES BACK AT PRESIDENT AND WM. H. TAFT

can be produced supporting any such charge that can not be as fully and satisfactorily explained as has been explained the letter about the Jones bill and the proposed purchase of the Ohio State Journal.

"This brings me to Mr. Taft's letter, and what the president has said in his comments on the same.

"If the president in publishing the letter had not withheld the name of the man to whom it was written it might have been easier for me to know that I had no responsibility for that man's action in writing to him. The man himself would have refuted the impression the president apparently seeks to create, that he wrote either at my instance or in my interest. I have not at any time, or in any way, sought Mr. Taft's help for reelection to the senate."

Defends Stand on Rate Bill.
"As to the rate bill, Mr. Taft says of me in his letter enumerating the reasons why he could not accept an endorsement for the presidency if coupled with an endorsement of me for senator:

"He has opposed the vital policies and principles of the administration," and adds as another reason that I would not vote for the rate bill, although requested to do so by the Ohio legislature.

"Mr. Taft knew I had never opposed the policy of supervising and regulating interstate carriers and interstate commerce. He knew that my opposition to the rate bill was not because I was opposed to the general policy of regulation and supervision, but only to some features of the methods it was proposed by that measure to employ. This bill contained some provisions on account of which I disliked to vote against, and so stated in the senate, but it contained others that seemed to me so vicious that I could not doubt that it will bring upon us panic, idleness, suffering, and distress. Already the commodities clause has been held to be unconstitutional by one of the most respectable courts in the country. It is commonly acknowledged that it will be an absolute disaster to the whole country if the Supreme court should reverse this decision."

Mr. Foraker quotes many other points in which he saw faults in the bill apparently large enough to guarantee his opposition even in spite of the wishes of Ohio leaders.

Says Taft Indorsed "Oil Man."

Mr. Foraker then turns to Mr. Taft's opposition to the Standard Oil people. He says that the latter now wants cast from public life all who have had the slightest relations with the great trusts. He says that a month ago, however, Mr. Taft was the guest of C. T. Lewis, attorney for the Standard Oil, and that he traveled on the great lakes with Mr. Richardson, a prominent magnate of the glass trust, and that he rode in the private car of one of the officers of the company of which Doyle & Lewis were attorneys.

Mr. Foraker then says: "Three years ago the president had occasion to appoint a United States district judge for the northern district of Ohio, and Mr. Taft, knowing the abilities and high character of John H. Doyle of this Standard Oil firm of Doyle & Lewis, did not hesitate to recommend him to the president in strong language for appointment to that judgeship."

"The Standard Oil relation to Judge Doyle, then well known to Mr. Taft, did not prevent him from recognizing his high character and general fitness for such a sacred trust, and I happen to know, as did Mr. Justice Moody, who was then attorney general, that the president, on the recommendation of Judge Taft, was intending to appoint Judge Doyle, and would have

Minister and Master.
J. A. SPEKENHIER, P. M.

Formerly the term "master" was a markedly respectful form of address. Now in the form "mister" it has become common property, while "master" itself has become confined to boys. However, the fall of "master" has not been so great as is that of the French "monsieur." At one time even a saint was spoken of as "Monsieur St. Jean." Under the early Valois the king was "monsieur" in public documents, and later it became the title of the king's younger brother. Nowadays "M." is merely on a level with "Mr."
