Signed, T. P. BUTLER, Supt. Horse Show.
Her Name.
One needs patience to succeed as a teacher of the young, as this brief dialogue in one of our elementary schools may show:
Scholar—I've left home now, ma'am. I'm living with my auntie.
Teacher—What's her name?
Scholar—She's called after me—Fanny.
Teacher—But what's her other name?
Scholar—She has no other.
Teacher—But what does the woman next door call her?
Scholar—She doesn't speak to the woman next door.—Exchange.

SKINNIMAN—Your dog bit me. Do you think he's mad? Stouton—No, hardly mad, but I expect he was awfully disappointed.—Illustrated Bits.

Ugliness of French Villas.
"Doing France in my motor," said an architect, "I was struck with the ugliness of the French villa. The taste of France is exquisite—it leads the world—in furniture, tapestries, jewelry, women's dress, painting, sculpture, and so on. Why does it fall in the villa?"
"The reason, Rodin told me, is that every Frenchman who erects a villa wants it to resemble as nearly as his purse will allow a chateau; hence all French villas are high, narrow, tawdry affairs, with a lot of mansard roof and a good deal of tower. And the butcher or grocer who serves the occupant of the typical villa never fails to say three or four times in the course of every sale:
"The chops will be sent to the chateau," or "The chateau should easily fetch this season $25 a month," or "Last night's wind, I hope, did not blow down the chateau."

"That pleases the occupant of the typical villa profoundly. He knows it is a cheap and ugly villa, he knows he is only a half-dresser or a tailor, but everybody speaks of him as living in a chateau. Quel bonheur! What a happiness!"

Kodol For Indigestion.
Relieves sour stomach, palpitation of the heart. Digests what you eat.

UNVEILING OCT. 27
Harrison Monument Will Be Disclosed to Public on That Date.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE
Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 3.—Vice President Charles Warren Fairbanks and John L. Griffiths are to be the principal speakers at the Harrison monument unveiling to be held Tuesday, October 27, on the Federal building square, the announcement having been made public by the executive committee of the Harrison Monument Commission which met in the office of Attorneys Smith, Duncan, Hornbrook & Smith, General John W. Noble of St. Louis, who was secretary of the interior under President Harrison, also will make a speech. A prayer will be offered by the Rev. M. L. Haines of the First Presbyterian church, which church was attended by General Harrison during the pastorate of the Rev. Mr. Haines.
Sitting with the committee was Frederick D. Owens, who is to have charge of the details of the unveiling. Mr. Owen is chairman of the Civic Improvement Association of Washington, D. C., from which point he arrived yesterday afternoon. His position is one which practically places him in charge of all such ceremonies in the national capital. He officiated at the unveiling of the McKinley monument in Canton, O.
Harry J. Mulligan, for the invitation committee, reported his intention to send invitations to President Roosevelt and the members of his cabinet, to the judges of the supreme court, to Governor Hanly and the state officials, the judges of the higher courts and the county courts. Through Adjutant General Ora Perry invitations will be extended to the surviving members of the Seventieth Indiana, General Harrison's regiment.
The unveiling ceremonies will be preceded by a parade, in which the Tenth Infantry from Fort Harrison, U. S. Army regulars, and the Second regiment, Indiana National Guard will take part. Invitations have been extended to all G. A. R. posts of the city, as well as a number out in the state. A number of Knights of Pythias Uniform Rank companies are expected. The music for the marching will be furnished by the Tenth regiment band and the Second regiment I. N. G. band. One of the local bands will be secured in addition for the unveiling ceremonies.

Depth of Cyclones.
From the study of clouds an official of the United States weather bureau concludes that ordinary cyclones which traverse our country from west to east are not more than two or three miles in depth, although their diameter is many hundreds of miles. In other words, their motion does not affect the upper regions of the atmosphere. In the case of hurricanes this authority finds that the depth is greater, amounting to as much as five or six miles. But higher currents blow directly across the cyclonic and anticyclonic areas which produce storms and fair weather at the surface of the earth.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Easy Money.
Theodore Hook was one of the Garlick club's most famous members. He generally arrived at the club late in the afternoon and "never went home till morning." He had been told by the doctors, he said, to avoid the night air. A member of the club in Hook's time predicted the advent of the millennium at the end of three years. "All right," cried Hook. "Give me a five pound note now, and I will repay you £50 at the millennium."

Dangerous.
Giles—How's your son gettin' on up in Lunnon? Garg—Very well. He tells me he's got a job partly behind the counter and partly out o' doors. Giles—And what 'appens when the door slams?—London Telegraph.

Makes Cowards of Us All.
There is nothing from which even the bravest man shrinks so pitifully as the lancet of the surgeon, even when it is wielded by the most skillful of his craft.—London Sketch.

One Was Enough.
"Dad," said the white faced lad, "how many cigars does it take to hurt a boy?"
"One."
"That's the number," said dad, and, taking down the strap from behind the door, he soon convinced the boy that he was right.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Common.
"They are quite ordinary people, aren't they?"
"Yes—keep their engagements, eat plain food, pay their bills and all that sort of thing."—Life.

One of Life's Bright Spots.
If there is anything that suggests heavenly music it is when in fytine the baldheaded man, after slapping flies for an hour, suddenly conceives the brilliant idea of strapping a sheet of "tinglefoor" by paper over his brain dome, with the business side out, and listening to the death song of his tormentors as they run the gamut, cut the chromatic scale, then die off to faint, distant whispering and finally succumb to the fate they so richly deserve. There are some bright spots in life, after all, and this is one of them.—Tombstone Epitaph.

MRS. ANDREW JOHNSON.
The Life in Washington Was Not a Happy Time For Her.

Mrs. Johnson was so much of an invalid that outside of intimate family friends very few knew her. She appeared only twice in public during her husband's administration. Still, her influence was a strong one, and it was exerted in the direction of toleration and gentleness. A slight movement of her hands, a touch on her husband's arm, a "Now, Andrew," made it easy to see that the woman who had helped him through his struggling youth and given her health to his service, who had taught him to write and had read to him through long winter evenings in the little tailor shop that his active mind might be fed while he was practicing his trade still held her place in his life. She was a sweet faced woman who showed traces of beauty through the sharpened lines caused by the old fashioned consumption which was wearing her out. Her face was not unlike that of the late Mrs. McKinley. The death of her eldest son was a blow from which she never fully recovered. The life in Washington was not a happy time for her. She told me herself that she was far more content when her husband was an indigent young tailor.—William H. Crook in Century.

Nubar Pasha and the Pipes.
Soon after the occupation of Cairo by the British troops the late Nubar Pasha took a prodigious fancy to the music of the Black Watch and had the idea of having a servant taught the use of the bagpipes. Nubar dispatched a French friend, who spoke English very well, to interview a piper on the subject.
Donald replied: "Weel, he micht learn or he micht no'. Bit, let me tell ye, it needs wind an' mickle strength tae fill the bags o' the pipes an' keep blawin'. Sae if yin o' the Egyptian chaps took the job on he'd need tae be handaged a' ow're like yin o' the auld mummies, or maybe he'd burst himself."
This conversation was reported to Nubar, who took the piper's remarks seriously. So he gave up the idea of having a skirler attached to his household, as the use of the bagpipes was attended with the prospect of such danger to the performer.—Westminster Gazette.

Time to Wake.
Judge Wheaton A. Gray was once harangue by the prosecuting counsel on a warm day at the end of a long harangue by the prosecuting counsel he noticed one of the jurymen asleep. As soon as the argument was completed the judge addressed the jury in this peculiar manner: "Gentlemen of the jury, the prosecuting attorney has completed his argument. Wake up and listen to the instructions of the court."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Easy Money.
Theodore Hook was one of the Garlick club's most famous members. He generally arrived at the club late in the afternoon and "never went home till morning." He had been told by the doctors, he said, to avoid the night air. A member of the club in Hook's time predicted the advent of the millennium at the end of three years. "All right," cried Hook. "Give me a five pound note now, and I will repay you £50 at the millennium."

Dangerous.
Giles—How's your son gettin' on up in Lunnon? Garg—Very well. He tells me he's got a job partly behind the counter and partly out o' doors. Giles—And what 'appens when the door slams?—London Telegraph.

Makes Cowards of Us All.
There is nothing from which even the bravest man shrinks so pitifully as the lancet of the surgeon, even when it is wielded by the most skillful of his craft.—London Sketch.

One Was Enough.
"Dad," said the white faced lad, "how many cigars does it take to hurt a boy?"
"One."
"That's the number," said dad, and, taking down the strap from behind the door, he soon convinced the boy that he was right.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Common.
"They are quite ordinary people, aren't they?"
"Yes—keep their engagements, eat plain food, pay their bills and all that sort of thing."—Life.

INSIDE A SUBMARINE

You Are Greeted by a Deafening, Ear Splitting Racket.

WORSE THAN A BOILER SHOP.

To Make Yourself Heard at All You Must Shout into the Ear of a Companion—The Economy of Space and the Simplicity of Arrangements.

Climbing down ten rungs of an iron ladder into the interior of a submarine is like going into a boiler shop where there is one continuous, deafening, ear splitting racket like a dozen trip hammers chattering a tattoo amid a grind and rumble and thump of machinery as if especially designed to burst your eardrums.<
