

BREWERS SEEK AID OUTSIDE OF STATE

Indiana Men Go to Cincinnati,
Telling Their Tale
Of Woe.

LIQUOR FORCES DIVIDED.

WHISKY MEN SAY BREWERS
HAVE BROUGHT ON THE SITUATION
IN INDIANA AND REFUSE TO AID THE DEMOCRATS.

Indianapolis, Oct. 5.—Richard Lieber, John Pohlman and P. J. McCarty, three Indianapolis wholesale liquor dealers, have returned from Cincinnati where they went to solicit advice and aid from Cincinnati liquor dealers in the fight which the liquor interests are making in Indiana. Mr. Lieber said last night that not all of the Cincinnati wholesalers and manufacturers are interested in the Indiana situation, as not all of them deal with Indiana concerns. However, the committee was successful in getting data and advice from the Cincinnati men for use in fighting local option elections in this state. The Cincinnati dealers will assist the Indiana men to a certain extent in fighting the movement here.

Along with the action of this committee in going to Cincinnati comes the story that the whisky interests, which these men represent, have withdrawn from the fight that the liquor interests of Indiana in general have been making for the election of the democratic state ticket. Even Crawford Fairbanks, so the story goes, is advocating that the liquor interests conserve their efforts now toward preparing for the county local option elections, which they know are coming.

Albert Lieber, president of the Indianapolis Brewing company, is said to be the only leader who wishes to continue the fight up to the November election in the hope of electing twelve senators and enough members of the house to bring about the repeal of the county local option bill at the next regular session.

Richard Lieber admitted last night that the whisky men and the brewers are at daggers' points. The whisky men blame the brewers for their troubles and will line up with them to fight the common enemy—the temperance forces—only where mutual interests are involved.

Have Ceased Contributions.

Whisky men have ceased making contributions to the democratic campaign fund and have turned their attention to the work of organizing to win, if possible, county local option elections which they expect to come during the latter part of the winter.

The wholesale liquor dealers will begin within the next few days a careful investigation of their outstanding accounts, the purpose being to rate all of their customers and to make all collections possible of outstanding accounts now so as to prevent loss in case the temperance people should carry the county local option elections. The position of the wholesale liquor interests in Indiana now is entirely that of the defensive—defensive not only against the temperance forces, but defensive against the customers who owe them money.

There are some 300 manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers, in the Queen City, and a majority of these do considerable business with the Indiana retailers. While in Cincinnati the Indianapolis men conferred not only with a large number of the liquor men themselves, but with the officers of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association. The conference with the latter was held on the floor of the Cincinnati Stock Exchange, where the Indianapolis men explained fully the situation in this state.

That the national organization will assist in fighting local option elections in Indiana is the word that comes from Cincinnati. Mr. Lieber said last night that the Kentucky distillers also would assist the Indiana men in carrying counties, if possible, at the local option elections.

The work of the Model License League, the national organization of the liquor interests for fighting prohibition, came up for quite a discussion at the Cincinnati conference and it developed that there is a division among the liquor men as to whether the league is really bringing results. Methods employed by the license league in the Ohio local option elections recently were condemned in some instances by the Cincinnati dealers.

Say Situation Is Bad.

The Indianapolis men while in Cincinnati admitted to the Cincinnati dealers that the situation in Indiana is very bad.

"Many of the Cincinnati whisky men," said Richard Lieber last night,

"have large interests in Indiana and the situation in this state affects them as much as it does us. The wholesale whisky dealers everywhere have tried to keep out of trouble as much as possible. Of course we want the aid of the Cincinnati dealers when it comes to local option elections, as the questions involved here will affect them as much as they do the Indiana dealers. Many of the Cincinnati men told us, however, that they were not interested in the Indiana fight. The main thing with us now is the protection of our accounts and we conferred with the Cincinnati men about the preservation of credits as much as we did anything else."

E. W. McGinnis, secretary of the Central Labor Union of this city, said last night that he had not yet received a letter from the Louisville Typographical union, in which attention is called to a working agreement between organized labor and the liquor interests. "I have received no such letter," said Mr. McGinnis.

DEE-LIGHT CERTAIN

Congressman Nick Longworth
Glad He Made Illinois
Speech.

CLIPPINGS TO PRESIDENT.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 5.—Congressman "Nick" Longworth, who, with James S. Sherman, spent a great deal of his time Sunday reading from the various newspapers of the country references to his speech at Rock Island, Ill., Friday, in which he declared Taft ought to be elected president for four years and then re-elected for another four years and at the end of that time give way to Roosevelt for two more terms.

Congressman Longworth said he made the statement in all seriousness and he was delighted that most of the papers "played up" the story on their first page.

Congressman Longworth cut out all dispatches on the Rock Island address he could find and especially those that had been run on the first page of the various papers and said he would send them to Mr. Roosevelt.

The congressman smiled, and as he tucked the clippings into his vest pocket replied:

"There is another one for Teddy." I will have a raft of them to send him and I feel certain he will be delighted."

IS STILL HELD.

Mrs. Gehring at Home of Friendless Women.

Although it was expected she would be released without further investigation or prosecution, Mrs. John Gehring remains at the jail at the Home for Friendless Women. The woman has been held for the theft of two chickens. It was understood she would be released but was still held this morning.

Removes Poison Germs of Catarrh and Rheumatism From the Blood.

For catarrh of the head use a teaspoonful of salt and a quarter teaspoonful of borax dissolved in a pint of warm water. Snuff this mixture through the nostrils twice daily and immediate relief is experienced. To cure, a constitutional blood remedy must be used. Catarrh and rheumatism are both due to accumulated poisons in the system. These poisons ought to be eliminated through the skin, the bowels and the urinary tract. The following simple home mixture warrants the utmost faith as it effectually acts on the kidneys, the bowels and the skin, causing them to resume their functions quickly and properly.

You can mix it at home or have any honest druggist do so. One-half ounce of fluid extract Buchu, one ounce compound fluid Balmwort, and two ounces syrup Sarsaparilla compound. Mix, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at retiring. Many cases of catarrh, rheumatism and kidney trouble have already benefited by this treatment and this is the season when nearly every one needs it.

ROOSEVELT TO HEAD HOME-COMING FETE

American Jackies Now on Trip
Around World Arrive in February.

PRESIDENT ENTHUSIASTIC.

WISHES TO MAKE SAILORS FEEL AMERICANS APPRECIATE THEIR EFFORTS—WASHINGTON GOS-SIP OF INTEREST.

Washington, Oct. 5.—When Admiral Sperry's fleet, now at Manila, reaches Hampton Roads, having completed its voyage around the world, there is going to be the greatest demonstration in the history of the American navy. Theodore Roosevelt will be master of ceremonies, and as the fleet is not due in Hampton Roads until February 22, this probably will be his last public appearance as president except at the inauguration of his successor.

The plan to make the home-coming of the fleet a notable one originated with the president, and he has his heart set on making it a success. He will invite his successor, whether Taft or Bryan, to be his guest on the occasion, and he will issue orders which will cause to assemble in Hampton Roads every naval vessel on the Atlantic seaboard. Mr. Roosevelt reviewed the fleet when it started on its globe-circling journey, and there will be another grand review when it returns. The president also will issue an address to the officers and men of the fleet, commending them on their seamanship and devotion to duty. Among other things he will tell them their achievement is the greatest in his history of any navy in time of peace, and assure them that the country has full confidence that in time of war they would measure up to the highest standard.

That is about as far as the president can go officially, but unofficially he will encourage citizens to give the officers and men such a reception as will dwarf even the hospitalities showered upon them abroad. Mr. Roosevelt has indicated his willingness to attend a banquet to the officers of the fleet at Old Point Comfort, and he would much more readily accept an invitation to be present at a banquet to the enlisted men. In fact, he has given it to be understood that he is especially anxious that the enlisted men be shown that their work is appreciated.

The original program of the navy department contemplated that the fleet should end its voyage in New York harbor, but there is now little doubt but that this will be set aside by the president in favor of Hampton Roads. One reason is that climatic conditions in February will be much better at the more southern port, but of more weight with the president is the argument that in order to make the voyage as memorable as possible the fleet should return on schedule time to the exact spot from which it began its voyage. Virginians are very anxious to show their hospitality to the fleet, and there is every reason to believe they will have an opportunity.

Wants the Record.
Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, who has started west to actively engage in the campaign, has a peculiar interest in the success of Judge Taft's candidacy. There is a strong chance that Mr. Wilson would be continued in his present office under a Taft administration, though it is doubted by many of his friends whether he would care to remain in the cabinet more than a few days after March 4 next. That he wants to remain at least a few days he admits himself, and it is assured that in the event of Taft's election he would be allowed to do so.

On March 4, Mr. Wilson will have been a member of the cabinet in the same portfolio continuously for twelve years, surpassing all cabinet records except that of Albert Gallatin as secretary of the treasury. It would be necessary for him to remain only a short while into the next administration to surpass even Gallatin's record, and should Taft be elected he would be allowed to do so. Mr. Wilson's earnestness in the cause of Taft, therefore, is not wholly unselfish, but it is a selfishness which no one will hold up against him.

Fear a Plague.
Administration officials do not attempt to conceal their anxiety lest there be an outbreak of the plague on the Isthmus of Panama. Already it has made its appearance at points on the coast both to the north and the south of the canal zone, and the danger that it will show up at Colon is by no means imaginary.

There can be no doubt that the appearance of the plague among the canal workers would result in a great calamity and it would seriously retard if not wholly cripple the progress of the work. Canal officials think it particularly hard, after having eliminated yellow fever, that great scourge of tropical America, from the canal zone, they now should be menaced by the plague, an European importation. They admit they are not prepared to bar the disease from entrance or adequately to cope with it after it may have gained an entrance.

Capital Enthusiastic.

Despite the fact that permanent residents of the District of Columbia do not enjoy the boon of the elective franchise, there probably is no place in the country where political enthusiasm runs higher. Just now the capital is being treated to the spectacle of torchlight parades and almost nightly meetings which are addressed by speakers of national prominence. In fact, no other city of equal size in the country will enjoy such a deluge of oratory as Washington will have between now and election. One party seems as anxious as the other to contribute to the enthusiasm here, though the only possible gain is the votes of a few government clerks who hold legal residence elsewhere.

JUDGE ABSENT.

No City Court Was Held This Morning.

No city court was held this morning, owing to the absence from the city of Judge Converse. The judge was expected to return this afternoon and court was set for a o'clock. Several cases of comparative importance awaited the court's return.

FINLEY SCHOOL PATRONS HAVE "KICK"

Say Board of Education Does Not Fulfill Promise.

Many people in the district in which the Finley school is located, are wondering why the school board failed to keep its promise and install lavatories in the school during the past summer. Mr. Mott stated that the people should blame the city, as the board will let the contract just as soon as the city starts work on the sewer in the first alley to the rear of the school.

This is the only building in the city that does not have the toilet rooms for the pupils. The people in this part of the city have for a number of years petitioned the school board for lavatories and last spring when the city was planning to construct a sewer in this section of the city, the school promised the people that the toilet rooms would be installed.

Mr. Mott stated this morning that just as soon as the city starts work constructing the sewer, the board will put the plumbers at work. The board has the specifications completed.
