PREPARING TO
UNVEIL MONUMENT

Exercises at Harrison Shaft
To Occur October 27.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 10.—Mayor Colwell has been asked to proclaim a half-holiday in the city for the occasion of the Harrison monument unveiling exercises to be held on Tuesday, Oct. 27, on the Federal Building square opposite the statue in University Park. The fact was made public at the meeting of the Harrison Monument Commission held last night in the office of Smith, Duncan, Hornbrook & Smith on East Washington street. The mayor has not replied to the request of the commission, but it is anticipated that he will act favorably.

John B. Elam of the program committee reported that James Whitcomb Riley had agreed to take part in the exercises.

Vice President Fairbanks, who has already accepted the invitation to make the introductory speech, is to be requested in addition to preside at the ceremonies. The Rev. M. L. Haines, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, where Gen. Harrison attended, has consented to deliver the invocation.

Oration by Griffiths.

The principal oration will be delivered by John L. Griffiths, American consul to Liverpool. Gen. John W. Noble will also speak, giving some personal reminiscences of Gen. Harrison as President. Gen. Noble was secretary of the interior during Mr. Harrison's administration.

It was long ago ascertained by Humber that an acre in bananas will produce forty-four times more by weight than the potato and 133 times more than wheat. As a producer of food-stuff there is nothing in the plant world that is able to make even a respectable second to the banana.

leaves and smaller twigs, carried to the water and floated to the cache, where they are sunk. And here comes a very curious point.

These sticks are nested to the cache and are sunk by the beaver to the bottom of the water, where they remain without any apparent anchorage. They are not stuck in the mud at the bottom or held down by weights. If you lift one to the surface it will float, but you may move it about on the bottom without its rising.

I have myself tried this with sticks from which the bark has been eaten, but have never done so with the green, unpeeled limbs before the beavers had taken them into their houses. This never to me is a very mysterious one, and I have never been able to get any hint as to how these sticks were sunk.

All through the winter the beavers visit these caches, carry the sticks to their houses, where they eat off the bark, returning the bare sticks to the water.

Sometimes it may happen that for some reason or other the cache may not contain enough to last the whole winter. In this case the beavers, if possible, get on land through some air hole or piece of open water and then forage among the timber. Occasionally a combination of scarcity and severe weather may oblige the colony to emigrate during the winter to some more favorable spot.

Courtling Trouble.

"Look here," said the official, "there'll be trouble if your wife disregards us when we persistently tell her she must not pick the flowers."

"Then," replied Mr. H. Peck, for it was no other, "why ever do you persist?"—Judge.

Qualified to Do It.

"Did you know," said the tooth carper, looking up from his paper, "that the Indians practiced dentistry in the earliest times?"

"I didn't know it," replied the man who had once sat in a dentist's chair; "but I am not at all surprised. The Indians have always been a brutal and cruel race."

Then he laughed gaily, forgetful of the fact that there was still time for the dentist to add $15 or $20 to his bill.—Chicago Post.
