CHORUS GIRL LEADS TO ACCOLITAN'S FALL

Midnight Dinners and Auto Riders Showered.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 17.—Infatuation for a chorus girl in a burlesque show was the undoing of P. T. Marquette, a public accountant of Cincinnati, O., who is now in the county jail. Dinners at midnight, automobile rides and various forms of entertainments are included in the program of Marquette's doings of the last few days. Marquette is said to have spent money freely, but the limit came finally, and he is now charged with having given a bogus check for $125 in payment for rental of automobiles employed for the use of the chorus girl and her friends after the show. Miss Marion Kemp, now playing at a local theater, upon whom Marquette lavished his money and affections, declares that she and Marquette decided they would wed, and she gave the manager of the show notice to that effect, intending to leave her place in the chorus in Cincinnati next week.

A NEW PAIR OF EYES.

Startling Effect Produced With Shell of a Walnut.

Take two half shells of an English walnut, large enough to cover your eyes completely, and in the middle of each bore a hole a little larger than the pupil of your eye. Use a penknife for the work. Then clean the inside of the shells thoroughly and paint the shells with a coat of white water paint. Around the pupil hole paint the iris a dull green, leaving a small space of white on the upper left hand side, like the picture.

HOW TO PAINT SHELLS AND THE EFFECT the white spots on the iris in the same position on both shells. Finally, with bright red, paint a border all around the edge of the imitation eyes. These eyes are easily fitted over your own eyes by opening your eyes wide and drawing up your brows to their fullest height.

Strange will be the effect. In fact, it is such a startling sight that it is best not to go into a room without some intimation of your intention of showing a new "eye deer."

GOD MADE TRUSTS

Senator Dolliver Says No Human Laws Can Regulate Them.

CONTROLS SUGAR TRUST.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 17.—Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, declared last night before an audience here that God made the trusts, not man, and that God would be responsible for their regulation. Senator Dolliver said in part:

"Trusts are governed not by any statute, but by the laws God made for the protection of His own people. The laws of God are equal to the task of regulating the growth of the trusts." Citing the law of maximum consumption, Senator Dolliver said that it was to the interest of the trusts to make prices low, so that consumption would increase; that postage stamp revenue increased in proportion as the price of stamps was reduced by law; that sugar sales increased and the profits thereof with the reduction of the price, and fell with its advance.

"The Sugar Trust," he said, "is in the hands of the author of the universe."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL COMMENTARY

Sermon October 18, by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1908, by American Free Association.)

In today's lesson chapter we find the king showing the kindness of God to the poor and needy, and we read that the coming King shall judge the poor of the people and save the children of the needy and shall break in pieces the oppressor (Ps. lxxii, 4, 12-14). David did not forget his covenant with Jonathan and began to inquire if any were yet left of the house of Saul that he might show them kindness for Jonathan's sake. Learning that there was a son of Jonathan who was lame on both feet, he sent and brought him into his presence, restored to him his father's possessions and had him dwell in Jerusalem and eat at his own table continually. This story of David and Mephibosheth, while literally true, is a wondrous picture of the kindness of God to sinners, "the kindness and love of God our Saviour toward man" (Tit. ii, 4). The same is seen in the story of the young man of Egypt in I Sam. xxx, in the vision of the fifty garments and the change of raiment of Zech. iii and in so many of the Old Testament stories, the whole of which, while pointing onward to the coming kingdom, might be called God's picture book of redemption.

The Lord says of Himself, "I am a great King" (Mal. i, 14). He is not only King of the Jews, but King of the kings and Lord of lords. All kings shall fall down before Him, and all nations shall serve Him (Matt. ii, 2; Rev. xix, 16; Ps. lxx, 11). All that He does He does royally as a king and for His great name's sake. In Mephibosheth we see a picture of every sinner. His name signifies shame proceeding from the mouth and suggests the picture of the sinner in Rom. iii, 12-14. He was lame on both feet, and that is the condition of all, for no one is able to walk with God or of his own power take one step toward Him.

His name signifies shame proceeding from the mouth and suggests the picture of the sinner in Rom. iii, 12-14. He was lame on both feet, and that is the condition of all, for no one is able to walk with God or of his own power take one step toward Him. He was at Bethesda and the lame man at the temple gate (John v, Acts iii) are illustrations. He was lame through no fault of his own, for when tidings came of his father's death his nurse picked him up to feed and in her haste she let him fall, and he became lame (chapter iv, 4). When Adam fell the whole race fell in him (Rom. v, 12), and so we are by nature children of wrath (Eph. ii, 3). He was at Bethesda (verse 4), which means a place of no pasture, and that is surely the condition of all who are not in Christ, and of them the question might be asked, "Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread and your labor for that which satisfieth not?" (Isa. lv, 1). All who live at Bethesda shall thirst again (John iv, 4).

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR--HOME MISSIONS

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Psalm.—Commending our society.—IV. By systematic, generous giving.—I Cor. xvi, 1, 2; Mal. iii, 7-12.

Life is a continual receiving and giving. We receive from God directly and indirectly great blessings and gifts. We are expected in return to give and even to give to God—not that God needs our gifts, but that we need to make the gift. There is a feeling in every thoughtful soul that we must render something unto God for all His benefits. David's exclamation, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits?" finds an echo in every heart. Even the idol worshiping heathen in all ages have felt the operation of this same inward feeling and have responded to it. Freely we have received from God; freely we should give to God.

But how shall we give? What is the divine law upon this subject? It is undoubtedly systematic and generous giving. This method is Scriptural, practical, effective, and has the promise of God's blessing.

Systematic and generous giving is Scriptural. In the Old Testament dispensation a tenth was the demand of God. Abraham probably gave a tenth of his substance to God. Jacob vowed to do so, and it may have been before this that he had failed to do what was required and customary. In Lev. xxvii, 30, it is directly and plainly asserted that a tenth shall be given to God. "All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land or of the fruit of the tree, is the Lord's." In the topical reference the prophet Malachi fearfully arraigns God's people for not having given the tithe and declared that in withholding they have robbed God. There can be no question about the law as regards giving in the Old Testament times. In the New Testament Paul asks a stated weekly offering for a special purpose and in another place declares that as God blessed the people they were to give.

2. Systematic and generous giving is just. It is right. It asks of no one what he is not able to give. It requires the least of those who receive the least and the most of those who receive the most. It sets aside so much as belonging to the Lord. It makes it His and not ours and removes the temptation to use it for ourselves.

3. Systematic and generous giving has the promise of the blessing of God. In giving regularly to God and in proportion as He blesses us we are fulfilling a plain duty that is owed to God. Every duty brings its blessing. But God has promised a blessing in the fulfilling of this duty. "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse that there may be meat in Mine house, saith the Lord of Hosts, if I will not open the windows of heaven and pour you out the store of the house of Saul that he might show them kindness for Jonathan's sake. Learning that there was a son of Jonathan who was lame on both feet, he sent and brought him into his presence, restored to him his father's possessions and had him dwell in Jerusalem and eat at his own table continually. This story of David and Mephibosheth, while literally true, is a wondrous picture of the kindness of God to sinners, "the kindness and love of God our Saviour toward man" (Tit. ii, 4). The same is seen in the story of the young man of Egypt in I Sam. xxx, in the vision of the fifty garments and the change of raiment of Zech. iii and in so many of the Old Testament stories, the whole of which, while pointing onward to the coming kingdom, might be called God's picture book of redemption.

Like the good Samaritan, He came to the helpless just where they were. He finds us in our lost condition and brings us to Himself, as He did Israel from Egypt (Ex. xix, 4). He suffers the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God (I Pet. iii, 18). The kindness of David broke Mephibosheth down, and he fell on his face and reverence (verse 6), so the love and goodness of God when once we work true penitence in the sincere heart and also give the saint a true view of himself (Rom. ii, 4; Job xli, 5, 6). Then comes the great word "Fear not" (verse 7), as in Rev. i, 17, and like the "Re of good cheer" of Matt. ix, 2, and the welcome to the king's table to eat bread continually. Contrast Lodebar, the place of no pasture, with the King's table and its bounty and the invitation, "Eat, O friends, drink—yea, drink abundantly, O beloved." "Eat ye that which is good and let your soul delight itself in fatness" (Song v, 1; Isa. lv, 2). Then think of the inheritance that becomes ours, lost in the first Adam, but more than fully restored in Christ (verse 9; I Pet. i, 3, 4; Eph. i, 13, 14). Note the phrase "I have given" and remember Rom. viii, 32, "With Him freely all things." Think of the outcast from Lodebar dwelling in Jerusalem (city of peace) eating continually at the king's table and yet continuing lame on both his feet (verse 13).

We will never lose our lameness, our sinful nature, but the shining nature given us in Christ when He saves us may have control and the old be continually reckoned dead. When we are filled with thoughts of the King and His great love we will not be found contemplating our lame feet, much less speaking of them, as many do, from whom we are always hearing about their unworthiness, their weak faith, their lack of love and zeal and devotion. Rather let us be telling of His salvation from day to day and be occupied with His lovefulness, for He is altogether lovely. The devotion of Mephibosheth to David is seen in his mourning for him all the time that he was absent because of Absalom's rebellion and in his wanting no portion of the inheritance so long as David had returned in safety (chapter xix, 24, 30). When the love of Christ constraineth us after that fashion we shall not be found conforming to this world nor seeking any satisfaction from it.
