

THE RICHMOND PALLADIUM

AND SUN-TELEGRAM.

VOL. XXXIII. NO. 354.

RICHMOND, IND., TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 27, 1908.

SINGLE COPY, 2 CENTS.

FAIR MINDED DEMOCRATS ARE NOW ASTOUNDED

Awaken to Find That Other Members of Party, Backed By Brewery Bosses Are Trading Bryan Votes.

ALL DONE FOR THE BENEFIT OF MARSHALL.

Effort Inspired by Fairbanks-Lieber-Taggart Brewery Crowd for Purely a Selfish Motive.

By Harper.

The democrats are openly trading off Bryan votes for Marshall votes. They are offering odds. They express their willingness to take two votes from Bryan and trade them for one for Marshall. Not only are they offering Bryan votes for Marshall votes, but they are making the same overtures and trades for votes for the democratic legislative ticket.

The effort is inspired wholly by the brewery trust in its attempt to serve its selfish purpose. Bryan democrats are becoming enraged at the evident game of holdup and double dealing. It is a plain show down that the democratic party has secured the alliance of the brewery bosses from none but selfish motives on the part of the latter. They have no interest in the success of the democratic party except so far as the brewery interests are to be served.

From such action it is to be reached the direct conclusion that the democrats through the powers that hold the money barrels are abandoning the state to the republican national ticket and concentrating their energies, money and influence, to elect the democratic state ticket. Two Bryan votes for one for Marshall. Two votes for the author of the "Prince of Peace" thrown down for the man, who appeared in a number of cases in Whitey county as the counsel for saloon keepers, charged with violating the liquor laws. Two votes for the man, who wants the names of the campaign fund contributors published before the election to one for the man, who is being boosted openly by Crawford Fairbanks, Albert Lieber and Thomas Taggart, the most notorious trio of brewery and gambling casino owners of which the state of Indiana boasts in awed whispers.

Fair minded democrats, who have seen fit to support Bryan and believed in the support of Marshall as their party's choice are gaping in astonishment at the latest proposition. That the brewers would assume such control over the party as to offer to trade votes sacrificing the head of the entire ticket for the men of their choice seeking minor positions has been astounding. It is hard for the clear minded, clean principled men of the democratic party to realize such a condition of facts.

Further information as to the effect of county option and subsequent prohibition, where such was the case, has come from Exum Haas, son of E. M. Haas, district republican chairman. Young Haas is located at Harrisburg, Ill. He writes his father as follows: "How is Indiana going? You hear all kinds of opinions down here, but most people think it is going against Watson. I have got it in my head it will be different from the experience I have had in these Illinois towns going dry. You never know anything about them until it is all over and then it is almost unanimous for a dry town. Many men, particularly business men, are afraid to take a position publicly and would not have their names appear on the old form of remonstrance, yet they go to the polls and vote dry."

"There is not a wet town from Danville to Cairo and none of them down in here are going wet again soon. Business is better and the police have very little to do. It is possible to have it shipped in here and it comes in by the car load, but very seldom do you hear of any arrests as the cars usually come in on Saturday night and the men never are on the streets drunk the Sunday following. In fact, I have only seen one drunk on the streets here in the two months I have been here and I am out on the street most of the time, getting frontage for the proposed electric line. There was an attendance of over 35,000 at the fair here and I did not see a drunk. Here the ruling element is the miner and usually is of an ignorant class as it is a business that requires only the commonest kind of laborers and if they can get together and vote booze out I do not see why people of Indiana, who are of a decidedly better class generally, can not have the same privilege if they want it. All this dope about it killing business is tommyrot as any one down here will tell you."

Appended are a few excerpts from the New Yorker Staats Zeitung, published by Herman Ridder, treasurer of the democratic national committee, which reflect the sentiments of Ridder

(Continued on Page Two.)

CIVIC LEAGUE FOR PIPE OF PEACE

Organization Will Attempt to Square Itself With the Public.

COMMITTEES TO MEET.

PROBABLE FULL EXPLANATION WILL BE MADE AS TO WHY VARIOUS POLITICAL CANDIDATES WERE "BLACKLISTED."

A meeting of the executive committee and the correspondence committee of the Wayne County Civic League will be held this evening to consider ways and means for the organization extracting itself from the political quagmire it stepped into, when the now famous statement was issued telling the voters of Wayne county who they should and who they should not vote for on the republican and democratic county tickets.

Members of the league state that the organization as a body did not issue the statement and place the entire responsibility on the "correspondence" committee, which committee, it is stated, acted without the knowledge or consent of the other members of the organization.

"The league, through the action of its correspondence committee, got itself into an ugly 'mess,' and if any further action is taken the greatest care will have to be employed or the matter will 'bothered up' worse than it now is," stated a well known local minister today, who is a member of the Civic League.

It is understood that at the meeting tonight of the members of the executive committee will be taken to explain to the voters of the county why the league opposes the three republicans and the three democrats who were "blacklisted" by the organization.

It is probable that the committee will decide to issue a public statement in which will be set forth the records of the "blacklisted" candidates, based on the information the league has at its command. It is understood that none of this information is of a sensational nature.

SPEAK AT WILLIAMSBURG.

Judge William O. Barnard and Prosecutor Wilfred Jessup addressed an enthusiastic meeting at Williamsburg last evening in the interest of the republican party. Judge Barnard made a favorable impression. Prosecutor Jessup also made an able plea.

GREAT CROWD IS EXPECTED TONIGHT

Senator Beveridge and Judge Wm. O. Barnard Speak at The Coliseum.

BARNARD'S SPEECH SHORT.

WILL OCCUPY ONLY TWENTY MINUTES—NEW CASTLE GLEE CLUB WILL BE ONE OF THE FEATURES OF THE EVENING.

Reports received at republican headquarters today indicate another immense audience will gather at the coliseum this evening to hear addresses by United States Senator Beveridge and William O. Barnard. The fame of Senator Beveridge as an orator is well known. Judge Barnard is republican candidate for congress from the Sixth district. Senator Beveridge is making a tour in a special train and is expected to arrive in this city at about 7:30 o'clock.

Judge Barnard will occupy the attention of the audience in a twenty minute speech. The judge believes this is all the longer it will require for him to set forth the issues of the campaign that he is waging. He has a large list of acquaintances in this county and it is expected he will poll the entire republican strength. The breach that existed in the ranks of the republicans two years ago has been closed.

There is no doubt but that the meeting this evening will be an enthusiastic gathering. There will be a number of drum and bugle corps' out to add to the noise and enthusiasm. The celebrated New Castle Glee club will appear. This organization has been formed for a number of years and has made a strong reputation wherever it has appeared. It was easily the hit of the day at the Greensfork barbecue. It comes from Judge Barnard's home town and the members are acquainted with the man, whose praises they sing. Clay Hunt will be on hand with his broad grin and deep voice.

From an oratorical standpoint it is not to be expected any meeting of the campaign will surpass that of this evening. Senator Beveridge is renowned beyond the borders of the United States as an orator and Indiana long has pointed to him as a favorite son.

The meeting will be presided over by John F. McCarthy. The vice-presidents will be: T. A. Bradburn, T. R. Jessup, Walter Turner, F. F. Ray, W. C. Ball, C. R. Tingle, R. W. Hall, John White, Chas. Williams, Frank Davenport.

(Continued on Page Eight.)

APPROPRIATION TO HOSPITAL WILL BE MADE AS USUAL

Councilmen Pledge Themselves to Pass Ordinance Donating $4,000 Over Schillinger's Veto.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES EXPRESS INDIGNATION

Report That Hospital Is Mismanaged Is Resented—Amendments to Constitution Read.

Council members met with the board of trustees of the Reid Memorial hospital last evening, and enough city fathers informed that body they would vote for the ordinance appropriating $4,000 for the institution to assure its passage over Mayor Schillinger's veto. Councilman Wettig, who at the last council meeting introduced a resolution favoring the absorption of the hospital by the city, remained obdurate and stated that he would vote against the passing of the ordinance over the mayor's veto, because the city attorney had given his opinion to the effect that the hospital was a private institution and that the city had no authority to contribute to the support of any private institution.

Mr. Wettig was informed that City Attorney T. J. Study was "too narrow minded" to approve of such an appropriation and it was furthermore pointed out to him that if the $4,000 was denied the institution it would practically impossible to maintain the institution next year.

Members of the board of trustees expressed great indignation over the report that the hospital was mismanaged and that the trustees controlled the institution in an arbitrary manner. Dr. M. F. Johnston was asked if he had been intimidated by the board so that he was afraid to speak his true opinion concerning the management of the hospital. Dr. Johnston replied that he and, to the best of his knowledge, all physicians except a very small minority, were perfectly satisfied with the way the institution was conducted. John L. Rupe and S. S. Stratton, Jr., of the board, stated that they would willingly tender their resignation if their work on the board had not been satisfactory. It was stated to the council that the reason a certain physician, who has been strenuously opposing the present management of the hospital, had been dropped from the medical staff was because no one could get along with him.

No Place in Politics.

Mr. Rupe stated that in his opinion it would be poor policy to place the institution under political control. He pointed out that while the hospital is operated as a private institution to keep it out of politics, it is in every sense a public hospital and worthy of the support of the city. Mr. Rupe stated that the hospital was held in trust for the citizens of Richmond by the board of trustees, and the big political managers are scattering out for their homes. By the middle of the week the headquarters of both parties will be practically deserted. Already an air of quiet pervades the rooms of the national committees. Where hordes of political workers and leaders have swarmed for weeks few are there now.

This does not mean that the fight is over. It means that the work to be done between now and election day, will be done in the precincts and among the voters themselves. It means that the ranks are to be closed up and the voters got to the polls. All the generalship has been played; now the job is to get out the vote.

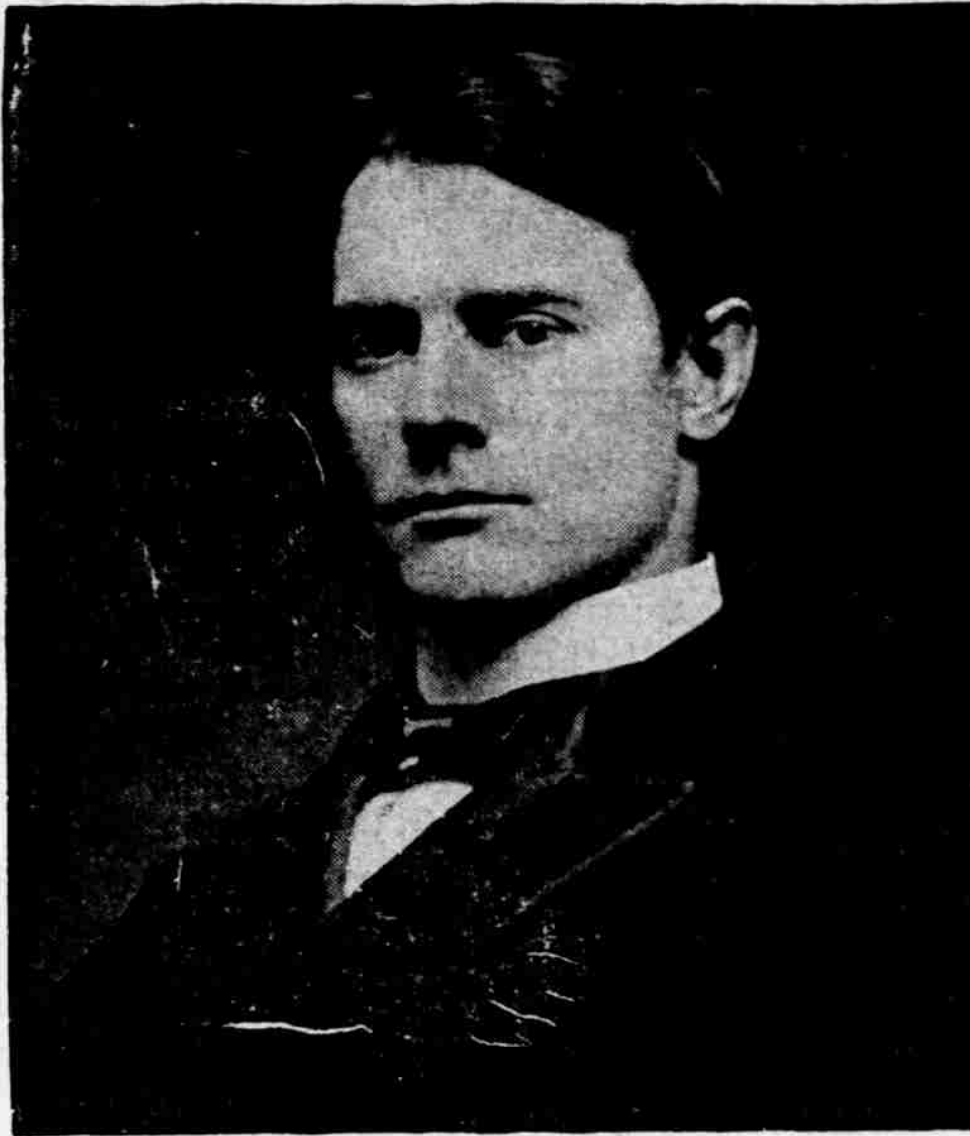

Whatever money the party organizations have to spend will be spent this week. And it is said here that both sides are well supplied with money. It is now being dealt out to the various states, the doubtful states, of course, being given much more than the states that are safe one way or the other.

Fred A. Sims, acting chairman of the Indiana republican state committee, was here and it is whispered around here that when he started for Indianapolis he had concealed in his jeans a large wad of money that he received from the national committee with which to finish the campaign. Just how much money Sims received is not made public, but the rumor has it all the way from $50,000 to $100,000.

State Chairman Goodrich was here also. So was Senator Hemenway, Senator Beveridge and several other Indiana party leaders and it is said

(Continued on Page Eight.)

Greeted Over the State As "Indiana's Favorite Son"

SENATOR ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE.

Senator Beveridge will speak at the Coliseum tonight, closing the second day of his five days' whirlwind tour over Indiana. He is being greeted everywhere as the state's most illustrious citizen. Beveridge has hundreds of friends in Richmond and Wayne county and it is more than probable the old coliseum will be filled to overflowing. Beveridge is accompanied on his present tour by George Ade, Samuel G. Blythe and a number of other notables. Judge W. O. Barnard of New Castle, will also be heard tonight.

PARTY LEADERS FINISH CAMPAIGN AMONG VOTERS

National Headquarters in Chicago Are Now Practically Abandoned by Big Political Men.

INDIANA SITUATION PLEASING TO ALL.

Hemenway, Beveridge and Others Say Taft and Watson Are Sure to Carry the Hoosier State.

(Special to The Palladium.)

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The campaign is practically at an end, so far as actual big work at national headquarters is concerned, and the big political managers are scattering out for their homes. By the middle of the week the headquarters of both parties will be practically deserted. Already an air of quiet pervades the rooms of the national committees. Where hordes of political workers and leaders have swarmed for weeks few are there now.

This does not mean that the fight is over. It means that the work to be done between now and election day, will be done in the precincts and among the voters themselves. It means that the ranks are to be closed up and the voters got to the polls. All the generalship has been played; now the job is to get out the vote.

Whatever money the party organizations have to spend will be spent this week. And it is said here that both sides are well supplied with money. It is now being dealt out to the various states, the doubtful states, of course, being given much more than the states that are safe one way or the other.

Fred A. Sims, acting chairman of the Indiana republican state committee, was here and it is whispered around here that when he started for Indianapolis he had concealed in his jeans a large wad of money that he received from the national committee with which to finish the campaign. Just how much money Sims received is not made public, but the rumor has it all the way from $50,000 to $100,000.

(Continued on Page Eight.)

DEFAULTING BANK CASHIER DIES IN DENVER, COLORADO

Charles R. DuHadway, Formerly Connected With First National Bank, Ill Only a Short Time.

WAS NO BETTER KNOWN MAN IN WAYNE COUNTY.

Defalcation of $16,500 Discovered in Fall of 1905—For Past Few Years Whereabouts Were Unknown.

Charles R. DuHadway, who left this city in January, 1906, after having in writing confessed to embezzling $16,500 from the First National bank, of which he was cashier, died this morning at 7:30 o'clock at St. Luke's hospital, Denver, Colo. The cause of his death, according to a telegram received here by members of his family, was typhoid pneumonia. His illness was of short duration. The body will be brought to this city for burial, but it is not known when it will arrive here.

There was probably not a better known man in Wayne county than Charles R. DuHadway during the thirty years he was connected with the First National bank. He was also extremely popular with his numerous friends, and the announcement of his defalcation, which was not made until May 15, 1906, came as a distinct shock to all of them.

No evidence was ever found to show that DuHadway had ever tampered with the books of the bank. The money he took was kept in the reserve fund. Whether he took the $16,500 all at one time or had been embezzling it in small sums is not known. The reserve fund, which was only counted about once a week, was kept in a special vault, the combination to which was known only to Mr. DuHadway in his capacity of cashier.

In the fall of 1905, Mr. DuHadway became ill and gave up his duties at the bank. While confined at his home he was asked for the combination to the reserve fund vault, but the combination supplied by him, failed to open it. Bank officials then decided to force an entrance to the vault, which was accomplished after two weeks' work. Then for the first time Mr. DuHadway's shortage was discovered. Three days after this discovery had been made, some relatives of Mr. DuHadway, who were stockholders in the bank, made good his shortage. Before this was done he confessed to having appropriated the missing money.

(Continued From Page Eight.)

SEN. BEVERIDGE'S WHIRLWIND TOUR DOING MUCH GOOD

Indiana's Senior Senator Is Greeted by Large and Enthusiastic Audiences Everywhere He Goes.

REASONS GIVEN FOR ELECTION OF TAFT.

Why Turn Down Party Which Does Everything for the Party Which Does Nothing, Senator Asks.

By Ellis Searies

On Board Beveridge Special.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 27.—Senator Beveridge closed the first day of his special train trip over the state of Indiana last night with a monster meeting in this city. It was the greatest demonstration of the campaign in Fort Wayne, and the republicans of Allen county are jubilant over the turn out.

Beveridge made fifteen speeches yesterday across northern Indiana. He had big crowds everywhere and there was much enthusiasm. This was especially true in the smaller towns visited. In some of the places where big turn outs were not expected he had hundreds of people. Most of the speeches were outdoor speeches though some were made in halls and theaters.

Even in the democratic town of Walkerton, and while a drizzling rain was falling 500 persons stood around a band stand in the street and listened to Beveridge. At Warsaw there was a great crowd, the theater being packed. Beveridge spoke twenty minutes, and when he got through James E. Watson dropped into the hall and made a speech. Watson was on his way to Laporte for a meeting in the afternoon and had to make a thirty mile automobile trip to keep the engagement after the Warsaw meeting.

George Ade, the humorist and playwright; John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist on the Chicago Tribune, and Sam Blythe, of the Saturday Evening Post, and several other newspaper men were on the train with Beveridge. Ade, McCutcheon and Blythe are personal friends of Beveridge and are making the tour with him for the novelty of the thing. They will be with him at Richmond tonight.

Beveridge is certainly making a whirlwind finish of the campaign in Indiana. His special train will be out five days, and will make stops for speeches in fifty-five towns. It will cover more than 1,500 miles.

Beveridge told the crowds yesterday that one reason why they should elect Taft president is that every good law that has been written into the statute books has been placed there by a Republican congress. He said more good laws have been enacted in the last seven years than during any three administrations before. He said neither Bryan nor the democratic party proposes to repeal any of these laws. They say they are all good laws, so why do they ask the voters to turn out power the democratic party that has not done anything.

Beveridge discussed injunctions and the labor question at some places. He said he favored legislation that would prevent the issuance of injunctions without notice, but that he was against any law that would give a trial by jury on injunction or contempt proceedings.

Women Know Best.

The senator made a hit at several places by his appeal to the men to consult their wives on the issues of the campaign and then vote as they tell them to vote.

"The women know more about what is best for the family and the home than you do," he said. "I am willing that you should ask their advice and then follow it."

In one of his speeches Beveridge said Bryan has thrown away his former issues and that he now has a new one that is no more substantial than the old ones were.

"In 1896 Bryan was for free silver," he said. "One year ago he was for the government ownership of railroads. He has thrown both of these issues aside. How do you know that he will not throw away tomorrow what he favors today?"

Beveridge invites democrats to ask questions at every stop. He tells them if they will give him one reason why they intend to vote for Bryan he will try to answer the argument. Here and there some democrat asks a question and gets an answer. One amusing incident of that kind happened at Kemdallville. Some man asked:

"What about last summer's panic?"

"My friend," Beveridge asked, "haven't you got a job?"

"Yes," came the answer.

"I thought so. Then the panic did not hurt you, did it?"

The crowd laughed and cheered this answer. Then Beveridge asked the man if he was better off now than he was in 1896.

"I should guess yes," the fellow answered.

(Continued on Page Two.)

Remarkable Photograph of "Conqueror" Falling to Earth

The above picture is the first reproduction of a photograph taken at the time the American balloon "Conqueror" fell to the ground after exploding 4,000 feet in the air. The balloon was entered in the recent international balloon races in Germany and Augustus Post and A. Holland Forbes were the aeronauts manning the great craft. When the gigantic ball reached a dizzy height it exploded and for two thousand feet the craft shot towards the earth. The silks formed into a parachute and the American aeronauts were saved from a horrible death, although Forbes received several injuries of minor nature.

THE WEATHER PROPHET.

INDIANA—Showers Tuesday night; Wednesday fair; fresh west to northwest winds.

OHIO—Showers Tuesday night and Wednesday; fresh south to southwest winds.