MONUMENT TO BENJ. HARRISON UNVEILED

Ceremonies of This Afternoon Preceded by Monster Parade.

DAUGHTER PULLS CORD.

HALF HOLIDAY IN INDIANAPOLIS PERMITS THOUSANDS TO PARTICIPATE IN TRIBUTE TO THE LATE EX-PRESIDENT.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27.—Amidst elaborate decorations of Federal square on a scale more magnificent than ever before attempted, the monument to the late Benjamin Harrison was unveiled in University park this afternoon by Miss Elizabeth Harrison, the 14-year-old daughter of General Harrison pulling the cord which brought to view the large bronze statue of her illustrious father. Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks and Hon. Thomas L. Griffiths, with Gen. John W. Noble, delivered principal addresses. A half holiday permitted thousands of school children and citizens to participate in the ceremonies which were preceded by a mammoth parade of civic and military organizations. General Noble said in part:

More than seven years ago there were here held the obsequies of Benjamin Harrison. We were in sorrow then from the loss of a friend, a neighbor and a good man. Our affliction prevented any clear estimate of him other than in those intimate relations of life where we judge more from the heart than by the mind. We did not then assert his greatness, but bowed in submission to the will of God. The nation was bereaved. The president of the United States, the governor of this state, the comrades of his military career, his associates in public life and his fellow-citizens of all parties and of all stations, stood beside the altar and filled the avenues of this, his beloved and loving city; and then with flags all draped, with dirges and tears moved in funeral procession to his sepulchre.

Time has abated, without erasing our emotions, and has given a perspective by which we may more justly measure his merit by his deeds. This monument, unveiling his form to our vision and expressing a people's love and esteem for the citizen, the soldier, the statesman, and the patriotic chief magistrate, draws our thoughts from his tomb and lifts them on high in praise and gratitude, as we recall his character, his career, and the blessings bestowed by Providence, through him, upon our nation. America is today proud of this typical American. By orations and poems, with song and music, and unfolded banners we dedicate this memorial, and commend his example, for the inspiration of our youth and the manhood of the present and of the future.

The Harrison Administration.

If we turn to consider his administration of our government, of which I am to speak, we shall find him therein, displaying those qualities, which, in the estimation of men, bear the unmistakable mark of true greatness. His was an administration of a statesman, strictly attentive to government business and controlled in all its departments by a fervent but discriminating patriotism. It could not have been otherwise, for his career was one truly national, and his threads as they were successively spun, bound him more strongly to his country. It embraced largely the development of the West and farthest West, and their transformation into homes and territories and states of the Union.

We must in this relation also consider that "such policies must come from the people." These do not originate with the individual. Yet there must be the leaders, the thinkers, those to advocate and those to apply with earnestness and wisdom the policy developed; and to these upon success attained, is justly given our acknowledgement of excellence.

Their names become attached to the principles beneficently enforced; their greatness established. Indeed, the state itself, like Magna Charta, as has often been said, is but the declaration of principles, generated and grown, tried in forum and on field, and adopted by public opinion, antecedent to the state itself. But those men who formulate institutions or execute a wise policy live in history.
