Cheerful Ignorance. "You'd be surprised," said the woman who is supposed to be wise, "how many people are perfectly ignorant of the correct way to write acceptances and regrets when they are asked to entertainments. It would pay some enterprising woman to go around writing them for those who don't know how. You'd be amazed to see the people who come to me to ask how it is done or to get me to write them. And," she admitted, "if the truth must be told, I don't know so awfully much about it myself!"—Exchange.

ENGLISH TITLES.

Why Inferior Honors Are Sometimes Refused by Commoners. Although it costs money to be made a peer, no sum can actually buy a British title, as may be done in some European countries. Honors of this description are in the giving of the king, or rather, his majesty bestows them on persons at the recommendation of the prime minister, who really has the final say in the matter. Titles are conferred either directly or indirectly—directly when no third person is recommended a candidate for royal recognition and indirectly when a third person brings a candidate's name forward, he having good and valid grounds for doing so. The former method, however, is the one which is usually adopted. It is the duty of the prime minister to distinguish a name celebrated in politics, science, art or literature and to decide whether the merits of any given prominent person deserve recognition at the hands of the king.

If, in the opinion of the prime minister, such a given person deserves elevation to titled rank, before the minister takes any steps in the matter the favored individual is apprised of the prime minister's intentions by a personal letter, in which is conveyed the degree or title it is proposed to confer on him, subject to his approval. In four out of five cases the approval is given. The fifth person, who may have been offered a knighthood or perchance a baronetcy, refuses because his refusal may increase his chances of obtaining at a later date a higher title still—a peerage. Armed with the person's approval, the prime minister now takes the next step—that is, obtaining his majesty's sanction, which is rarely refused.

It is seldom that a plain "Mr." blossoms straightforward into a "lord" unless the circumstances are very unusual, such as the reason why a peerage was conferred on Mr. Morley or honors conferred on successful generals in the field, as in the case of Wolsey, Roberts and Kitchener. As a general rule a plain "Mr." is transformed into "Sir"—that is, knight or baronet—and one who is already a "Sir" and has done some signal recognition finds his reward in his ultimate service to the state entitling him to royal elevation to the peerage.—Chicago News.

It is hard to imagine how Lopez could have drilled them into fighting material of strength enough to keep in check the combined forces of Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay for five long, weary years, and it speaks volumes for the indomitable energy of the man that he was able to sustain his position for so protracted a time.

Clothing is very much of a superfluity in Paraguay, says the Boston Transcript. The attire of the women is a cotton chemise with a long shawl-like shawl, or manta, passed over the head and around the body in Moorish fashion. The dress of the men is equally simple, consisting only of cotton shirt and trousers. Both sexes are guileless of foot covering. At times an almost uncanny feeling rises when a group of these white robed, dark haired maidens pass suddenly with the silent tread of unshod feet.

Of a morning in the market places the women folk flock to sell their wares, carrying on their heads the baskets containing the few cents' worth of native produce they have been able to gather together for disposal in the towns. The soft Guaraní language, the common tongue of the Paraguayans, adds another charm to the scene.

Paraguay is rich in local color. The picturesque character of the native population, with their quaint Indian features and habits of everyday life, is interesting to anybody fond of observing strange phases of human life. By nature these people are patient and gentle, seldom complaining, chattering and laughing from sunrise to sunset and taking small thought of what the morrow may have in store for them.

DESPERADOES

CRUSH SKULLS

Two Men Found in Streets in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 30.—Wm. Cunningham died this morning shortly after being found unconscious on a down town street with his skull fractured. About daylight another unknown man was found with a fractured skull within a block distant, but he died before he reached the hospital. Mystery surrounds the two crimes but it is probably the work of desperadoes, hold up men, needing money.

INJURED IN GAS EXPLOSION

Twenty Men Have Narrow Escape in Tunnel.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—As the result of an explosion in a water tunnel at Seventy-ninth and State streets this morning Henry Hecker, aged 32 and James Mallortiga are dying and James Mallortiga is injured. The gases exploded just as a gang of twenty men started work, burying the men under debris but the others escaped with but slight hurts.

TWO MEN ARE BURNED TO DEATH

Overcome by Fumes of Celluloid Smoke.

New York, Oct. 30.—Overcome by the fumes of a quantity of celluloid, during a fire which destroyed the building at 164 Durand street this morning, Henry Jones and David Mahoney were burned to death while fighting flames. Wm. Setinas was probably fatally burned.

BAKERS STRIKE; MANY INJURED

Women Participate in Riot in Rome.

Rome, Oct. 30.—The bakers have declared a general strike because the proprietors of the bakeries refused to listen to the grievances. Several of the injured in a demonstration today, including women are in a critical condition. The police and troops suppressed the crowds.
