CAN YOU BE FOOLED?

The oracle has spoken—that honest, honorable, innocent, unsophisticated, high purposed, single minded gentleman John D. Rockefeller.

He speaks in favor of Mr. Taft. Let no one mistake his object—John D. Rockefeller has done dirty stunts before in the memory of man. He, the real inventor of injured innocence—the despoiler of business—the most dangerous enemy of good government—the corrupter of legislatures, the house of representatives and the senate—the enemy of all America—he support Taft and the Roosevelt administration. Yes he!

But why?
Because he is in favor of Bryan—because he believes that with Bryan as president there would be a standstill, a dead lock—because in the uncertainty of two years wait, stocks would fall and he, with his resources could buy them at a bargain rate and hold them for better conditions. Then if he did not sell them at a profit the dividends would flow into his coffers.
Oh—that unselfish Mr. Rockefeller—the patron of good government!
It is the slickest campaign dodge that could have been pulled off.

Mr. Rockefeller knows full well the aroma of tainted coal oil that hangs about his unsavory name. He knows what that name and the name of his company stand for. He is shrewd enough to see, or has hired shrewd minds to see, the best thing to do to attack the first administration which has ever dared to come in conflict with his company was to support it openly.

He knows that the very mention of his name in connection with the support of a candidate can have the opposite effect.

Those persons must be fat witted indeed who can picture this vulture who has fed on the destruction of business as the friend of good government. Will the people of America be deceived into affording this man the means of buying still further interests in the ownership of the business of the country?

Let no one be deceived by this kind of old gentleman of single motives, the unsophisticated, harmless, innocent, man who comes out with his self forgetting, coal oil and blood soaked bouquet with which he hopes to smother Mr. Taft.

Some games of the Standard are beyond the comprehension of man—but any American citizen who stops to think can not fail to see the true inwardness of Mr. Rockefeller's disinterested little scheme, played on the eve of the election.

Rockefeller has no love for the man who caused the vigorous prosecution and the moral awakening which laid bare the workings of the infernal machine designated as the Standard.

Can you be fooled?

BREWING COMPANY

ASKS EMPLOYEES TO FIGHT WATSON

of William E. Blodgett, special correspondent. Blodgett is known personally to a large number of persons in this city. He made Richmond his home at one time and was connected with a local newspaper. Personal friends do not believe Blodgett's writings are instigated by his own personality, but the orders from headquarters. It will be remembered that only a few months ago Blodgett made a tour of Indiana. His subject at the time dealt with the violations of law by the saloons and brewery trust. The machinations of the liquor interests in all of the principal cities were divulged. Direct charges were made of violations of the law. The saloons were placed in the most unfavorable light it was possible for the versatile writer to obtain by use of words.

Note the result. When the republicans of the sixth district met in congressional convention at Shelbyville, William E. Blodgett was detailed to cover the meeting. He came as the representative of the Indianapolis News. There were some among the "liberals" of the delegates who were incensed by Blodgett's appearance. They wanted him barred from the convention. Not only did they want him barred but they put their desire in the form of a complaint to the district chairman. It was claimed Blodgett had been misrepresenting facts in his articles upon the saloons and in order to retaliate he should be prevented from the privileges of the floor at the convention hall. The district chairman opposed the proposition. He told the remonstrators any effort to bar a newspaper correspondent would appear as ridiculous.

Now comes the change. The Indianapolis News has sent Blodgett on another tour of the state. He is visiting republican counties and endeavoring to scare up scandal. To each county seat he goes he looks for the same thing—some way to cast reflections on the republican administration. He is keeping clear of democratic counties. From casting reflections on saloons, Blodgett has turned to muck-raking in the republican counties.

ONE TOWN WILL NOT GIVE BRYAN 100 VOTES.

At the Westcott hotel this morning a well known business man offered a bet with a friend that he could name a city in the United States with a population of over 200,000 that would not give Bryan one hundred votes. On the surface the bet listened like pilfering currency from Little Johnny's bank, but after digesting the bet thoroughly the friend turned down the wager.

He chanced to recollect that Washington, D. C. has a population of over 200,000.

Unlocks Cell Doors For Wife That She Might Go With Another

Bad Axe, Mich., Oct. 31.—"I am opening the door of this cell so that you may go out into the world again. You can do what you please," said Joseph Smith to his wife, Alice, as he unlocked the door that kept her in the county jail.

"I am glad to go out," said Mrs. Smith, "but I love Charley and I will go with him."

Smith walked to another part of the jail and his wife followed. He looked through the bars at his brother, Charles Smith.

"I am going to let you out," he said, as he unlocked the door. Charles came out, but said nothing. Mrs. Smith joined him and they walked away together.

The dramatic jail incident is the climax of a strange story of love. Charles was the woman's first sweetheart, but he jilted her for another. Then she married Joseph, but when her sister-in-law died she eloped with Charles. The couple were arrested and placed in jail.

Joseph now refuses to prosecute. The sheriff said he did not want to be the one to let him out, but that if Joseph was determined he could let them out himself. Then he handed him the keys and the release came.

When he let his wife out Joseph helped her on with her coat. "Joseph," she said, "you have been a good friend to me. If I ever need a friend again I will come to you."

CAPTAIN GRIDLEY'S MOTHER.

"You may fire when ready, Gridley!" The laconic command of Admiral Dewey to Captain Gridley of the flagship Olympia in Manila harbor will long live in the annals of the American navy, rich as it is in historic utterance.

Gridley gave the word to the gun crews that sank the Spanish flagship and made junk of the fleet of Spain. A month afterward the brave Gridley paid the forfeit of that day's work with his life.

Every schoolboy knows about Gridley and the one sided battle of Manila Bay. Few of us have known about the mother of the Olympia's commander—no less an American heroine than was her son a hero.

At the age of eighty-three Mrs. Anna Gridley serves her government, earning her bread by putting the red seal on all official letters that go out of her department. Some days she will affix as many as 400 seals.

Here has been a career mingled with sorrow and heroism.
Fifty years ago she lived in a Michigan town. Her eldest son—the future captain—wanted to go to Annapolis. The mother was loath to see him go. With her it was the terrible struggle "twixt love and duty." She was patriotic and lent her boy to the country. Three years after the civil war broke out.

The call came for army nurses. At home Mrs. Gridley had an invalid husband and two small children. Again came the struggle between love and duty. She went to the front as a nurse.

While she was in the field an epidemic took away her husband and two children, leaving to her only the son. Again the clouds of war broke. The battle of Manila was fought. There was no prouder woman than Mrs. Gridley. A few weeks later her only son was buried with honors.

And now the old mother recollects that, though her boy was ill that fateful day of the battle, he stuck to his post. And so she sticks no less bravely to her task, having nothing now but her memories and her daily task.

In Europe the mother of such a noted captain would be given a pension for life.
Gridley's mother asks no pension. She asks only the chance to work for the government to which she has given her all—a chance to work at eighty-three!

The formula seldom fails:
Behind the man look for the mother.

KILLED BY AUTO.

Aged Indian Meets Death in Washington.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Frank M. Heaton, aged 74, a land claim agent in this city, was struck and instantly killed by the automobile of a man named Stevens just after he had stepped from a street car at Cherry Chase a fashionable suburb of this city, late Friday. The owner of the machine was not arrested.

Mr. Heaton came here from Crawfordsville, Ind., in 1860.

AN ELECTION PRIMER

Pertinent Points About Our Election Machinery For New Voters and Old

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

When did the Democratic party first appear in national politics? Under its present name the party first appeared in 1828, when Andrew Jackson was elected president as the party candidate. The Democratic party, however, so far as its chief principles go, dates from the beginning of the republic.

Who is regarded as the party's founder?

Thomas Jefferson. When the constitution of the United States was under discussion in convention the opposing theories of Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton constituted the principal difference of opinion. Jefferson and his adherents leaned far toward local self government, while Hamilton and his faction stood for a strong centralized government. In after years the Jeffersonian theories became crystallized into what was called at first the Republican party, later the Republican-Democratic party and finally the Democratic party.

The present Republican party, then, is entirely distinct from the one of Jefferson's time?

Entirely so. It is descended, through the Whig party, from the Hamiltonian or Federalist party, which took the opposite view to that of Jefferson.

What presidents has the Democracy elected?

Thomas Jefferson twice, James Madison twice, James Monroe twice, John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson twice, Martin Van Buren, James K. Polk, Franklin Pierce, James Buchanan, Grover Cleveland twice.

What is the Democratic party's position as to tariff?

It stands for a low tariff or a tariff for revenue only.

ELECTION OF TAFT SURE SAYS LEADER

National Chairman Hitchcock Claims 325 Electoral Votes.

NAMES THE TAFT STATES.

INDIANA, NEW YORK, OHIO, NEBRASKA, MONTANA, MARYLAND AND NEVADA ARE NOW OUT OF DOUBTFUL COLUMN.

New York, Oct. 31.—In his forecast of the composition of the electoral college which will choose the next president and vice-president of the United States, made public at republican headquarters last night, National Chairman Hitchcock claims 325 republican members, or eighty-three more than will be required to elect their candidates.

For the republican ticket Mr. Hitchcock is sure of New York, Ohio and Indiana. He also includes in the republican column Nebraska, Montana, Maryland and Nevada. In explaining his list Mr. Hitchcock said he believed the chances were even in Kentucky and Missouri, with their thirteen and eighteen votes, respectively.

If by chance any of the states claimed should go democratic, he said, they would be Maryland, Montana and Nevada, with a total of fourteen votes. This would leave a republican margin of sixty-nine, and of this advantage he expressed himself as perfectly confident. The national chairman does not include Tennessee and Oklahoma, in his list and concedes the chances in those states are against the republican ticket.

His forecast, Mr. Hitchcock said, was based upon information received by him up to last night from party leaders throughout the United States.

States Claimed by Hitchcock.
The states claimed for Taft and Sherman with their electoral votes follow:

California	10
Colorado	5
Connecticut	7
Delaware	3
Idaho	3

Bad Breath and Sour Stomach

Stopped At Once With Pure Willow Charcoal, the Greatest Gas Absorber Known.

There is no necessity to suffer the humiliation, chargin and discomfort of bad breath, biliousness, sour stomach, gastritis, sluggish liver, etc., when a little lozenge of charcoal will cleanse the stomach and make it pure and sweet.

Do not drug yourself when a simple little natural charcoal made from fragrant willow branches, sweetened with honey, will add tone to your stomach, liver and intestines, rapidly absorb gases and stop foul odors of all kinds.

Charcoal will absorb one hundred times its own volume in gas. A box full of charcoal placed in a bed room will keep the air of such a room pure and sweet.

A little charcoal lozenge dissolved on the tongue after meals will also keep the stomach fresh and clean. Charcoal is justly called the scrubbing brush for the stomach. The old monks of medieval times cured bad cases of stomach trouble, cast out devils from the system of man by feeding such a man charcoal.

Scientific men of today believe in the great strength of charcoal for the cure of human ills. Too much of it cannot harm one. The system craves it just like an animal needs and craves salt every so often. Charcoal goes into the stomach gently and is welcome, it settles down through the action of the stomach, and filters through all the food, absorbing gas, aiding digestion and giving tone to the juices, so that when the food goes into the intestines, and there meets other digestive fluids, the charcoal holds the impurities and thus keeps them from the blood.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from pure willow. They are prepared fragrant by the use of honey and sweetened so they please the taste and are easily dissolved.

They have an enormous sale, thus stamping them with the approval of the public. Every druggist sells them, 25 cents per box. Go to your druggist today and buy a box; then after your next meal take two or three of them and judge for yourself of their merit.

Several taken at bed time will prove to you in the morning that they have been at work all night, for your bad breath will not be so bad after all.

Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.
