THE MAN WHO DID IT.

Those who are feeling happy over the election of Thomas R. Marshall to be governor of Indiana have one man to thank above all others. He is the man who called the special session of the legislature.

He is the man who was not willing to trust either the republican party which elected him or the people of Indiana.

He is the man who went over the state with the announcement that now that County Local Option is passed, the next step of the Republican party would be prohibition.

He is Governor J. Frank Hanly.

And why in the final analysis of his motives did this man do it? Because he wished for personal applause. He did not care who was elected—he wanted the Senatorship. And it is perhaps poetic justice that that pure minded, high souled man defeated the republican legislature which he hoped would put him in the national senate.

By calling the special session of the legislature Hanly removed the issue in a great many democratic minds as to why they could not vote for Marshall.

By announcing that the republican party hoped for prohibition he caused not only the active warfare against the republican party among the brewing interests but he misled many people into a confusion of what the republican party stood for.

The republican party did not stand for prohibition—it stood for the right of the people to decide that question at the polls. And by his prohibition propaganda this man did irretrievable harm to the republican ticket by raising an issue which was not raised by the party.

The republican party was honest—the man was not. It was unfair that James E. Watson and the state ticket should suffer on account of the puffed up egotism of the present governor of Indiana.

If Hanly had really desired to further the interests of the republican party and the identical interests of good government he has not shown it by his actions.

There has been good accomplished in the administration of this man—but it is not due to his high-minded statesmanship nor his character.

When a man puts personal reputation above good government, all the grandstand plays and chautauqua addresses he may make cannot confuse the people.

Whatever was republican in his administration was good—but that which was Hanly was hypocrisy. Fortunately the hypocrisy has been shown up and that the self seeking nature of the man is laid bare.

Those persons who are feeling happy over the election of Thomas R. Marshall have one man to thank.

THE ELECTION AND WHAT IT MEANS.

The election of Taft leaves no doubt that the people of the country want a continuation of the policies of law enforcement and good government which were instituted in the last two republican administrations. But above all else it was quite as much a personal triumph for Mr. Taft as for the republican party. The magnificent way in which Taft carried the states with the same pluralities which Mr. Roosevelt had in his landslide of four years ago was due to the confidence of the people. And while this confidence was in a large measure due to the fact that Taft made no attempt to hedge or to evade any of the criticisms which his opponent made of his record on the bench, it was the logical consequence of Taft's great career of public service which was manifested at the polls.

The time has passed when the magnetism of one man or oratory without careful thinking can elect a man. No man in America has more magnetism or oratorical ability than Mr. Bryan. Bryan had assured himself of the west—but it was here that Taft showed his great strength.

If the campaign and the election showed anything it was that this was a newspaper campaign—namely that people wanted to know both sides and that their minds lay open to conviction. The awful hush which lay over the land previous to the election demonstrated this. But when they had made up their minds not to take Bryan seriously, the result was surprising to those who had thought the outcome close. Apparently only two men, Hitchcock of the card index, and Roosevelt were prepared for what happened.

But now that the campaign and the election are over the country faces another problem.

We have elected a man fitted in every particular for the high office of president. He is ideal in character, temperament and experience. No other man selected by the suffrage of the American people has been endowed by nature with greater capabilities.

This man we have elected to "clinch" the policies of the past eight years. He has a problem worthy of his steel. That is the problem of enforcing the law without prejudice or fear against the greatest corporations in the country when they seek to evade the law. He has before him the problem of perfecting the organization of the government, the tariff issue is yet to be decided. And there is the work which has been started of conserving our national resources. Taft's intimate knowledge of the Philippines and Panama conditions are a guarantee that the questions which must constantly arise in those sections will be solved with great fairness and intelligence.

But laying all these aside. What does Taft's election mean to the world. The papers of all the capitals of the civilized countries in commenting on the outcome, see in it the refusal of the American people to take stock in dangerous economic theories. They see in it the restoration of prosperity, which has been waiting for a safe president.

The conditions in Europe in the financial world have been worse than in this country and the countries of the old world rely on us to start the new era of prosperity.

Already the great industries of the country have sent in their great orders—the suspense is over.

All that is needed is for the people of the United States to stand behind the president-elect.

We have a good man—put your confidence in him.

A WONDER THAT HAS PUZZLED MANY.

There are many people that are greatly puzzled over the wonderful effects of Root Juice. When this new medicine was first introduced it was generally thought that a new fake was born to die in a short time. But as time passes and so many testimonials are pouring in from all over the country from people who had given up hope of ever seeing another well day, and neighbor is telling neighbor of some great good received from the use of Root Juice, many people are wondering why this great remedy was not discovered years ago. What a great boon to human-kind is a remedy like Root Juice, a combination of nature's drugs that soothes and heals and tones the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. How sweet is health and how wonderful are the many cures that Root Juice has made of rheumatism, catarrh, indigestion, female weakness and other troubles of the digestive and secretory organs. Those who wish to learn of this great remedy should go to A. G. Luken & Co's drug store.

BRYAN NOW BOWED DOWN IN DEFEAT BUT TAKES DEFEAT WITH SMILE AND SAYS HE IS GLAD HIS FRIENDS WON

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—While not caring to discuss at this time the political effect of the democratic victory in his home state or analyze the causes, W. J. Bryan in an informal talk to a number of friends who called on him, expressed his pleasure at the result in Nebraska and the satisfaction it afforded him to learn of the election of so many of his political and personal friends.

A delegation numbering nearly a hundred from Lincoln visited Mr. Bryan at Fairview to express to him their confidence and devotion to him, and to assure him that such was the sentiment of a majority of the people of his city and state. Mr. Bryan in responding said:

"I am highly gratified over the results in this state. The national defeat has not been such a disappointment.

ment, for we have had so many things to console us. I hope I have convinced my friends that running for office has only been an incident to my work. My heart has never been set on holding office, but I wanted to do certain work, and it looked as though the presidency might offer the opportunity to do that work. I am sure that in private life I shall have the chance to do something. One is not required to hold office in order to do big things; one is simply required to do those things within his reach, and that much is within the reach of each of us.

Will Work for Reforms.

Personally I shall find as much joy being out of office, if the returns show I must be, as I would be in office. I hope still to be of influence to bring about needed reforms. I appreciate very much the confidence and loyalty of the people near us. It has been the greatest comfort that the election has given us. The fact that those among whom we live have shown this confidence, we appreciate more than I can tell you. It has been very kind in you to come out here and visit us on this day."

The defeat he sustained did not weigh heavily on Mr. Bryan. He was one of the most cheerful of those at his home and laughed and joked good-naturedly with his visitors. Last night Mr. Bryan was the guest of honor at the banquet of the State Teachers' association, where he made a short address. He has no other immediate plans than to rest at home following his canvass.

Mr. Bryan slept the sleep of health and weariness on the night of his defeat for the third time in the election for the presidency. In the language of his daughter, he "slept like a babe."

TO SAVE FORAKER

Republicans in Ohio Will Name Him Before Harmon Takes His Seat.

HOUSE TO BE REPUBLICAN.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—The election of a republican to succeed Joseph Benson Foraker to the United States senate is assured by returns indicating that the republicans have carried the general assembly by a substantial joint majority.

A proposed amendment to the constitution providing for a session of the legislature in January next failed of passage. When this became known, it was said the democratic governor-elect, Judson Harmon, would have the opportunity to name a senator to serve from the expiration of Senator Foraker's term in March next until following January when the next regular session of this assembly would be held. However it has been disclosed that the republicans plan to ask Governor Harris to call a special session before the term of Mr. Harmon begins for the selection of Foraker's successor.

This could be called since the term of the legislature begins Jan. 1, ten days before that of the new governor. Each big city in Ohio and every county has contributed its share to the total precincts reported both on president and governor, so that the totals on the precincts in the state represents all possible sections and shades of opinion. This being the case the same proportionate strength is likely to continue throughout the state and Taft's fifty or more thousands and Harmon's plurality of 10,000 will come very close of the pluralities of those candidates on the full vote.

If you suffer from constipation and liver trouble Foley's Orino Laxative will cure you permanently by stimulating the digestive organs so they will act naturally. Foley's Orino Laxative does not gripe, is pleasant to take and you do not have to take laxatives continually after taking Orino. Why continue to be the slave of pills and tablets. A. G. Luken & Co.

"What's the matter, old man?"

"I was out last night where a lot of my friends repeatedly sang that I was a jolly good fellow."

"Weren't you?"

"I guess I was, all right, but I can't get my wife to believe it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Is a Popular Man in New York But Hughes is More Popular

LEWIS S. CHANLER.

Chanler was the Democratic candidate for governor in New York, but Governor Hughes, who was expected to be defeated has triumphed over his Democratic rival. Mr. Chanler, however, is one of the most popular men in the Empire state.

TERRE HAUTE PORTER FIRES ON A CROWD

Two Injured by Bullets From Rifle.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 5.—With a man shooting at them as fast as he could with a repeating rifle, the twenty-five glass blowers, who assembled in Hugh O'Donnell's saloon, Maple avenue and North Thirteenth street, to discuss the outcome of the election Tuesday, ungracefully scrambled for safety, but two men were seriously wounded. Allie Cloud of Belleville, Ill., was shot in the back and Edward Reilly, 1927 North Eleventh street, this city, received a bullet in the left arm. Cloud may die.

While the crowd was discussing the election of Marshall, Patrick Farrell, who had been porter in the saloon, appeared at the window near the door and without a word of warning began shooting. The first shot shaved O'Donnell's head and shattered the glass back of the cigar case near which he was standing.

The proprietor precipitately fled with his guests toward the rear of the saloon. Farrell continued firing, grazing David Landhaft's shoulders and breaking the mirror near the cash register. O'Donnell dropped behind the bar and the marksman lowered his weapon, the next three bullets lodging in the woodwork. Farrell then entered the building where he fired three more shots, making eight in all.

One of the bullets struck Allie Cloud, familiarly known as "Cloudy," in the small of the back, and striking the hip bone, ranged upward, inflicting a probably fatal wound. Another shot struck Edward Reilly in the left arm shattering the bone between the elbow and the shoulder. Both men were taken to St. Anthony's hospital. Two of the men, William Stringer and Avid Landhaft, after making hurried exits from the rear came around in front and disarmed Farrell.

MADE LO' G TRIPS TO GET THEIR VOTE

Young Men Returned to Richmond for Election.

Many of the city's young voters who are employed elsewhere or are attending college were home to vote. Several of them came considerable distances in order to cast their ballot, but it is probable Oliver Thomas, who journeyed from Brooklyn, N. Y., holds the honors for long journeys. Nearly all of those coming home to vote have left on the return trip.

For many young men in college, it was their first vote and for this reason not to be missed. The majority of the local contingent at the Indiana colleges could make the trip without interfering with their studies. Those who came from a greater distance were handicapped somewhat. Will Reiler, who attends law school in Virginia probably came farther than any of the college boys. Will Wiggins came from Pittsburg and Pleasant Unthank and Gus Huey from Chicago.

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.
