The Woman's Home and Foreign

IN THE WOMAN'S WORLD

What They Are Doing--Little Things of Interest.

A SUFFRAGETTE HERE.

Mrs. Philip Snowden, Wife of a Distinguished Member of Parliament.

Mrs. Philip Snowden, who recently arrived in this country from England, is not only the wife of a distinguished member of parliament, but is famous on her own account as a suffragette and a lecturer. During her stay in America she will talk on the subject nearest her heart, woman's rights, at a number of colleges and women's clubs.

Mrs. Snowden is young and passing fair, of the dainty pink and white type of English beauty. She is not of the most militant variety of the suffragettes. She has never been in jail or smashed a window or chained herself to a park railing so the police couldn't make her move along, but she marched at the head of the first monster procession in London last June between Lady Frances Balfour, sister-in-law of King Edward's sister, on one side and Mrs. Henry Pawcett, widow of Victoria's cabinet minister, on the other.

"We have hundreds of titled persons who are members and contributors to the movement," said Mrs. Snowden when interviewed the other day. "At one meeting alone, attended mainly by the aristocracy, we took up a collection of $35,000. I don't know what the duchesses of Marlborough is going to take, because she joined just before I came away. I think she was influenced by the Hon. Mrs. Bertrand Russell, sister-in-law of Countess Russell, who is also a suffragette. Mrs. Russell, who was formerly a Philadelphia girl, is a great friend of the duchess."

"Annie Kenney has brought more fashionable women into the movement than anybody. Annie Kenney is the little factory girl whom W. T. Stead has called the Joan of Arc of the movement. She started the whole thing with a question to John Burns at Albert hall one night soon after the Liberal government came in. Before an audience of 11,000 he was outlining what the Liberal party proposed to do for the various classes of men. Annie Kenney leaned out of a box and said, 'What are you going to do for the women?' The audience would have torn her in pieces if it could have got at her. At the same time Cristabel Pankhurst was doing the same thing at a meeting in Manchester, and she was put out of the hall with her clothes torn half off her. The things that have been done to the suffragettes by the stewards of political meetings in which they asked questions would not be believed in America."

Her Searchlight the Best Yet.

Women have not achieved much in the field of invention, but for the improvement of the searchlight Mrs. Bertha Ayrton is being honored by scientists in England. She is the only woman who holds membership in the British Institute of Electrical Engineers and the only woman who has received a medal from the Royal society of London for original, unaided research in electricity. She succeeded with the searchlight where men the world over failed. After experiments carried over several years had failed to increase range and illumination the British admiralty called in Professor Ayrton in the hope of making the searchlight more effective. Ayrton was puzzled, as other experts had been. His wife watched his work, and she finally expressed confidence in her ability to make an improvement. Ayrton gave her a free hand, engaging himself in other work. A couple of weeks ago the admiralty heads grew enthusiastic about the improved searchlight he exhibited before them. When they crowded around to congratulate him the professor said: "Congratulations my wife. She's the inventor; not I."

Do You Comb Your Hair Properly? "My hair is coming out by the handful," complained a woman to her hair-dresser recently.

"How do you comb it?" was the reply. "Half of my patients who complain of falling hair really are pulling it out by their own barbarous use of the comb."

"Never pull or tug at long hair; use a long, sweeping stroke if there are no

Missionary society of the First English Lutheran church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the church parlors instead of meeting with Mrs. Wettig as previously announced.

The members of the St. Paul's guild, an organization of the Episcopal church, will serve supper Wednesday evening in the parish house. These affairs are always enjoyable and are usually well attended. The following persons will assist in serving: Miss Juliet Swayne, Miss Josephine Cates, Mrs. Wickham Corwin, Mrs. Ray Holton, Mrs. Galen Lamb, Mrs. Milton Craighead, Mrs. Rudolph Leeds, Mrs. Charles Land, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Platt Robinson, and Mrs. Paul Comstock. All are cordially invited to attend.

All members of the Country club are invited to attend the card party which will be given at the club house, tomorrow afternoon. Bridge whist will be the game for the afternoon.

tangles. If there are, work at each one lightly and separately till it is removed.

"Always begin at the ends of the hair, working up gradually. If the tangles are very bad, it is much better to thread them with the fingers before touching with the comb."

"Easily tangled hair should always be combed in small strands, which are kept separate till the entire head has been gone over."

"In the case of an invalid whose hair has not been combed for several days it is well to rub a little oil or vaseline on the hair, which helps to take out the tangles more easily. Even for a short illness the hair should be parted down the middle from the forehead to the nape of the neck and two plaits made. Never endeavor to make the brush do the work of the comb."

"The brush is for smoothing, for giving that fine gloss so justly admired, not to be driven fiercely through a mass of tangles."

"Treat your hair gently, as a precious possession. Remember, it is 'woman's crowning glory.'"

Gay Bedroom Slippers.

Not all the bedroom slippers that are shown as novelties are copyable, but the gay effects in colored canvas, lined with quilted satin, can easily be made up from a good slipper pattern and sewed to a pair of soles.

The best way to manage is to rip up a pair of old bedroom slippers that fit well, cut out the shape in red, green, pink or any desired color of canvas such as is used for fancy work and cut similar pieces of quilted satin, either in the same or a contrasting tone.

How to Sew on Buttons.

The following is an excellent way of sewing buttons on children's coats, etc.: Make a good sized knot in your thread, which should be fairly coarse, then place a small pearl button on the inside of the coat. Put the needle first through the material, starting from the right side of the garment, then through the small button, then back again through the material and right through the big button.

Mice Don't Like Camphor.

Country people long ago discovered that lumps of camphor scattered through their pantries and cellars would drive off the pest of tiny red ants that sometimes and without apparent cause infest places where food is placed. It is now known that mice and rats also have an aversion to camphor and will not go where it is. A lump of it placed at the mouth of the carpenter is a sufficient deterrent. If one is in the habit of placing tablecloths in hampers to wait for washing day, a lump of camphor in a cheesecloth bag tied to the hamper will keep mice away and always be in its place.

Various Things to Remember.

When selecting the goods for your business or street shirt waist, remember that it is the color note that is the novelty. The colored stripe, both in linen and lawn, is extremely fashionable, especially when the stripe is of brown, porcelain or navy blue and lavender. Remember when planning your waists that simple styles are the smartest. Even the lingerie waist that reached the height of elaborateness is now seen in the plain tailored style. The one side frill is a favorite form of trimming and is made so that it can be buttoned into the waist.

South Dakota's Famous Divorce Mill is Wrecked by Election

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 9.—In the referendum of last Tuesday the people of South Dakota have voted overwhelmingly to end South Dakota's famous divorce mill. After the State Canvassing Board meets at Pierre the first week of next month and announces officially that the new law has been approved, it will be no longer possible for the discontented wives and husbands of the whole world to come to South Dakota, and by spending six months, obtain a secret hearing, freedom and the right to engage in more marriages. The 12 largest counties in the state on the law stands, yes, 15,805; no, 10,189.

The new law provides that the plaintiff in an action for divorce must have been an actual resident in good faith of this state for one year and of the county where an action is commenced for three months preceding the suit.

Not the least unpleasant by any means of the ill attendant upon a cold is the uncomfortable, unbecoming cold sore or fever blister. If taken in time its further development can often be stopped by the application of a bit of alum. Moisten this and rub gently, but thoroughly, over the spot.

To Remove Carpet Stains. Stains on carpet can often be removed by making a thick paste of fuller's earth to which a little ammonia has been added. Put on the paste thickly, let it stand twenty-four hours and brush off. Sometimes a second application is necessary.

Smileage. Nervous Traveler (to seat companion)—How fast should you say you were traveling?

THE BASTILLE.

Men and Methods in the Famous Old French Prison.

The Bastille as a prison was apparently better kept and cleaner than either Bicetre or the Chatelet, and imprisonment within its walls did not, it would seem, dishonor the prisoner or his family. A great many prisoners were charged as mad, and under this elastic term the violent maniac, the ambitious madman, the young spendthrift, the megalomaniac, the reacher for the philosopher's stone or the seer of perpetual motion—all these tiresome persons might be and were included.

How, then, did these prisoners live? In the underground cells or dungeons, as in the cells in the towers, the prisoners were on bread and water, as a rule. In the other rooms in the main building three meals were served a day, with drinkable wine—"vin potable." In certain cases, according to the quality and distinction of the prisoner, he might supplement the meager furniture of his prison and get a provision of books. Very favored persons were allowed their own servant if he would consent voluntarily to undergo confinement. Voltaire began to write the "Henriade" as prisoner in the Bastille; Abbe Morellet of the Encyclopedia speaks of the great fortress as the cradle of his fame, but we must remember that it was perhaps not advisable to say much about the Bastille when you were still living within its walls and that, as M. de Moulins has reminded us, "the old Spartans offered sacrifices to fear." Prisoners, moreover, had to sign on their release an elaborate declaration by which they swore never to divulge, directly or indirectly, anything they might have learned as prisoners concerning the Bastille.—Mrs. Frederic Harrison in Nineteenth Century.

A Feat For Blondin. "Speaking of the straight and narrow path," said a congressman, "reminds me of a story about a man I knew in Chicago who stayed very late at a dinner at the club. When he came out he started to walk in the middle of the street."

"Hey, John," said a friend who met him as he was making the best of his way along the car tracks, "why don't you walk on the sidewalks?" "Walk on the sidewalks?" snorted John. "Do you think I'm Blondin?"—Saturday Evening Post.

Got Tired Quick. A farmer hired a hand from town. The first morning the new hand went to work he accompanied the farmer into the hay field. They put on a load and hauled it to the barn. By the time it was unloaded it was 9 o'clock.

"Well," said the new hand from town, "what will we do now?" "What will we do now?" roared the farmer. "Why, we'll go after another load of hay!" "In that case," said the new hand from town, "I will resign."

ELEVEN VICTIMS OF A MAD DOG

One Victim Died—Others Take Treatment.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 9.—Since the death of 12-year-old Peter Grosse, from hydrophobia, eleven victims of the rabid dogs which caused the boy's death have been reported in the family's immediate neighborhood. Through the generosity of the citizens of Terre Haute, who have subscribed liberally to the fund started by the Terre Haute Star, eight of these will be sent to the Chicago Pasteur Institute. Three victims, Harry Anna and Cecelia Groose, accompanied by Mrs. George Grosse, the mother of 4-year-old Cecelia, left last night for Chicago where they began treatment this morning.

The latest case reported is that of Nicholas Machanick, whose mother will take him to Chicago today along with those sent by the Star.

HUMBLED THE PRINCESS.

Fall of a Dusky Beauty From the South Sea Islands.

One night John Sharp Williams, while a student at Heidelberg, Germany, was in attendance upon a swell function at which the guest of honor was a dark skinned princess alleged to hail from one of the south sea islands. This princess was magnificently bedecked and bejeweled, and her warm olive complexion, set off by a mass of black, kinky hair, full red lips, snow white teeth and black, sparkling eyes, made her the center of the function. The masculine-like Germans swarmed about her like bees around a honeysuckle vine, and even Dutch femininity could not discount the charm of her manner or the beauty of her person.

John Sharp was introduced, of course, and immediately upon obtaining a near view of the princess (?) his southern instincts rose to the surface and his southern blood began to boil. Watching his opportunity, he managed to get to the beauty's elbow. Then, reducing his voice to a low, but perfectly audible key, he sent into her startled and alarming query:

"Look here, nigger, where did you come from?"

Panic stricken and with all her self possession scattered, the alleged princess turned upon her interrogator as she heard the familiar intonation of the southerner and looked into his unrelenting face. Then she stammered: "Fum South Carolina, boss, but for de Lawd's sake don't tell it."

Sorority Girls in Scanty Gowns Invade Wichita, Kan. Homes

Wichita, Kas., Nov. 9.—The homes of some of the best people of Wichita were entered Saturday night, scarcely without invitation, and the families more or less shocked by pretty girls, scantily, but daintily clad, who, after slipping by the person who answered their ring of the door bell, entered the parlors in the presence of the household and gave a realistic exhibition of plain and fancy dancing. The dancers departed as suddenly as they came and left the spectators speechless. The girls were of the exclusive smart set.

Still another family gasped for breath when a petite young woman, attired only in a bathing costume, such as is calculated to make the folks on the bathing beaches sit up and take notice, entered the home and, mounting a chair, did a diving "stunt," using a folded rug as the pool. The family sat helpless until the girl had disappeared and then began to get busy over the telephone. The girls and their actions were town talk Sunday. People wanted to know what it all meant, and the solution of election bets was not accepted, because girls don't bet on elections—not that way.

It finally leaked out through one of the society women of the city that it was all a part of the initiation ceremony of the Lambda Alpha Lambda Sorority. The girls are well known here and at schools. They are Miss Helen Brooks, Miss Ruth Dorsey, Miss Alva Hamilton, and Miss Genevieve Reilly.

"It was downright mean for the members of the sorority to exact such embarrassing things of us," said one of the girls who had done her stunt. "But we promised to do our part and we did it."

The good people of Wichita are shocked.

The Lambda Alpha Lambda is a national sorority. It includes among its members only those of the highest social and school standing and its membership is limited. There are many of the alumni members here.

THE SCRAP BOOK

A Fine Thrust.

The Grand Prix, the famous French race that concludes the Paris season, is wound up in the evening by lavish private dinners at all the fashionable restaurants. A New York man once celebrated too well. He gave at the Cafe Americain a large supper, and the next afternoon an overseer saw a valet carrying to this man's room a fresh water bath.

"What are you doing with that bath?" the overseer asked. "I'm taking it to No. 72, sir," said the waiter. "But it is nearly 5 o'clock."

"He is still in bed, sir." "But I thought," said the puzzled overseer, "that I saw you carrying a very large fresh water bath to No. 72 a couple of hours ago."

"So you did, sir," said the waiter. "He drank that."

PATIENCE.

I stood within the halls of Joy And asked if one could point the way To sorrow's house. With manner coy, Impatiently, each answered, "Nay."

I knocked upon the door of Pain. "Can tell where Sorrow lives?" I cried. But there, too, I had sought in vain. "Joy is my mother," Pain replied.

Then met I one whose face serene Was as a light upon the earth. "Sorrow," she said, with gentle mien— "Ah, yes! 'Twas she that gave me birth."

—Beth Slater Whitson in Metropolitan Magazine.

He Was Admitted. A fussy military official once devised a system which compelled every one who went on business to General Banks to procure a ticket from a member of the staff, the presentation of which at the door gained him admission. One day a burly colonel came to the door of the private office at headquarters and requested that his name be given to the general.

"Have you a ticket?" he was asked. "A ticket!" echoed the colonel, with scorn. "No, sir, I haven't."

"You can't enter here without one," was the reply.

"Sir," said the colonel, "when General Banks becomes a puppet show and I have 25 cents to spare I'll buy a ticket to see him, not before." He was admitted.

Tom and Jerry. Tom Reed and Jerry Simpson, the noted Populist congressmen, were great friends. Their good relationship came after this incident:

"Say, Jerry," said Reed one day, "why are you a Populist?"

"For the same reason," said Simpson, "that you are a Republican. A majority of the people of our respective districts are of our way of thinking."

Tended to His Part. Some years ago the Yankee schooner Sally Ann, under command of Captain Spooner, was beating up the Connecticut river. Mr. Comstock, the mate, was at his station forward. According to his notion of things the schooner was getting a "leettle" too near certain mud flats which lay along the harbour shore. So aft he went to the captain and, with his hat cocked on one side, said:

"Cap'n Spooner, you're getting a leettle too close to them flats. Hadn't you better go about?"

The captain glared at him. "Mr. Comstock, jest you go for'ard and tend to your part of the skuner. I'll tend to mine."

Mr. Comstock went for'ard in high dudgeon. "Boys," he bellowed out, "see that that er mud hook's all clear for lettin' go!"

"Aye, aye, sir!" "Let go, then!" he roared. Down went the anchor, and rattled the chains, and like a flash the Sally Ann came luffing into the wind and then brought up all standing. Mr.

ConStable walked aft and touched 'nub hat. "Well, cap'n, my part of the skuner is to anchor."—Everybody's.

The Difference of a Letter.

A professor in the University of Berlin who came to this country a year ago was much surprised when he traveled in a sleeping car to be asked by the porter for his birth ticket. "My birth ticket?" he said. "I have my passport, I have my letter of credit, and I have even in my trunk my certificate of vaccination, but why the railroad should want my birth ticket I do not see."

"But," said the porter, "I must know whether you have upper or lower berth."

"Upper, of course," said the German. "Look at my passport. Does it not say, 'Well and highly born?'"

Practical Economy.

If you would succeed in business never spend a cent more than you earn. No matter how small your earnings, you should master this art. I use the word "art" advisedly, as so many young men appear to fritter away without so much as a thought all their earnings.—Marshall Field.

Journalistic Enterprise.

While stopping at a little Hoosier hotel in the course of a hunting trip in his native state Booth Tarkington lost one of his dogs.

"Have you a newspaper in town?" he asked of the landlord.

"Right across the way, there, back of the shoemaker's," the landlord told him. "The Daily News, best little paper of its size in the state."

The editor, the printer and the printer's devil were all busy doing justice to Mr. Tarkington with an "in our midst" paragraph when the novelist arrived.

"I've just lost a dog," Tarkington explained after he had introduced himself, "and I'd like to have you insert this ad for me: 'Fifty dollars reward for the return of a pointer dog answering to the name of Rex. Disappeared from the yard of the Mansion House Monday night.'"

"Why, we were just going to press, sir," the editor said, "but we'll be only too glad to hold the edition for your ad."

Mr. Tarkington returned to the hotel. After a few minutes he decided, however, that it might be well to add "No questions asked" to his advertisement and returned to the Daily News office.

The place was deserted save for the skinny little freckle faced devil, who sat perched on a high stool, gazing wistfully out of the window. "Where is everybody?" Tarkington asked.

"Gawn to hunt th' dawg," replied the boy without removing his gaze from the distant fields.—Everybody's.

D'Ennery's Wit.

The Empress Eugenie once asked D'Ennery, the French dramatist, after the performance of one of his plays at the Tuileries, "How did your heroine get the poison that was so necessary for the denouement?" "Ah, your majesty," said D'Ennery, "that's just what I've never succeeded in getting her to tell."

Another time the directors of a theater where he drama, "The Two Orphans," was being rehearsed asked him what he was dissatisfied with. "Oh," he replied, "it's only that each of you has got an imbecile for a partner."
