FORMER SENATOR
SLAIN IN STREET

Edward W. Carmack of Tennessee Victim of Father and Son.

ENDS POLITICAL FIGHT.

COL. COOPER AND SON WERE AT-TACKED BY CARMACK IN NEWS-PAPER FOR PART THE COLON-EL PLAYED IN POLITICS.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Former United States Senator Edward W. Carmack, was slain in a revolver battle with Col. Duncan Cooper and his son, Robin Cooper, on the streets here Monday.

The younger Cooper who seems to have been the one who killed Carmack was wounded in the shoulder by a shot from Carmack's revolver. A special session of the grand jury has been called.

The shooting was the outcome of political enmity between the Coopers and Carmack. The latter had been scoring both father and son in the editorial columns of his paper, the Nashville Tennessean.

So bitter had become the anger of the Coopers that the younger, Robin, sent former State Treasurer Craig to tell Carmack that he would be shot unless he ceased his editorial attacks Carmack's only answer was to print another editorial Monday morning.
He also armed himself at the pleas of his friends.

Story of the Shooting.

Late Monday afternoon Mr. Carmack was standing on the street in front of the Polk flats in North Seventh avenue, talking to a young woman, when the Coopers approached.

The father and son both drew revolvers, at the same time requesting the former senator to "come from behind that lady."

The former senator immediately stepped to one side, and as he did so drew a pistol and fired. Bystanders say this was the shot which struck the younger Cooper.

Three shots were fired at Mr. Carmack, all three taking effect in his body. He was wounded in the left breast, in the back of the neck and in the left shoulder.

It is said by some of the witnesses that the two last shots were fired after Carmack had fallen.

Elder Cooper Denies Firing.

Duncan Cooper, the father, declares that he did not fire a shot in the melee, but the fact only one chamber of the pistol carried by young Robin Cooper was discharged seems to contradict this statement.

An ambulance carried the body of Mr. Carmack to an undertaking establishment.

Young Cooper later was taken to a hospital and Col. Cooper is held at police headquarters. He has made no statement.

The Editorial.

The quarrel between Carmack and the Coopers came to a head soon after the democratic primaries last spring.
Carmack at that time was candidate for the gubernatorial nomination on the state wide prohibition plank. He was defeated by Patterson, who later was re-elected to the office. Since that defeat Carmack has been caustic in his editorials in the Tennessean, especially toward the elder Cooper, whom he accused of having jebbed him out of the nomination.

In one editorial commenting upon the friendship between Cooper and Patterson, once great enemies, Mr.
Carmack wrote:

"To Maj. Duncan Brown Cooper, who wrought to great coalition; who achieved the harmonious confluence of incompatible elements; who welded the pewter handle to the wooden spoon; who grafted the dead bough to the living tree and made it bloom and blend with golden fruit; who made playmates of the lamb and the leopard and boon companions of the spider and the fly; who made soda and vinegar to dwell placidly in the same bottle and who taught oil and water how they might agree—to Maj.
Duncan Brown Cooper, the great dip-lomate of the political Zwickbund, be all honor and glory forever."

RESOLUTIONS ARE PASSED BY THE BOARD

Tribute Paid to Life of Mrs.
Whitridge.

As a token of love and respect, the board of associated charities at its November meeting, adopted resolutions expressing the grief of the board owing to the death of the late Mrs.
Mary Whitridge. Mrs. Whitridge before her death was one of the leading charity workers of the city and her loss is keenly felt. A pretty tribute is paid to the deceased.

Not His Fault.
Dad—Johnnie, your teacher tells me that you are at the foot of your class.
How's that? Johnnie—That ain't my fault, dad. They've taken Tommy Tuff out and sent him to a reform school—Exchange.

Better Left Unsaid.
Caller—So sorry to hear of your motor accident. Enthusiastic Motorist—Oh, thanks! It's nothing. Expect to live through many more. Caller—Oh, I trust not!—London Tit-Bits.

Noble discontent is the path to heaven.—Higginson.

First Office Boy—I told the governor to look at the dark circles under my eyes and see if I didn't need a day off.
Second Office Boy—What did the old grouch say?
First Office Boy—He said I needed a bar of soap.—London Mail.
