

QUAKERS TO HOLD BIG CONFERENCE

Quarterly Meetings Will Discuss Mission Work Here Next Week.

HOLD TWO DAYS' SESSION.

MEETING UNDER DIRECTION OF CHARLES E. TEBBETTS—MISSIONARIES WILL SPEAK EACH EVENING.

The Whitewater, Dublin, New Garden, Eastern and Westfield quarterly meetings of the Friends' church will hold a missionary conference Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at the South Eighth Street Friends' church. The meetings will be held under the direction of Charles E. Tebbetts, general secretary of the American Friends' Board of Foreign Missions, and the missionary vice presidents of the quarterly meetings represented.

This conference will be attended by Mr. and Mrs. A. Warburton, English Friends' missionaries to west China. Mr. Warburton will deliver an address each evening. He has an interesting story to tell and no doubt large audiences will attend his lecture each evening. Mr. and Mrs. Warburton are now enroute to China after a year's leave of absence in England.

THE CITY IN BRIEF

Frank Lancaster is suffering from an abscess.

Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Ingalls of Minneapolis, are in the city today.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams of East Main street, have gone to Grand Island, Neb., where they will visit during the next several weeks.

To the surprise of every one along the first square on North Ninth street, the board of public works placed a gang of men to work in cleaning the street.

Political Reformers Pleased By Few Pledges Made During Campaign

Special to Palladium.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Political reformers find much encouragement in the assurances given President-elect Taft, by National Chairman Hitchcock that the next president will go into office unencumbered by any pledges made during the campaign other than those outlined in the national platform and enunciated by the candidate himself in his public speeches. With the possible exception of Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Taft will go into office freer than any of his predecessors.

There have been presidents so heavily mortgaged, both in the matter of appointments and as to policy, that they had left scarcely an opportunity to exercise judgment of their own. It used to be the common thing in national conventions to trade cabinet, diplomatic and other important offices for votes and later on, when it came to raising campaign funds, promises were made that it would have been disastrous to have made public. Even Abraham Lincoln found, after the election, that his friends had pledged him to things of which he did not approve, but the ethics of politics at that time were such that Lincoln felt obligated to redeem the pledges. When McKinley became president in 1897 he found that his campaign managers had committed him to the appointment of hundreds of men of whom he had scarcely heard. Most of these pledges he redeemed, but in two or three cases he refused to do so and all the urging of Mark Hanna was in vain.

Mr. Roosevelt, while serving as assistant secretary of the navy, became acquainted with some of the embarrassments Mr. McKinley had experienced by reason of campaign pledges and when he became himself a candidate for the presidency he instructed his managers to make no promises in his name. The result has shown in Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet. More than ever before it has been a board of personal advisors to the president rather than an advisory board of the party in power.

Changes in Cabinet.

Mr. Roosevelt's administration has been notable also for the number of changes in it. The list is somewhat of an amazing one.

Secretaries of State—John Hay, Elihu Root.

Secretaries of the Treasury—Lyman J. Gage, Leslie M. Shaw, George B. Cortelyou.

Secretaries of War—Elihu Root, William H. Taft, Luke Wright.

Secretaries of the Interior—Ethan A. Hitchcock, James R. Garfield.

Secretaries of the Navy—John D. Long, William H. Moody, Paul Morton, Charles J. Bonaparte, Victor H. Metcalf.

Secretary of Agriculture—James Wilson.

Postmasters General—Charles Emory Smith, Henry C. Payne, Robert J. Wynne, George B. Cortelyou, George Von L. Meyer.

Attorneys General—Philander C. Knox, William H. Moody, Charles J. Bonaparte.

Secretaries of Commerce and Labor—George B. Cortelyou, Victor H. Metcalf, Oscar Strauss.

Should Mr. Root be elected senator from New York it is likely the president would have opportunity to appoint another secretary of state, although there is no legal reason why he should not continue at the head of the cabinet until time for him to take the oath as senator.

Home For Embassadors.

The administration is going to make a determined effort this winter to have congress make a real beginning toward the purchase or erection of embassies and legation houses in the principal capitals of the world. We now own legation properties in Turkey, Japan, Siam and China, they have been acquired because of the peculiar ex-territorial conditions existing in those countries, but elsewhere our diplomatic representatives are in rented quarters.

Congress makes an annual allowance for rent at each post, but only in a few instances is it adequate to meet the charges our ministers and ambassadors have to pay. Some of them spend several times their official salaries for rent alone, but when they get to that length it is because they are millionaires and want to make a splurge socially.

This very fact that multimillionaires rent palaces in London, Paris, Berlin and elsewhere is one of the main arguments in favor of the government acquiring diplomatic residences. It makes it exceedingly unpleasant for the poor man who is appointed to succeed a rich man, as was demonstrated by the Tower-Hill incident at Berlin.

Most of the principal powers own their embassies and legations in Washington, as do a number of the second and third rate countries.

ALMA MCCOY BURIED.

Services Held For Girl Who Burned to Death Thursday.

Hollandsburg, O., Nov. 14.—The funeral of little Alma McCoy, who was burned to death Tuesday while starting a fire in the cook stove at her home, was held Thursday afternoon at the home. Services were conducted by the Rev. T. G. Williams. The burial was at the local cemetery. The little girl was burned to death in view of her bed-ridden father, Robert McCoy, who was unable to assist her because he is totally disabled by paralysis.

DEFIED "THIRTEEN."

Friends of a local piano tuner were making sport of him yesterday, because of the combinations of thirteen that surrounded him, while about his work. It was Friday, the thirteenth day of the month and he was in ward thirteen of the Eastern Indiana Hospital for the insane tuning the thirteenth piano that he had worked on during the week. Is there anything in environment?

No Better Half.

She—So the fortune teller told you that you would never marry. He—Yes—that is, indirectly. She—What did she say? He—She said I was born to command.—Exchange.

The Sunrise Of Life.

Infants and children are constantly needing a "rative." It is important to know what to give them. Their stomachs and bowels are not strong for salts, purgative waters or cathartics. Powders or tablets. Give them a mild, "rative," gentle, laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which sells at the "n" of 50 cents or $1 at drug stores. It is a great remedy for you to have in the house when they need it.

SAVINGS BANKS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Garfield Committee Considers Installing Them.

The council committees are working with a number of questions that will later be taken up in council. One of the topics before the general exercise committee is the establishment of a school savings bank. It is claimed that this method of teaching business habits is very successful in the schools where these banks are established.

The basket ball teams had their first work-out this week. There are four teams of girls with sixteen players to each team. The boys' squad is divided into eight teams. There are also two teams of polo players.

Notices have been sent to parents whose children are below the standard grade in the second month's work. Pupils who fall in two subjects cannot take part in the school game. Several players have fallen under the ban this month. The loss of the playing privilege usually acts as a spur to more efficient work.

Professor Hamilton of the high school visited the Latin classes in Garfield Thursday.

At the Monday evening teachers' meeting the teachers gave their reports of visits to the schools of other cities. By this method more benefit and pleasure were derived from visiting day. They all reported an enjoyable and a profitable trip.

SCARLET FEVER.

A Scourge of White Races in All Ages and Countries.

Now that smallpox, thanks to compulsory vaccination, has become a rarity in civilized communities, scarlet fever steps forward as the worst of the eruptive diseases of childhood.

It is a malady of enormous antiquity. Thucydides, writing nearly 500 years before the beginning of our era, called it a heritage from the remote past.

It has scourged the white races in all ages and all countries, and the physicians of all schools have leveled their heaviest artillery upon it. Yet it remains a puzzle unsolved and an enemy unconquered even today.

We are in doubt as to its cause, and there is no drug or antitoxin that will cure it. But despite all this the death rate from scarlet fever is steadily declining, and we may expect it to decline more and more as the years go by.

The reason for this, I take it, lies in the fact that the modern doctor is a great deal more sparing with pills and powders than his predecessor and a great deal more lavish with water, air and antiseptics. In the old days it was customary to dose scarlet fever patients with all sorts of violent remedies in staggering quantities, and as a result many of them died. Today medicines are but minor auxiliaries in the sickroom, and both doctor and nurse devote their main energies to preventing a spread of the infection.—Delineator.

A Worthy Desire.

An ambitious young Chicagoan called upon a publisher of novels in that city, to whom he imparted confidentially the information that he had decided to "write a book" and that he would be pleased to afford the publisher the chance to bring it out.

"May I venture to inquire as to the nature of the book you propose to write?" asked the publisher very politely.

"Oh," came in an offhand way from the aspirant for fame, "I think of doing something on the line of 'Les Miserables,' only livelier, you know!"—Lippincott's.

Spoiled His Appetite.

"Every bit of food on this table," said the serving lady to Lamson as he sat down to eat at the church supper, "was cooked by your wife."

"Oh, I don't mind," rejoined Lamson faintly. "I'm not a bit hungry, anyway!"—New York Times.

A Fizzle.

Doctor—Did your husband follow my directions? Did he take the medicine I left for him religiously? Patient's Wife—I'm afraid not, doctor. He swore every time I gave him a dose.—Boston Transcript.
