NEW COINS RECEIVED

Gold Pieces Are Unique and in Great Favor With Bankers.

THE MOTTO IS RESTORED.

Local numismatists and bank employees are a unit in rejoicing over the new $2.50 and $5.00 gold coins, a small consignment of which have been received by the banks of this city fresh from the mints at Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco. The purpose of the new coins is to restore the motto "In God We Trust," and to make it possible for the coins to be stacked with convenience. Both purposes have been accomplished.

The design of the coin minted about two years ago, which raised such a hue and cry, has been abandoned entirely. The eagle, whose heavily feathered legs resembled trousers, has been modified and drawn true to life. The Indian head has also come in for improvement and has been made to resemble a real Indian. All designs instead of being in relief are sunk into the coin like a cameo. The effect is much more artistic and will render the coin more durable.

On the eagle side of the coin in a semi-circle at the top are the words "United States of America, while under the feet of the eagle is the date of the mintage. Above one wing are the words "E Pluribus Unum," and above the other, higher up, "In God We Trust." On the opposite side is a carefully modeled Indian head surrounded by twelve stars and the denomination of the coin's value. The edges of the $2.50 and the $5.00 denomination coins are milled with the usual straight line, while the $10.00 coins have stars around the edge. The new coins are not yet in general circulation in this city, the supply at the present time being limited.

HOMES DESIRED FOR CHILDREN.

"The agents of the Board of State Charities have in the past year been very successful in securing a large number of good homes for dependent children who are public wards. There are still a large number of desirable children available for placing in suitable homes. Doubtless there are many families that would make a home for a child. An important part of the Board's work is to bring the homeless child and the childless home together. The Board solicits the co-operation of all who are interested in securing proper homes in families for children." ## GILLILAN AN AUTHOR

IS A SPLENDID VOLUME.

"Including Finnigin," is the title of a book of verse from the pen of Strickland W. Gillilan, formerly city editor of the Palladium and now one of the best known humorists in the country.

Although Mr. Gillilan has been for several years writing for the leading periodicals and newspapers in the United States this is his first effort in issuing any of his works in book form. As usual Mr. Gillilan does not take this splendid literary contribution of his seriously. He asks the pardon of the great American public for his "persumption" and offers a laughable excuse for his "temerity." Why he should feel called upon to apologize for issuing such a book will cause his many local friends to wonder when they read it.

"King David, who used to do plain psalming for a recreation," says the famous Richmond poet-humorist, "once had it in for a friend of his, and wondered how he would get even. Then a thought came to David, and he gritted his teeth and said he wished his enemy might write a book. That would fix him."

"At least I have gratified a choice collection of enemies by writing a book; or rather by compiling one I had written by fits and starts for years and years. This bit of gratification to my foes is called 'Including Finnigin,' and has seventy-eight other of my versifications, funny and otherwise."

"At first I handed my collection of some thousands of verses to a friend, with the request that he eliminate the worst from them. After several weeks honest toil he said he couldn't do it; that he had found, ever once in awhile, one he thought was worst, but always found, afterward, a worse one. 'So I had to do it myself. The result is bound (to succeed) in two colors, both of which are green. It is really a beautiful book. I had no hand in that part of it.'"

The first poem in the book is "Finnigin to Finnigin," the most famous bit of dialect ever written, and which was composed while Mr. Gillilan was wearing out lead pencils at the Palladium office in response to the office boy's continual howl for "copy." The book is from the press of Pearson Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.

HUNTER KILLED BY DEER HE SHOT

Young Man Slain on Paddy's Mountain.

Lock Haven, Pa., Nov. 21.—John Everett, a young hunter, was killed near Coburn by a deer which he had shot. Everett with three companions, was hunting on Paddy's Mountain. He shot a buck and when it fell he put one foot on the animal and drew a knife to cut its throat. The prostrate animal made a lunge throwing Everett to the ground and at the same time it struck him in the abdomen with its sharp hoofs cutting him so that he died in a short time.

Watched Fifteen Years.

"For fifteen years I have watched the working of Bucklen's Arnica Salve; and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied. It has saved me many a doctor bill," says A. F. Hardy, of East Wilton, Maine. 25c. at A. G. Luce & Co. drug store.

Don't You Think So?

Don't you believe that that Thanksgiving turkey would be enjoyed just a little bit better if those small bills that have been worrying you for some time, were all paid off, and you could start the winter months with a "clean slate" with your creditors? Think it over. We believe that it would, and we would like to let you have the money with which to meet ALL these bills, and then let you repay us in payments that would suit your convenience. You would find it much more satisfactory to pay at ONE place on pay-day, instead of a number of them, and your creditors would also appreciate it. We loan money in sums of from $5 up, on household goods, pianos, livestock, farming implements and all other personal property, without removal, at a than can be had of any similar concern in the city. We give you all the time you may need in which to repay us, and make your payments weekly, monthly, quarterly, or such as may suit your convenience. Giving you 50 weeks in which to repay us, with all other amounts in like proportion. If these plans do not suit you, we have a number of others which we would be glad to explain to you at any time. On all loans we give you the privilege of paying the entire account at any time, we discounting it for all the unexpired time; also, in case of sickness, we grant extensions of payments free.
