A PARISIAN RUSE.

The Dressmaker's Lure That Ensnared the Americans. Grace Margaret Gould tells in the September Woman's Home Companion some of the ways the Parisian dress-making establishments sell their goods to American women. Here is one ruse that she saw worked in one of the biggest establishments in Paris: There was a sudden and evident commotion among the employees. "The princess! The princess! She has arrived!" they cried.

American eyes began to bulge. Out from a magnificent equipage stepped a regally gowning lady, attended by footmen and maid and received by the whole bowing establishment, to the neglect of all other customers. She was in a gracious mood this day and easy to be pleased, praising their past efforts and selecting several of their new creations without regard to cost. After she had made her departure amid like ceremonies there was no need of the saleswoman bothering her head over suggestions. Every American woman present wanted a gown copied from the one the princess had bought, and she got it after much pleading and at a price far beyond the limit she had set.

And the point of this tale is this: The princess was no princess, but an employee of the house. Every French gown has two prices—an American price and a French price. It is needless to say which is the greater price. Along about April the cry goes up, "The Americans are coming!" and then the prices go up too.

Along about November, when the Americans have left, you might almost say they are giving away gowns, only the Frenchman never does give away anything. Then it is that the Frenchwoman in general and the French actress in particular selects her wardrobe.

GUNNESS TRIAL

NEARING AN END

Dr. Haines Last Witness in Case Being Heard This Afternoon.

WOMAN TELLS OF ESCAPE.

SAYS SHE SAW RED AUTOMOBILE IN EARLY MORNING AND WITNESSED THE GUNNESS HOME BURNING.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 24.—The trial of Ray Lamphere, the farm hand, for the murder of Mrs. Belle Gunness and her three children, is drawing to a close. Dr. Walter S. Haines took the stand this afternoon but his testimony was not expected to consume more than an hour. He testified to the finding of strychnine and arsenic in the stomachs of Mrs. Gunness and two of the children.

"Louise" Gackle, a young woman working in a Laporte skirt factory, testified that at 3 o'clock on the morning of April 28, the date of the Gunness fire, a red automobile, covered with canvass, passed her window. Miss Gackle lives on Park avenue, the road from Laporte to the Gunness farm.

"I had been sick," testified Miss Gackle, "and could not sleep. I saw a red glow in the sky as of a fire and went to the window, discovering the blaze in the direction of the Gunness farm. When I was looking the automobile went by, but I could not see who were the occupants of the machine." This same auto, or one of the same description, was seen later in the morning going through the town of Hobart and also through Valparaiso.

Was Certain as to the Time. The witness was asked how she knew that it was 3 o'clock in the morning that she saw the fire and the automobile. She said she was taking medicine every hour, and had a clock by the medicine glasses on the table near the bed.

In cross-examination the girl was asked by County Prosecutor Smith, why she had said nothing to the authorities about what she saw that morning.

"I did not want to be mixed up in such an awful scandal as this one," Miss Gackle answered, "so I kept perfectly still about it. But when I heard what they were swearing against poor Lamphere I thought it was my duty to speak out, so I told Mr. Worden last Saturday."

It has been the contention of the prosecution that the Gunness fire was started by Lamphere at 4 o'clock in the morning. Miss Gackle is the second witness produced by the defense who saw it burning at 3 o'clock in the morning.

Ground For an Alibi. As the case now stands the defense has introduced evidence to show that Mrs. Gunness was alive on July 9, more than two months after the fire, in which the state contends she perished. The defense has also offered evidence to show that the fire was seen before the hour alleged by the state that Lamphere left Mrs. Smith's residence, thereby laying ground for the alibi theory.
