CORSETS

There's not a woman in the country who knows anything about dress that isn't interested in the Directoire gowns. Naturally the proper corset for this effect is a matter of interest.

The "Directoire" or Kabo style, No. 1105, is the latest and most striking thing in the field of fashionable corsets. Extremely long over the hips and back, it reduces the form to perfect lines for the now famous Directoire effect. It is especially adapted for wear with Directoire gowns.

BE BROAD MINDED

Professor Chase of Earlham Appeals to Earlham Students.

AGREES WITH ROOSEVELT.

Prof. C. K. Chase of Earlham college this morning in an address delivered at the chapel, called upon the student body to be broad-minded in the relation of the church to the state. He heartily endorsed the statement made by President Roosevelt about ten days after Mr. Taft's election that a man's ability to hold public office should not be judged by his religious views. He stated that argument advanced by some people that Mr. Taft was not qualified for the presidency because he was a Unitarian was devoid of deep thought.

To substantiate his statement Prof. Chase pointed out that in several instances Catholics or Jews had represented protestant communities in offices of public trust and that there was not a case on record where such office holders had betrayed their public trust for religious principals.

He stated that the fact was when a man who was a member of a religious sect which was in the minority in the community in which he lived was elected to office, the fact that the eyes of the majority of the residents of the community were on him, anxiously and expectantly awaiting some move of his which would justify them to state he was betraying his trust in the interest of the religious sect of which he was a member, only served to make such official all the more careful in the performance of his public duties, and, in consequence, he proved to be an ideal officer.

Whether there is some occult reason for it or not is uncertain, but it is a fact that nearly all of the clocks in the hotels of New York city are persistently kept a little fast. The average of fastness in twelve hotels within a half a mile of Herald Square, as observed was four and one-half minutes.

POPULAR ISSUE FOR SCHOOL BONDS

these bonds as a means of investment. The bonds would be non-taxable. A popular issue would give the citizens greater interest in the project and at the same time keep the money invested in this city.

It is probable, also, that the number of bonds that could be obtained by any one person would be limited.

This would demand further sales and give a greater number of persons a chance to invest.

Tantalum is a serious rival of the diamond as regard hardness. In an attempt made recently to bore a hole through a tantalum plate a diamond drill was used, revolving 5,000 times a minute. After continuous drilling for seventy hours it was found that a small dent, about one-hundredth of an inch deep, had been made. It was a doubtful question which substance had suffered the greatest damage.

Y. M. C. A. WILL BE DONE NEXT WEEK

All Inside Decorating and Finishing Work Will Be Completed.

DEDICATION DEC. 27TH.

EVERYTHING WILL BE IN READINESS LONG BEFORE THE TIME SET—WHAT IS NOW BEING DONE.

The carpenters and the painters who are employed at the Richmond Y. M. C. A. building, will have completed their work by Saturday and the frescoers and the electricians and plumbers will have finished their work by the fore part of next week. The work is being rushed and from all prospects everything will be in readiness for the dedicatory services on the first Sunday after Christmas, which is December 27.

The painters, who are under the direction of C. E. Townsend, began to varnish the woodwork of the first floor today. The second, third and fourth floors have been completed. There are two men at present engaged in putting in the marble casing and this will be finished by tomorrow. The frescoers have finished one of the rooms on the first floor and will start on the lobby and just as soon as this is completed the electricians will put in the chandeliers.

The carpenters have put up all the swinging doors. At present there are several men engaged in cleaning up the upper floors. The basement has been completed with the exception of varnishing a few doors and cleaning up.

Richmond, Ind., December 2, 1908.

Jones Says "Not Guilty."

When Dr. Jones was informed this morning of the action taken by the Wayne County Medical society he said: "I am not guilty of the charges made. You will have to talk to my attorney, Byram Robbins."

"Is that all the statement you care to make, Doctor?" he was asked.

"That's enough, isn't it?" he answered.

BLOODY BATTLE FOUGHT BETWEEN INSURGENTS AND THE RESIDENTS

the flag over the shoulders of the deposed president to protect him.

An immense crowd of men and women had assembled at the wharf, and the arrival of the presidential carriage escorted by a battalion of infantry and a squadron of cavalry, under command of General Hippolyte, was the signal for wild tumult and riot.

Big Mob Lines Street.

All along the route the people who lined the streets shouted, jeered and cursed at the fallen president, but when the landing stage was reached the mob lost all restraint. The scene was tragic and shameful. Infuriated women broke through the cordon of troops and shrieked the coarsest insults into the very face of the president, who strove bravely to appear undismayed.

They tried to hurl themselves upon Alexis and fought with hands and feet against the soldiers, who found difficulty in forcing them back. In order to disengage him, the troops fired several shots. A space was cleared and Alexis, with the French colors draped about him, was hurried aboard a skiff in tow of a steam launch, his suite tumbling into the skiff after him.

Deserted by his ministers, abandoned by those that had put him into high office and reviled by the whole population, Alexis had little chance of escaping, except through the intervention of the representatives of the French government. His guard had been reduced to a minimum through attrition, and only a few of the troops remained loyal.

The three divisions which had been posted at the crossroads to oppose the march of General Simon's forces—what was left of them—came back into the city this morning in disorder. The force was made up of soldiers from the northern part of the republic, and these now have fled after having suffered civilians to disarm them without resistance.

Foreign War Ships Ready.

A catastrophe was feared if the palace was invaded by the populace. In such an event the foreign consuls were ready to have landed detachments of sailors and marines from the war ships in port in order to protect the interests of the citizens of their respective nations.

Taggart Opposed.

There are still a good many people who believe that if John W. Kern is elected senator, it will be in spite of Tom Taggart and his support. There is no question but that the fact that Taggart is helping Kern, will drive some votes into some other camp. Of course, Taggart will be able to deliver a number of votes to Kern, but he will also drive some away.

One senatorial candidate says he knows positively of six members of the legislature who declare that if they see at any time any direct evidence that Taggart is behind Kern, they will leave Kern and vote for some other candidate. And it is believed that if there are six of that mind there are more.

Slack is Active.

L. Ert Slack is making a big play for second choice votes for the senatorship. He does not admit that he will not be the first choice of the democratic caucus, but, just the same, he is not taking any chances nor neglecting any opportunity to build fences to land on second choice if he falls on first.

All over the state Slack is hining up his friends and pledging all the votes he can get. Wherever he is unable to get a promise of first choice he tries to get the member of the legislature to agree to vote for him in case his candidate cannot be elected and gets out of the race.

Slack says he is meeting with success in that line, and that when the vote is taken there will be surprise in store for some one. But on the other hand, Slack is not running as well in some of the counties as his friends expected he would. For instance, in the Eighth district, where Slack was supposed to have a lead over any other candidate, there is a strong indication that Shively is gaining ground and that he will probably break even with Slack in that district. Kern will get some of the votes, but will have to fight for all he gets in the Eighth, outside of Madison county.

There is a lot of Shively sentiment in the Eleventh district that is coming to the surface in the last few days. Particularly is this true of Cass and one or two other counties, but Slack will probably lead in the Eleventh.

It is believed now that no new candidates for senator will show up. The field will probably remain as it stands now, with John W. Kern, L. Ert Slack, John E. Lamb, B. F. Shively, G. V. Menzies and Edward G. Hoffmann as the candidates. The campaign has progressed to such a point that it probably would be foolish for anyone else to enter. The lines are pretty well drawn among the candidates, in fact, so well drawn that it would be only by a miracle that a new candidate could make any headones from now on may be disregarded.

Kern is sending out a little booklet to members of the legislature in the interest of his candidacy. The book contains newspaper clippings complimentary to him. They represent newspapers in sixty counties. There are also some resolutions adopted by several county committees, favoring him for senator.
