Expected It Will Be Inaugurated When D. & W. Franchise Is Signed.

SUCH ACTION IS LIKELY.

FRANCHISE COMMITTEE EXPECTED TO REPORT FAVORABLY TO COUNCIL ON MATTER—WORK CAR RUN THROUGH GLEN.

It is almost an assured fact that the franchise committee of council will report at the next session, Monday, December 21, favoring the ratification of the Dayton & Western franchise. A small class of citizens have protested against the ratification because it authorizes the company to operate freight cars over the Glen Miller line.

Members of the committee who have consulted with those citizens who have opposed the franchise, learn that the protestors have been laboring under the impression that if this franchise is turned down by council, it will prevent cars from being operated through the Glen.

Council members point out that it is already possible for the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern traction company to operate freight cars through the park as the franchise recently given this company by the board and the city council authorizes this.

"In granting the Dayton & Western traction company a franchise which permits it to operate its cars through the Glen, we are only conferring on this company the same privilege we, some weeks ago, extended to the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern. Consequently I see no reason for there being any opposition to permitting D. & W. cars to run through the Glen," said a councilman this morning.

For the first time today a car was operated over the new Glen line. This was a work car. As soon as the D. & W. franchise is ratified by council it is quite probable that the line will at once be used for freight purposes.

Stevenson and the Beggar.
While walking in London one afternoon Robert Louis Stevenson and Edmund Gosse met a stalwart beggar whom Gosse refused to aid. Stevenson, however, waved and finally handed him a sixpence. The man pocketed the coin, forbore to thank his benefactor, but, fixing his eyes on Gosse, said in a loud voice, "And what is the other little gentleman going to give me?" "In future," said Stevenson as they strode coldly on, "I shall be the other little gentleman."

The Division of Time.
The division of time into hours was practiced among the Babylonians from remote antiquity, but it was Hipparchus, the philosopher, who introduced the Babylonian hour into Europe. The sexagesimal system of notation was chosen by that ancient people because there is no number having so many divisions as sixty. The Babylonians divided the daily journey of the sun, the ruler of the day, into twenty-four paragraphs. Each paragraph, or hour, was subdivided into sixty minutes, and that again into sixty seconds. They compared the progress made by the sun during one hour at the time of the equinox to the progress made by a good walker in the same period of time, both covering one paragraph, and the course of the sun during the full equinoctial day was fixed at twenty-four paragraphs.

Is the Habit a Legacy From the Old Sun Worshipers?
The halfback, about to be tackled, stopped, then darted in a long curve toward the right. He was soon downed.

"The other side knew he would turn from left to right," said a veteran. "We all turn from left to right. To turn from right to left seems wrong, seems like reversing. We wind a watch from left to right, we turn a screw so, and so we write, and so we read."

"It all comes down to us from prehistoric times, from the sun worshipers. The sun moves from left to right, and their worshipers believed that all human actions must proceed accordingly. Well, they still do so."

"Churning is done as the sun moves, and there's a superstition that one reverse turn of the handle will spoil the butter."

"Cooks stir butter from left to right. A reversal, they say, would make the butter coarse and heavy."

"In a subconscious way, you see, sun worship is still the religion of man."—Exchange.

THE CANNON ROARED.
How an Ovation by a Youthful Demosthenes Was Spoiled.

While campaigning in his home state Speaker Cannon was once inveigled into visiting the public schools of a town where he was billed to speak.

In one of the lower grades an ambitious teacher called upon a youthful Demosthenes to entertain the distinguished visitor with an exhibition of amateur oratory. The selection attempted was Byron's "Battle of Waterloo," and just as the boy reached the end of the first paragraph Speaker Cannon suddenly gave vent to a violent sneeze.

"But hush, hark," declaimed the youngster—"a deep sound strikes like a rising knell! Did ye hear it?" The visitors smiled, and a moment later the second sneeze—which the speaker was vainly trying to hold back—came with increased violence.

"But hark!" bawled the boy—"that heavy sound breaks in once more. And nearer, clearer, deadlier than before! Arm! Arm! It is the cannon's opening roar!"

This was too much, and the laugh that broke from the party swelled to a roar when Uncle Joe chuckled: "Put up your weapons, children. I won't shoot any more."—Success Magazine.

The Cleveland Memorial Association has been formed, with headquarters in Newark, N. J., its object being to erect in Princeton a suitable memorial of the late ex-President Cleveland. By contributions throughout the State a fund of $100,000 is to be collected for this purpose. A general committee of fifty prominent citizens will be in charge of the project.
